"DON'T YOU WORRY."

How Shrewd Business Men Have Solved a Great Problem.

"Is there a fatality among our prominent men' is a question that we often ask. it is a question that perplexes our leading medical men," and they are at a loss to know how to answer it.

We sometimes think that if the physicians would give part of the energy to the consideration of this question that they give to combatting other schools of practice, it might be satisfactorily answered.

The fights of "isms" remind us often of the quarrels of old Indian tribes, that were only happy when they were annihilating each other.

If Allopathy makes a discovery that promises good to the race, Homœpathy derides it and breaks down its influence. If Homœpathy makes a discovery that promises to be a boon to to race, Allopathy attacks it.

It is absurd that these schools should fancy that all of good is in their methods and none it any other.

Fortunately for the people, the merit which these "isms" will not recognize is recognized by the public, and this public recognition, taking the form of a demand upon the medical profession, eventually compels it to recognize it.

Is it possible that the question has been answered by shrewd business men? A prominent man once said to an inquirer, who asked he how he got rich, "I got rich because I did things while other people were thinking about doing them." It seems to us that the public has recognized what this fatality it, and how it can be met, while the medical profession have been wrangling about it.

By a careful examination of insurance reports we find that there has been a sharp reform with reference to examinations, (and that no man can now get any amount of insurance who has the least development of kidney disorders) because they find that sixty out of every hundred in this country do, either directly or indirectly, suffer from kidney disease. Hence, no reliable company will insure a man except after a rigid urinary examination.

This reminds us of a little instance which occurred a short time ago. A fellow editor was an applicant for a respectable amount of insurance. He was rejected on examination, because, unknown to himself, his kidneys were diseased. The shrewd agent, however, did not give up the case. He had an eye to business and to his commission, and said: "Don't you worry; you get half a dozen bottles of Warner's safe cure, take it according to direction, and in about a month come around, and we will have another examination. I know you will find yourself all right and will get your policy."

The editor expressed surprise at the agent's faith, but the latter replied: "This point is a valuable one. Very many insurance agents all over the country, when they find a customer rejected for this cause, give similar advice, and eventually he gets the insurance."

What are to infer from such circumstances? Have shrewd insurance men, as well as other shrewd business men, found the secret answer to the inquiry? Is it possible that our columns have been proclaiming, in the form of advertisements, what has proved a blessing in disguise to millions, and yet by many ignored as an advertisement?

It our files we find thousands of strong testimonials for Warner's safe cure, no two alike, which could not exist except upon a basis of truth; indeed they are published under a guarantee of $5,000 to any one who will disprove their correctness, and this offer has been standing, we as told, for more than four years.

Undoubtedly this article, which is simply dealing out justice, will be considered an advertisement and be rejected by many as such.

We have not space nor time to discuss the proposition that a poor thing could not succeed to the extent that this great remedy has succeeded, could not become so popular without merit even if pushed by a Vanderbilt or an Astor.

Hence we take the liberty of telling our friends that it is a duty that they owe to themselves to investigate the matter and reflect carefully, for the statements published are subject to the refutation of the entire world. None have refuted them; on the contrary hundreds of thousands have believed them and proved them true, and in believing have found the highest measure of satisfaction, that which money cannot buy, and money cannot take away.

Ingrowing Toe Nails.

The following plan occurred to me some time since, and has proved effectual in every case when it has been tried, so far as I am informed. In the first place, if there are very exuberant granulations about the margin of the nail, touch them with pure carboric acid applied by means of a bit of stick. In most cases of is not strictly necessary; but it is painless, and hastens the process of cure. The next step is to apply a bit of felt plaster, which may be obtained of sufficient size by cutting up an ordinary corn or bunion plaster of the shops; as follows: Cut out a piece the size of the portion of the nail that is not covered by granulation tissue, moisten it and apply it to the nail, pressing it against the surrounding diseased tissue so as to crowd it away from the sharp edge of the nail. Fresh bits of plaster are to be applied from time to time, until the granulations have been crowded entirely off from the surface of the nail, and the nail itself has had a chance to grow to its natural size. The cure is then complete. —[Dr. Veeder in Journal of Chemistry.

Curling Vernacular.

(Grip.)

Inexperienced Member (to venerable skip)—Mr. MacFergus, what's a patlid?

