NEVER TRIED IT.

What Never-tried Johnson's Tonic Bitters? Then do so at once, it's positively the best general tonic on the market. I've often heard of it but thought that it was to be placed on the list of the many trashy preparations that flood our market, but since you recommend it so highly, I'll give it a trial. Do so, it's good for any complaint in which a tonic is benefit, and can be taken by man, woman, or child. 50c. and $1 per bottle at H. Watson's drug store, Milton.

Tests of Salt in Butter-Making.

PROF. JAMES W. ROBERTSON.

That the influence of salt on the quality of the butter to which it is added is not confined to the imparting of a salt flavor, has long been admitted. A few tests were undertaken during the season of 1886, at the Agricultural College Creamery, from which it was expected that conclusions useful for the guidance of butter-makers could be drawn; but little steady light is thrown by them on the disputed point as to which salt is the best for preserving butter. Many defects in quality, recognized after the lapse of time and which have been attributed to the use of unsuitable salt, will have to be laid at the door of some other condition or cause.

On August 12 several lots of butter were weighed from one churning and salted with salt of as many different brands, at the rate of one ounce per pound of butter.

On August 13 the same was done with the butter from another churning.

On August 15 and 21 two tests were prepared for, in a like manner, with the use of three-quarters of an ounce per pound of butter.

On August 26 and September 3 a rate of half an ounce of salt per pound of butter was applied in the same way.

From four to six lots of butter were weighed from the same churn, on each of these six occasions.

The butter was packed in tin-lined tabs and kept in a cellar where the temperature was purposely made to fluctuate from 40° to 50° Fahr., to try its keeping qualities.

The Canadian makes of salt used were Coleman's, Kidd's, Rice's and Rogers's; the English makes used were Ashton's, and Higgins's.

At the convention of the Ontario Creameries Association held in March, 1887, F. W. Fearman, Esq., Hamilton, James Park, Esq., Toronto, and Thomas Johnstone, Esq., Toronto, were appointed a Committee of Examination. The judging was deferred till 22nd and 28th March. The different lots were known to the judges by numbers only, there being no indication on the tubs as to the kind or quantity of salt used. The object of the judging was, to arrange in the order of their merit the different tubs in each lot from the one churning.

There was the widest difference of opinion in some cases among the judges as to the relative merits of the different tubs in the same lot. Some butter salted with every one of the different brands of salt was awarded by merit the first place in at least one of the several comparisons. No one kind showed such superiority over the others, on the average of the tests, as to deserve special mention. The average merit of the Canadian salt was slightly higher than that of the English, but the average loss of weight by the addition of salt and working was slightly in favor of the English article.

In a comparison as to the qualities of the butter from using different quantities of the same salt in several lots from one churning at the end of six months, the butter salted three quarters of an ounce to the pound was placed first; one ounce to the pound second; one-half ounce to the pound third; one and a quarter ounces to the pound fourth; one-quarter of an ounce to the pound last and very inferior.

In cases where the salt was slow of dissolving and where the butter had been left without the addition of fresh brine, the resultant porosity of body caused it to go off in flavor.

Contact between the salt-plaster and the wood of the tub covers seemed to convey and impart a woody flavor to the top of the butter.

I would recommend—

I. The use of pure, clean salt of as nearly as possible uniform sized grains, which dissolve readily and completely before the butter is worked the second time.

II. The use of a parchment or parafine paper covering on the top of the salt-plaster.

III. Attention to the frequent brining of the tubs to replace the moisture removed by evaporation.

IV. Care in keeping the temperature of the store room steady.

THE MILITIA.

There is a marked feeling prevading the militia force that a great change involving practically the re-organization of the system is about to be consummated. This feeling has been strengthened by the activity displayed by Major-General Middleton in travelling over the country for the purpose of inspecting as far as possible every brigade camp and every corps authorized to perform its annual drills at its own headquarters. These inspections appear to be much more more than mere formalities. The interior economy of the several corps was enquired into, their establishments, their strength in camp, and the number of recruits, etc. After his inspection of such of the camps as he was able to go to last year, the General advised a thorough reorganization of the force, and the Government is understood to have delayed coming to a decision until after this year's turns out. Very little if any improvement is reported of the musters at any of the camps and knowing ones say the changes may be considered as agreed to by the powers that be. The changes suggested are sweeping and are concisely put in the General's report last year and published in the sparsely circulated the blue book of the department. The General's chief object is to reduce the strength of the force and improve the discipline and armament of the remnant. He says in his report:

"I beg leave to urge the absolute necessity of reducing the strength of the force. It at the present consists of a much greater number of men than can be properly or usefully trained, considering the money voted for that purpose. As I have said before, for the force to be at all efficient, every soldier should be called out at least for 16 days every year of his service."

The General condemns the present system of calling out the rural corps for 12 days' drill every second year as perfectly useless.

The General's suggestions, which it is understood, will be carried out are:

First—That the strength of the rural corps shall be reduced.

Second—That corps shall be compelled to muster for drill in the newly authorized strength, if necessary the ballot being resorted to to fill the ranks.

Third—That every corps must drill each year and that the camps of the rural corps must be increased by at least four or five days.

Fourth—That the city corps should be improved by arming them with Martini Henry rifles, of which there are sufficient in store, and by providing them with paid adjutants, who would act as musketry instructors to the rural corps in their districts.

Fifth—That the permanent force be reorganized and increased.

