Grade 9 students in Halton Hills are welcome to attend an event in Burlington later this month called Women as Career Coaches (WACC).

The 12th-annual event takes place Thursday, March 31 at the Burlington Convention Centre and will be hosted by the Halton Industry Education Council (HIEC), a not-for-profit organization that aims to enhance career education and inspire youths to make informed career decisions.

It's free to attend, with dinner and transportation also provided at no charge. Tammy Christiansen, managing director for Georgetown-based AEble Business Services, is covering the cost of transportation. The event is scheduled to run from 5:15-9 p.m.

Comedian, actor and author Jessica Holmes will deliver the keynote address for the second year in a row to share her personal struggles balancing career, family and wellness.

It has grown over the years to host more than 700 women and their mentors and is a place that offers young women in the community a forum for support, encouragement and inspiration as they begin to imagine their career path.

Holmes, who is best known for her role on Royal Canadian Air Farce, will be highlighting the shared struggles of working women at the event. A Second City veteran, she has also published an autobiography I Love your Laugh: Finding the Light in my Screwball Life, which documents the personal and professional challenges she has faced and how she has worked to overcome them.
