LAST winter W. D. Brothers and Richard White, printers, the former of whom is better known as the didn't-know-it-was-loaded license inspector of Halton, in the Scott Act organ published by them in Milton, accused Reeve McCollom and County Clerk Panton of crooked work in the opening of tenders for county printing. The result was that Mr. McCollom laid an information against them, charging them with criminal libel and they were committed for trial, but released on bail. Their case came up at the spring assizes, but fell through owing to the crown counsel neglecting to put the prosecutor into the witness box before closing his case, expecting to have an opportunity to make use of him and others later as witnesses for rebuttal. Judge Armour ruled that this could not be done, the result was that there was nothing to go to the jury, and the defendants escaped by a "fluke." They did not seem to properly understand this, but ever since, they and their friends have been crowing over the complainant, accusing the latter of having been afraid, owing to a guilty conscience, of entering the witness box. Two weeks ago the didn't-know-it-was-loaded inspector and his partner again published the alleged libel, this time being particularly severe on the county clerk and calling on the County Council to dismiss him as untrustworthy. This was followed last week by the publication of a letter in the interest of an individual well known for his consuming hunger for office. This longing was gratified a few years ago when he was a resident of Waterdown, and after he had failed in attempts to secure other offices, by his appointment to the exalted position of pound-keeper; but in Milton he apparently is not properly appreciated. He was beaten out of sight when a candidate for town councillor, he could get no one to nominate him when he wanted the mayoralty, and when last January he put in a tender for the office of county clerk at half the salary paid to the present incumbent, the County Council refused to accept his services at any price. The printing tender episode, however, appears to have renewed his hopes—hence last week's letter. The County Council met on Tuesday, they ignored the claims of the ox-pound-keeper and the attacks on the county clerk, but nevertheless the latter has laid an information before Mayor Hannaut, charging Brothers & White with criminal libel. The case will come up on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, and if the defendants are committed for trial it will be seen whether or not Reeve McCollom is afraid to enter the witness box.

THE law under which Police Magistrate Young is allowed to deduct whatever costs he chooses to allow himself and his constables and inspector from the moneys he receives from Scott Act fines and pay the balance over to the county treasurer in lump sums, unaccompanied by any detailed statement, requires amending. He may be honest, and possibly his balances are correct, though he has been accused of making excessive charges; but there is no reason why it should be taken for granted that he and other police magistrates are more honest than ordinary justices of the peace, whose accounts for costs have to be submitted to the auditors of criminal justice accounts. The motion submitted to the county council on Tuesday by Mr. Folan was a most reasonable one. It was urged in support of it that it was a well known fact that defendants and witnesses in Scott Act cases from Milton, for instance, were frequently dragged all the way to Oakville to suit the convenience of the police magistrate, who lives in the latter town, and that costs were thus made much heavier than they should be. This was not disputed, but the resolution was voted down because there was nothing in the statutes in support of it, and even if it were passed, the magistrate could use his own discretion about ignoring or obeying it. Of course he would do the former if conscious of having made illegal charges, and as the object of the motion was to prevent such charges, nothing would have been gained by carrying it. All magistrates should be placed on an equal footing and compelled to account fully for whatever moneys pass through their hands.

Dufferin Police Magistrate on the Scott Act.

Dufferin Post.

In the trial of the Bennet case at the court house on Saturday Police Magistrate Gray made use of the following striking and forcible remarks:—

"I have become thoroughly convinced that the Scott Act is a complete farce, and the more experience I acquire as magistrate the more satisfied do I become in my conviction. The temperance people, who secured my appointment and induced me to accept the office, are not supporting me as they promised. They expect me to do all the work. There are thirty-two constables in the county, but not one of them can be induced to act. When I do succeed in getting a case into court I find it almost impossible to secure a conviction. Witnesses are prepared to perjure themselves in order to defeat the ends of the law. I find all the legal talent of the county arrayed against me, and if by chance a conviction is secured the lawyers set to work with diligence to discover some flaw in the proceedings in order to have the conviction quashed. I am convinced from my experience that THE IMPOSITION OF HIGH LICENSE IS THE BEST AND ONLY WAY OF REGULATING THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC. Three years ago I supported and voted for the Scott Act, but I now feel that it was a great mistake. These are my honest convictions, and I don't care who knows them."