This scheme depends entirely upon a very large reduction of the rural force, as the General figures upon effecting an improvement without any increased expenditure. His argument is that it is preferable to have a thoroughly drilled and reliable force, though small, than a large force, as at present, the greater portion of which is effective only so far as drawing the Government allowances is concerned.

THE QUEBEC FIRE.

QUEBEC, July 7.—The fire which broke out in the cavalry stables at the citadel near midnight last night was got well under control at 5 o'clock this morning and the excited citizens, who feared a terrible conflagration, sought their homes. The alarm throughout the city was most intense at one time. There were fully 5,000 men, women and children walking about the streets. Many made their way to the surrounding country, fearing there was danger of the magazine exploding. The total loss, it is estimated, will reach $150,000, on which there is no insurance. The origin of the fire has not yet been ascertained, but it is thought that the stable picket, who is alway kept in the stable and whose duty it is to look carefully at certain hours after the horses and provender, was asleep when the fire appeared. This sentinel has the privilege of retiring during the night for a short time. All information regarding the origin of the fire will likely be ascertained at the investigation which the military authorities will hold at an early day. The stables and sheds on the ramparts are built entirely of wood of light construction and of such nature that no imperial corps would have tolerated their use in such an important place as the citadel, and in a place where large quantities of gunpowder are stored. They proved a veritable tinderbox and the flames spread from point to point, destroying and laying low everything that they touched. The Governor-General and officers' quarters, stables of the artillery, hospital and provincial armory, which contains 25,000 stands of arms, were uninjured.

The distressing paleness so often observed in young girls and women, is due in a great measure to a lack of the red corpuscles in the blood. To remedy this requires a medicine which produces these necessary little blood co-rizerts, and the best yet discovered is Johnson's Ionid Bitters. Price 50 cts. and $1 per bottle, at Watson's drug store, Milton.

The statistics of the growth of the Church of England and of the good deeds done by Churchmen during the fifty years' reign of Queen Victoria are thus summarized by the New York Churchman: A carefully drawn up table shows that 6,000 churches and places of worship have been built, as against 3,000 by all outside religious denominations put together. The home episcopate has been increased by seven new dioceses, and the Colonial by sixty-two. Within the last twenty-five years $405,000,000 has been freely and voluntarily subscribed for Church purposes, and $110,000,000 for the purpose of elementary education in voluntary schools—all under the oversight and government of the Church.

It is reported from Idaho that a number of Chinese mining camps along Snake River have been raided, either by Indians or whites. About fifty prominent Conservatives met in the Queen's hotel, Toronto, last week, to discuss the proposed issue of a new Conservative organ to be called the Empire. Dr. O'Reilly, Inspector of Prisons and Asylums, stated that the insane asylums of the Province are still filled with patients. At the close of last month the number in the asylums was as follows:—London, 901; Toronto, 693; Kingston, 679; Hamilton, 610; total, 2,883. Besides these institutions, there is the Orillia asylum for idiots and feeble-minded persons, which contained 212 patients at the end of May, the number being almost stationary from month to month.

A singular practice has grown up among the Scandinavian emigrants in the Northwest. The severity of the climate in some parts of Dakota and Minnesota makes winter employment an impossibility, and the Scandinavian settlers, or large numbers of them, start for Europe in the late fall, spend the winter in Scandinavia, and then return to America in the spring or early summer. The round trip from the Northwest to Sweden and return does not cost them over $100.

According to a cablegram from London, the Prince of Wales took several prizes at the Norfolk show, which was held in the beautiful park of Blickling Hall. Lady Lothian's grand old seat near Aylsham. In one class, for Southdown sheep, a Sandringham flock actually beat the animals sent by Mr. Colman, M. P., who is usually invincible. As it was, he took six prizes out of seven in the sheep classes. A remarkable novelty at this show was the exhibition of several animals from Lady Lothian's unique herd of white polled cattle, the beasts having black ears and points. A bull took first prize, beating several fine Herefords. This curious herd has been kept at Blicking since the reign of Charles II. It represents one of the oldest types of cattle in the world.

New York Times:—"The temperance sentiment in this country has grown steadily for a century and more, and restrictive legislation is the result and not the cause of it. It is to be doubted whether prohibition, where it has been adopted as a policy, is a legitimate result. It is an effort by the majority to coerce the minority in a matter in which it can only be justified by clear and positive benefits to the community as a whole, and we doubt very seriously whether it has not been as much a hindrance as a help to the cause of temperance. It is in the larger towns and cities that restriction is most needed, and if prohibitory laws are not there enforced the result is a practically unrestrained traffic in liquor, which is all the more mischievous, because free from the control of law."

BLACK KNOT IN TREES:—At the meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, held at Collingwood on the 1st of July, a paper on the above subject was read by Secretary Wolverton accompanied by explanatory diagrams, on this subject, contributed by Professor Panton, of Guelph Agricultural College. After an exhaustive scientific description of the inception of the spores by which this pest is produced, the essayist went on to say that in spite of all the research and experiment that had been devoted to this matter no remedy has yet been found but the knife, and recommended its immediate use on the first sign of the pest. The infected limb when removed should be burned immediately, as otherwise the spores would spread the disease. He strongly recommended those engaged in the culture to pay more attention to the enforcement to the excellent law on the subject, the non observance of which he characterized as a "silent monument of the indifference and ignorance of those who should co operate in lighting it as a common foe."
