

My Sister's Pink PJ Party raises over $9,000

The eighth-annual 'My Sister's Pink PJ Party' fundraiser drew more than 260 women to the Croatian Centre in Norval last Friday.

The event raised more than $9,000, with all proceeds going towards supporting the 'One Walk to Conquer Cancer' for the Princess Margaret Cancer Centre and Cancer Assistance Services Halton Hills.

Participants wore their pink pajamas, danced the night away to the music of DJ Tom Jokic from CHUM-FM, ate a delicious buffet dinner catered by La Vita Bakery and enjoyed the company of some representatives from the Brampton Fire Department.

Randy Melon, a long-time supporter of Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto, came to share her inspirational story of her personal battle with breast cancer and how to live life to its fullest.

My Sister's Pink PJ Party, which was hosted on January 22 at the Croatian Centre in Norval, raised over $9,000 to be donated to the One Walk to Conquer Cancer for the Princess Margaret Cancer Centre and Cancer Assistance Services Halton Hills. Above, 19 of the 260 women who attended the event fashion pink accessories.