Work on the Guelph Junction Railway.

GUELPH, Sept. 6.—The contractors for the construction of the Guelph Junction Railway have now a gang of men at work clearing bush, etc., between York-road and the river. The right of way has been procured between the York-road and Arkell, with the exception of McQuillan's farm. The remainder of the right of way to Campbellville, which has not been purchased, and which is not very much, is being negotiated for.

Oakville Wants Waterworks.

Star.

The people of the county town of Halton have resolved to introduce a system of waterworks for better protection from fire. It is to be hoped that the citizens of this town will at an early date advance a practical scheme for bringing the waters of the lake along the more closely settled streets, and bring them with a power that will knock a hole in a stone wall. No town can take to much precaution against fire.

Punish the Drinkers.

London Free Press.

If drunkenness be a disease, it is the victim of it that should be put under treatment, not the entire community subjected to penalty through such an instrument as the Scott Act. Punish the drinkers, who number only about one or two per cent. of the population.

Trapped by Honeymoners.

Weekly.

The biggest practical joke that has been perpetrated on the public for a long time was that that carried out by two dandies who worked the northern country as Scott Act detectives in disguise. The first heard of the pair was from The Globe, some of the members of whose staff were on the press excursion that "did" Muskoka a few weeks ago. On Aug. 2 a writer of that paper described at length a newly married couple that got on the boat at Barrie and accompanied the party to Peninsular Point. The bride and groom caused no end of amusement to the brethern of the press. To them the couple appeared as original and veritable specimens of back township simplicity, making the grand tour on the occasion of their wedding, and enjoying in child-like innocence the happiness of their honeymoon. This is how The Globe man describes them:

The bride has an enormous white veil, has her hair arranged (new), has a dress of an outspoken blue and white check, has a tat star of the same material on her breast and also one of the same pattern on each side of her head, and the groom wears another of identical build and dimensions upon his bosom just above his heart on the east side from the bride. This confusion of stars is explained by the fact that on the occasion of the ceremony there was one each provided for bride, bridegroom, best man and the bridesmaids. After the hitch in the proceedings the best man and bridesmaid, not proposing a similar enterprise, surrendered their proportion of the starry outfit in order to add to the bride's decoration for the wedding journey. The groom was not especially noticeable except that he wore a pair of carpet slippers as his single item of wedding finery and sat with his arms a couple of times around his bride and held her to his high side with a desperate grip, as though an attempt at escape was considered among the possibilities.

Afterwards the press brethern introduced themselves to the couple and a reception was given to the swains, the entertainment terminating by the singing of "They Are All Jolly Good Fellows" by the party. It is added that "the interesting couple seemed much pleased with the courtesies extended them by the excursionists."

It now turns out that the worthy editors who were with the press party were hugely hoaxed, for the simple couple were none other than Scott Act detectives arrayed in this unexpected garb. It was not the press party alone, however, that were deceived. A prominent lawyer said to a World reporter yesterday that he had seen the couple on the streets of Barrie, and such an amount of "greenness" did they exhibit in their conduct that he was lost in astonishment for fully half a hour.

He thought it was the genuine article, and now that the hoax has been made public, the said Q. C. can hardly keep the tears from flowing; so ludicrously does the situation affect him. Hundreds of people were deceived. But those who experienced the deception worst of all were the hotelkeepers of Barrie, Orillia and several northern resorts at which the festive bridal couple had called and partaken of liquid nurture in the shape of spirits. These were the individuals who experienced the practical part of the joke. They were summoned in large numbers before the local magistrates and fined heavily for selling liquor contrary to the act. They never got over the joke thoroughly till they were asked to settle with the court. The names of the two gay jokers have not reached Toronto, but of the truth of the above recital of their doings there can be no doubt.

BURNED IN A THEATRE.