Skip—Weel, div ye see, yo gowk! yo ding yer stane cannille, but nae sae feckly as tae hoggit. Nae haeflins fleg, nor jinkin turn, ye ken, but tentiely, that it aye gars snoovin an' straught as an elder's walk, hogsnouther'n amang the guards, till ye land on the varra tee. When yo've dun that, laddie, ye've med a pat-lid, and yo may bear the gree.

Inexperienced Member (somewhat piqued)—Thank you, Mr. MacFergus; no doubt the explanation is very accurate, but I think its lucidity would have been very much heightened if you had made it in English.

Skip—Tut man, an yo'll be a curler yo maun, faumeclyerise yersel' wi' the vernauckular.

The Evils of Early Rising.

Early rising, carried to extremes, impairs the vitality. I would as soon rob a child of its food or its clothing as to deprive it of sleep in the morning hours, when digestion is finished and dreams become sweet. For orphans—for I know from experience—dreamland excursions are often for years the best refuge from the realities of Christian civilization.—Herald of Health.

Scott Act Trials.

Four cases of Scott Act violation were before Police Magistrate Young, here, on Friday.

John Brain, brewer, was charged with selling intoxicating liquors between 1st and 31st days of Dec., 1886.

Robt. McKinnon, Albert Nixon and Jos. Hughson, swore they got nothing intoxicating from Mr. Brain during the last three months.

Thos. Hughson got eight gallons of beer from either one Boyd or Winters engaged at the brewery. Said he didn't expect to get it for nothing, would pay for it if bill was presented.

Mr. McGibbon, barrister, who appeared for the defendent, here conceded that Hughson got some beer without the knowledge of Brain Bros.

Wm. Perryman didn't get any beer from Brain Bros. for years.

Case adjourned.

Wm. Pitman was charged with selling intoxicating liquors between Dec. 1st, 1886 and January 31st, 1887.

John Langan drank pop, nothing else. Does not drink intoxicating liquors.

Hugh McGraw had water and pop on Thursday. Never drinks anything that would intoxicate.

Wm. Hoar had soft stuff at Mr. Pitman's two weeks ago. Hildibrand, from Acton, a friend, drank with him. Got nothing intoxicating from Mr. P. in months.

——— Haden drank at Pitman's in January, but nothing strong.

Case dismissed.

William Burnside was charged with breaking the Act between Dec. 24th and Jan. 1st.

Thos. Grandum hadn't had a drink in the house since Burnside came there.

Jos. Slater had nothing to drink there but tea in months.

Malcolm McKay said: Am not in the business now. Got enough of it. Take an occasional glass of ginger or "plain soda." Don't know of any person having had intoxicating liquor there in three months.

Jos. Thomas drank water and pop that he didn't think would intoxicate Likewise did Archie McLean.

Case dismissed.

Two charges were laid against Wm. Perryman.

Geo. Yemen had something to drink there three or four times in the last three months. Didn't know whether it would intoxicate or not. Thought it would.

Wm. Binghan drank pop and ginger tea there, asked for "" skey but they had none.

Jas. Price had so pop. Doesn't drink anything strong.

Case adjourned.

Second charge.—Inspector Brothers told the story of the seizure of a keg of beer from Perryman' hotel on 29th. Found the keg in the cellar. It was turned so the beer was running out. (wasted as it were.) To prevent this he turned it up and took it to Georgetown. Keg was marked "Brain Bros." On counter up tairs there were some suspicious looking glasses.

Geo. Yemen again swore that he got drink there in October, November and January, that might intoxicate.

Adjourned to Milton.

Quaint Old Marriage Records.

The world discourages, and rightly so, the marriage of December with May, and when such marriages took place in former times they were usually recorded in some such way as this: "22nd August (1782). At Bath, Captain Hamilton, aged 30, to Mrs. Munson, a lady of rank and fortune, aged 85." We may find even a distance of eighty years between an old man and his bride. In February, 1769, "Robert Judge, Esq., of Cooksburgh, Ireland, aged 95, to Miss Annie Nugent, aged 15. He served in King William's wars, and received a ball in his nose." Particulars of height, as well as of age, fortune, and length of courtship were often given: "December (1755). At York, Mr. Thomas, a grenadier in the Yorkshire militia, six feet two inches high, to Miss Hannah Tennick, of Clearham, three feet two inches high, with a fortune of five thousand pounds." And on April 5th, 1785, at Ripley church, Mr. Robert Long was married to Miss Raynard; between them there was disparity of both age and size, "the bridegroom being 37 years of age, and more than six feet high; the bride 20 years old and little more than three feet high." The record of a marriage in 1779 of a couple aged respectively 80 and 85 concludes thus: "And what is still more remarkable, there has been a courtship carried on betwixt them for more than sixty years."—Brooklyn Magazine.

