

Georgetown Bread Basket opening doors to new facility this spring

The Georgetown Bread Basket has recently announced it will be moving to a brand new location to better serve the Georgetown community. The new facility, located on Mountainview Road North near Armstrong Avenue, is expected to open in the spring of 2018.

The food bank is currently located at 55 Sinclair Ave. near Guelph Street. Since first opening its doors in 1996, the food bank has seen an increase in the number of Georgetown residents who rely on the Georgetown Bread Basket to nourish themselves and their families. In recent years, the food bank has rapidly outgrown its current location and requires a larger facility to store food and serve local residents.

Lori Brading (left) and Susan Wery, co-event directors for the Georgetown Bread Basket Coldest Night of the Year, invite Halton Hills residents to get involved either as a participant or volunteer on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 24 to support the local food bank.

"We are excited to be moving into a larger facility that will allow us to better meet community demand," said Lori Brading, chair of the Georgetown Bread Basket. On Feb. 24, 2018, the Georgetown Bread Basket will be hosting the second annual Coldest Night of the Year, a fundraiser to raise money for the food bank. Proceeds of the 2018 fundraiser - dubbed "New Year, New Location" - will go directly toward retrofitting, moving and furnishing costs associated with the relocation. For more information, visit www.cnoy.org.