LONDON, Sep. 5.—A theatre at Exeter took fire this morning during a performance of the "Romany Rye." There was only one exit from the gallery and the crush was terrific. Scores were trodden under foot and suffocated. A fire escape was brought to a window and many inside were rescued. Sixty corpses have been removed. The injured survivors were sent to the hospital. The mortality is estimated at 100. The structure burned was the Theatre Royal. It was built after the latest designs and was elaborately fitted, being considered one of the prettiest in the kingdom. There was a full house to night and everything was all right until the end of the third act, at half-past ten, when a drop scene fell and in a moment the whole stage was a mass of fire. A wild panic ensued. The occupants of the stalls, pit and dress circle escaped after a dreadful crushing, many being badly bruised. The actors and actresses were in their dressing-rooms when the fire began and all escaped. The fire orginated in the flies and spread rapidly, filling the theatre with a dense smoke. The occupants of the upper circle and gallery rushed to the windows, screaming frantically. Many jumped from the windows and were injured. Others were rescued with the aid of ladders. The fire blazed fiercely, lightning up the whole city. People were soon flocking to the scene in thousands, inquiring for friends. The scene inside the theatre when the fire broke out was awful. Some men implored the audience to be cool, but it was impossible to check the frantic rush. The theatre hose was brought into use in a few minutes, but the water had little effect on the flames. The actors and actresses were taken from the windows with the aid of ladders. They lost everything except what they wore at the time. Up to the present time one hundred and thirty bodies have been recovered. They are almost unrecognisable. Thirty injured survivors have been taken to the hospital. The fire burned throughout the night. The search for the bodies proceeds slowly. In many cases every shred of clothing is burned off, and the bodies look black and raw. There are various reports as to the origin of the fire. It is only certain that the flames broke out in the scene-shifter's department. Those who escaped say that the special exit was promply opened.

MOTHERS!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

The agitation for the organisation of the British born residents of Chicago, with a view to their exercising their legitimate influence in politics, brings to light the fact that there are in Chicago 20,000 Canadian born people of voting age. In other words, there are a greater number of Canadians in Chicago than there are in Toronto.—Globe.

NEVER TRIED IT."

What! Never tried Johnson's Tonic Bitters! Then do so at once, it's positively the best general tonic on the market. I've often heard of it but thought that it was to be placed on the list of the many trashy preparations that flood our market, but since you recommend it so highly i'll give it a trial. Do so, it's good for any complaint in which a tonic is benefit, and can be taken by man, woman, or child, 50c. and $1 per bottle at H. Watson's drug store, Milton.

The Island of Manitoulin is rapidly coming to the front as a field for stock raising. Only a few years since cattle had to be imported for local consumption. Now, however, the returns of municipal assessors indicate a total of between seven and eight thousand cattle on the island and a like number of sheep. Last year a thousand head of each were shipped from island ports, and there will not be less for export this year. Stock will be prime condition for market in a fortnight.

LOWVILLE.

The farmers in this vicinity have commenced seeding.

The coon hunting season has opened, and now plums, pears, &c., will have to suffer.

This mission is still without a resident clergyman, the Rev. E. Belt having received an appointment at the Church of Ascension in Hamilton. Mr. Roberts, a lay reader in St. John's Church, Nassagaweya, has conducted the services for the past two Sundays, and delivered two excellent sermons. What we need here at present is a smart and active young minister who would be popular with both congregations.

Another death occurred in Kilbride last week. A lady from Toronto (whose name we have been unable to learn) who was visiting at Mr. John Burns's, of that place, was taken ill with inflammation of the bowls and died a few days afterwards.