Watering Cows in Winter.

A cow giving milk naturally drinks much more water than another animal of the same size. With the temperature down to zero or below, and drinking from a hole in the ice, this cold water will lower the temperature of her body for hours, retard digestion and decrease the yield of milk. The cow, in fact, will not drink much of this cold water, and this is one reason for decreased yield. In winter a little hot water to take the chill off will be a comfort for the cow, and a profit for her owner. We can well afford thus to exchange a little warm water for milk.

NOT A BOOK AGENT.

Mr. H. Watson, Druggist, is not a book agent, but has the agency in Milton for Johnson's Tonic Bitters, which he can heartily recommend for any complaint to which a tonic medicine is applicable. This valuable medicine has been used with most astonishingly good results in cases of general debility, weakness, irregularities peculiar to females, extreme paleness, impoverishment of the blood, stomach and liver troubles, loss of apuetite, and for that general worn out feeling that nearly every one is troubled with at some part of the year. Don't forget the name Johnson's Tonic Bitters 50c. and $1 per bottle at Watson's drug store.

The Louisville Courier-Journal publishes a report of tests made in the presence of one of its staff of a new process of hardening and tempering steel by which hardness and elasticity are carried forward in combination. A drill made of new steel, penetrated 40 minutes a steel safe plate warranted to resist any burglar drill for twelve hours. A penknife tempered by the process cut the stem of a steel key readily, and with the same blade the inventor shaved the hairs on his arm. The inventor is a young blacksmith, who claims that this tempering is conducted without expense or skilled labor. He has also a new process for converting iron into steel at small expense. He claims to be able to make steel-plate so elastic and hard as to resist a ball fired from the heaviest gun ever constructed.

Every now and then instances are turning up of colored people who have actually been kept in slavery all these twenty years and more since the Empancipation Proclamation and the close of the American civil war. A Charleston special says that information of a reliable character has just been received of the discovery of a negro man in one of the narrow valleys near Hogback Mountain, not far from Greenville, who has just learned of his emancipation. He is a great broad negro, of heavy physique, and somewhat striped appearance. His story is that since the war he has been working for Mr. Holly and that he was not allowed to come back to his kinsfolk; that he was flogged by his master, who gave him no money and few clothes. The man's name is Calvin Garmany. He ran off to the mountains just after the war and was only recently heard of by his brother, who lives near Greenville, and who rescued him from seclusion last week.

On nothing will the young hog grow so rapidly as on peas. Peas contain twenty-four per cent. of gluten or muscle forming material, while corn contains only sixteen per cent. Hence the fact, so well attested by experience, that no better feed can be given growing hogs than peas, particularly when they are on the vines, fresh and soft. —B. Puryear.

A sporting character from Peel was in the village on Monday trying to invest surplus wealth on the result of the election contest in South Wellington. Not finding many disposed to gamble on the result, he hailed a passing farmer with a load of hay and bet him that his load did not contain the weight claimed. The granger had weighed his load and knew the weight of his sleigh, he took the wager, and the smart Alexander from Peel lost a portion of his wealth.—Erin Advocate.

A number of farmers of Dunwich township have succumbed recently to a very old swindle. It is done this way. The agent calls on the farmer, offers a sample of spring wheat for sale at $15 per bushel, promises to take the crop at $10 per bushel (the wheat is usually sold in fifteen bushel lots), the farmer gives a note for the amount, and before the gentle spring opens the note is transferred and sent in for collection and the farmer pays $15 for wheat worth about 75 cents.

An Ottawa telegram says: Sir John Lester Kaye, who for a considerable time past has been in this city in connection with his stock farm project, has just completed organization of a powerful syndicate for the purpose of working ten farms of ten thousand acres each in the Northwest Territories. His associates are all Englishmen, and they have decided to place the capital stock at the high figure of £1,300,000. Sir John will sail for England from New York on Saturday for the purpose of making final arrangements. The farms comprise entire sections, and are located at points along the line of the C. P. R. The syndicate has secured an enormous extent of territory located on the Red Deer River. The newly-acquired sections will be converted into a cattle range from which material for the farms will be selected from time to time.

CAMPBELL'S TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

Sold by all Dealers in Family Medicines.
