A CHILD JAILED.—Yesterday evening Chief Constable Search of Georgetown came to Milton with a seven-year-old boy named Sutherland, whom he left in charge of Jailer Vanallen. It seems that the child placed an obstruction of some kind on the G. T. R. track, and was prosecuted by officials of the company who, though informed of the age of the youngster, insisted on prosecuting him, claiming that he was old enough to be responsible. He was committed for trial.

A LIVELY PICNIC.—It is reported on good authority that at a picnic at Crowson's Corners, about two miles above Acton, on Dominion Day a man had a booth erected, and in it sold swamp whiskey and beer openly. People who were at the picnic say that there were hundreds of men and boys reeling drunk, and that there were horses standing tied to trees in the woods on the next morning, the owners being too drunk to go home. The Scott Act prohibits in the rural districts, doesn't it?

LAWN SOCIAL.—The lawn social on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. Lawrence Hager, for the benefit of the parsonage fund of the Palermo Methodist Church, was largely attended and was a most enjoyable affair. The Milton band played at intervals; Misses Post, Appelbe and Hager, contributed vocal selections, and Misses Andrews and Morse and Mr. Fisher gave recitations. Rev. Mr. Stewart and Dr. Buck superintended the proceedings. On the way down from Milton there was an exciting race between the band wagon and a vehicle occupied by a party of pleasure seekers from the town.

Delightful rain showers fell again Saturday throughout the North-West and the crops are in splendid condition. Barley on the Canadian Pacific Railway farms is over eighteen inches high and promises abundantly. Vegetation looks fine.

A man named Jos. Elliston had his two little sons out boating on the bay at Toronto, Saturday evening, when one of the children fell overboard. The father jumped overboard and succeeded in rescuing the child, but was drowned himself.

Montreal Witness: The farmers of Haldimand apparently do not believe that Commercial Union between Canada and the United States would bring about a separation from Great Britain and annexation to the United States, for they have held a Jubilee picnic in honor of the Queen as loyal subjects and seized the opportunity to pass resolutions in favor of Commercial Union.

A Woodstock boy named Robertson made a gun of gas pipe filled at the end with a wooden plug. He persuaded another boy named William Kerr to hold the weapon to his shoulder while he touched it off, and the whole charge struck Kerr in the face, destroying one of his eyes and severely injuring the other.

London society circles are suffering from cramps and epileptic fits brought on by the discovery that an Italian nobleman, who frequented the most exclusive society and clubs at night sells tinware from a hand-cart in the suburbs during the day. The shame and humiliation of some of the girls upon finding out that they had been entertaining a nobleman who actually earns his own living have made them seriously ill.—London Free Press.

According to The Wiarton Echo a middle-aged bachelor from the North-west, named Henry Wynn, who was visiting his brother at Owen Sound a short time ago, conceived the notion that he should get married before his return. It was necessary that the preliminary proceedings should not be delayed, and as he was acquainted with no one of the opposite sex in the town except his brother's wife, he offered her a deed of fifty acres of land if she would get him a wife by the Saturday following the date of the offer. Mrs. Wynn met with indifferent success until Friday, when she met a Miss Bellrose, willing to accept matrimony on any reasonable terms. The two were introduced to each other on Saturday evening just as the boat was leaving. A consultation was held, the pair were married on the spot. Mrs. Wynn was handed over the deed for the fifty acres of land, and the bride and groom steamed away for their prairie home.

The line from Smith's Falls to Montreal is expected to be open in about three weeks.

John Coalman, who says he came from Nebraska, stopped over at Woodstock on Sunday and tried to get a drink at a hotel. Being refused, he accepted the invitation of Henry Cook to take a walk, with the prospects of a drink from Cook's private flask. When a convenient wood was reached Coalman was induced to remove his coat and vest, in the later of which was said to be a considerable sum of money, after which Cook beat him unmercifully with a board on his head, and forced him to leave the garments behind. Cook was arrested.

The scheme for a separation of Church and State in France has reached the stage of a committee report. It provides for the complete withdrawal of Government subsidies; for resuming possession by the State of various religious edifices and real and personal properties; for small pensions to clergymen now receiving a stipend; for voluntarily religious organizations, and for the renting of edifices to such organizations by municipal councils.

The effect of the high license law in Minnesota has been to wipe out five hundred saloons, or about 20 per cent of the whole. This ought to attract the attention of local temperance men who are anxious to reduce the number of grog shops. But in Minnesota it is found that the wiping out of five hundred saloons has not materially affected the consumption of liquor. There are, however, two things that high license does do: it puts the business into more respectable hands and increases the revenue.—Spectator.

Artificial clouds were recently made for the protection of vines from frost near Pagny, on the Franco-German frontier. Liquid tar was ignited in tin boxes, and pieces of solid tar on the ground near the vines. Large clouds of smoke arose and protected the vineyard for two hours. Although vines in the neighborhood were injured by the frost, all that remained under the clouds were left uninjured. Of course the contrivance can succeed only in calm weather, but it is only in calm weather that white frosts occur.

There is no dissenting voice to the outcry against the new British coinage. There is a practical grievance in the case. The six-pence can be gilded into an identical resemblance to the half sovereign. The Gaiety bar took in thirteen of these and the Crystal Palace forty-one in a single day; but the objection to all on account of their ugliness is so strong that Boehm, the sculptor, who modelled the head, is forced in self-defence to explain that he made a good effigy, but the Queen personally insisted on the alterations which have so offended the public eye. In consequence Mr. Boehm will get no more jobs at Windsor, but he at least will not be the only artistic laughing stock of Europe.

How Prohibition Prohibits

It is becoming a thing so much a matter of course to see Indians in a state of intoxication as to make it doubtful if this is so much a Prohibition country as we say it is.—Saskatchewan Herald.

The Vancouver, B. C., News, complains that a veritable Chinese quarter is being built up in that town, and that the police require to see to the "gambling that is carried on at all hours of the night, over which the poor coolies that are earning but a poor sustenance are being nightly fleeced out of their surplus cash by a set of thieves who, if they were white, would not be allowed to run the games they do in such a bare-faced and open manner."

NOT A BOOK AGENT.

Mr. H. Watson, Druggist, is not a book agent, but has the agency in Milton for Johnson's Tonic Bitters, which he can heartily recommend for any complaint to which a tonic medicine is applicable. This valuable medicine has been used with most astonishingly good results in cases of general debility, weakness, irregularities peculiar to females, extreme paleness, impoverishment of the blood, stomach and liver troubles, loss of appetite, and for that general worn out feeling that nearly every one is troubled with at some part of the year. Don't forget the name Johnson's Tonic Bitters 50c. and $1 per bottle at Watson's drug store.