It is my sad duty this week to chronicle the sudden death of Willie, eldest son of Mr. Riby Ellis, who passed to his eternal rest on Saturday last, Sept. 3rd, after only a few day's illness of inflammation of the bowls. His remains were interred in the family burial plot, in St. George's cemetery on Monday last, whither they were followed by a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives. Rev. Rural Dean Mackenzie, of Milton, performed the last sad rites. Willie was a smart and intelligent youth for his age, having only seen about thirteen summers, and had always enjoyed good health. He was a member of the bible class of St. George's Church, and had endeared himself to both teacher and scholars, as well as to all with whom he came in contact, by his amiable and loving disposition, and, as the light of his home, he will be greatly missed. None but those who have been thus afflicted by the Almighty hand of God can know how it wrung the parents' heart to see their first born thus suddenly and early taken from them. But there is consolation in the thought that it is but a temporal separation. Christ's own words should bring comfort to the sorrowing heart when he said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not for such is the kingdom of heaven," and again: "He is not dead, but sleepeth,"—for truly death is only transmission, passing from this life to a happier and brighter one beyond. Our harvest has ended, but God's will continue unto the end of time. Mr. Ellis and his family have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

—LILLIAN.

The September Wide Awake has a vivid, valuable, timely article for which it is sure to be treasured, and for which it should be taken into every schoolroom in America and into every home; we refer to "The Centennial of the Constitution of the United States." by Mrs. Annie Sawyer Downs, describing graphically the making of the Constitution one hundred years ago (Sept. 7, 1787), and profusely illustrated from photographs of original portraits and statues and relics in Independence Hall, views of the Hall, and fac-similes of the opening, and the signatures appended to the great document, from photographs of the original parchments furnished to the magazine from the State Department at Washington. Another paper of interest comes in Mrs. Bolton's series "Some Successful Women," which narrates the noble Red Cross work of Clara Barton; all girls with "nothing to do" should read it. A curious and amusing article by C. F. Holder, the naturalist, describes "How Animals Talk." Margaret Sidney's Concord paper will be carefully saved by all who sometime mean to visit this historic New England village, and looked at regretfully by those who have been there—they will wish they had had so good a guide. Miss Guiney's "Fairy Folk All" will delight all lovers of fairy stories. "The Young Prince of Commerce" visits that wonderful place, the New York Stock Exchange. In "The Secrets at Roselandies" little Noanie goes out riding in her nightgown. The mysteries thicken in Craddock's serial "Knecdon Bluffs." The La Rose Blanche story "A Soldier's Trust" shows a chivalrous young Southerner in a most chivalrous situation; it is a delicious story. "Lucy's High Tea," by Sophia May, is very amusing. "The Molasses Gingerbread Business," by Mrs. Margaret Storer Warner, narrates how a dear little girl made a cosey home for herself and her brother. In "The Lost Medicine of the Utes" Howling Wolf despairingly shoots an arrow at the camp of "the brass-button man" and goes off to Geronimo. The number contains, besides countless pictures, poems, jingles, "tangles" and bits of wisdom.

Only $2.40 a year. D. Lothrop Company, Boston, Mass.

On Thursday noon Wesley Urquhart, the 17-year-old son of Alex. Urquhart of Udora, Ontario County, went to lead a bull to the back fields when in some way the brute attacked and killed him. No one witnessed the dreadful occurrence, and the lad was not missed until late at night, when his body was found shockingly mangled. The animal had never previously shown any vicious tendency.

We notice that our west end cotemp. publishes a list of fines in the various Scott Act counties, and complains of the small number of fines in Oxford. Is the amount of money gathered in as fines a test of the efficiency of the Act? The fines in some counties have recently been very numerous, and may be taken as a sure indication of the failure of the Act, or is the Scott Act to be merely used as a medium for increasing the revenue. We should think the small number of convictions in Oxford ought to be taken as a corroboration of the strong Scott Act advocates who say the Act is a grand success in Oxford.—Woodstock Times.

On Monday the executive committee of the school trustees association of Ontario waited upon Hon. Mr. Ross in Toronto regarding the proposed chance in the mode of distributing grants to the high schools and collegiate institutes. The following gentlemen were present: J. E. Fairwell, Whitby; Warren F. Barton, Hamilton; Dr. Burns, Caledonia; S. S. Fuller, Stratford; James Loth, Toronto, and J. B. Dow, Whitby. It was very strongly represented to the minister that if the proposed change was made at once, and a substantial portion of the income of many of the schools taken away, it would cripple them for the present year, as all the boards have made their estimates for the year on the basis of the present grants. Mr. Ross saw the force of the objection, and promised not to put the change in force until January or probably July, 1888.
