THE CANADIAN CHAMPION

MILTON, OCTOBER 27, 1887.

Peter Camp's saloon, Peru, Indiana, was blown up by dynamite on Friday morning, and a man fatally injured. Though the "temperance" men of Indiana can't get prohibition, they seem determined to get rid of the saloon all the same. What do their Canadian brethren think of their "plan of campaign."

HALTON'S POLICE MAGISTRATE.

One of the charges brought against Police Magistrate Young by the petitioners who have asked the Ontario Government to appoint a commission to investigate his mode of administrating justice is that he makes a practice when on the bench of garbling the evidence given before him, suppressing as far as possible such portions as favor the defence, and exaggerating whatever can be distorted into an excuse for a conviction. Several cases of this kind are cited, and the petitioners claim that they can establish them.

Young's action on Tuesday in suppressing a portion of the evidence of the witness James Sheppard was another glaring case of the same kind, while his silly attempt to intimidate a reporter who ventured to whisper to the witness after the latter had signed his testimony and had left the stand was additional proof of his ignorance, stupidity and incompetence. It was just as well for the blundering magistrate that he did not venture to impose the threatened fine for contempt of court. It would not have been paid, and he would have been forced to have either remitted it or imprisoned the reporter in default. His experience in last spring's contempt of court cases, however, had taught him a wholesome lesson and he ignominiously backed down.

It is time that the Government took action on the petition for the commission and ordered an investigation. Young's maladministration of the law has long been a scandal and the Government cannot afford to ignore it.

"TEMPERANCE" BOODLE.

It seems that at a meeting held at Burlington a few days ago the so-called "temperance" party raised $100 towards the expenses of the coming Scott Act repeal campaign, that the assessment for the village and No. 1 Ward, Nelson, which adjoins it, has been fixed at $800, and that it is expected that the latter sum will be subscribed. If the balance of the county is to be taxed in the same proportion, which it is reasonable to suppose it will be, our "temperance" friends will have a pretty tidy campaign fund, much larger than they can possibly require for legitimate expenses, including the wages of the clerical and lay agitators with whom it is their intention to overrun the county. Where the gush of these gentry fails to produce the desired effect "boodle" will be used. That such tactics should be adopted by a party professing to be actuated by the highest moral and religious motives, and claiming to be fighting the battle of the Lord against the powers of darkness, might appear strange if it were not notorious that a large proportion of its leaders are unscrupulous politicians, who have had years of experience in corrupting the electorate of Halton, and who know that the repeal of the Scott Act which they have used, and hope to use, to advance their personal interests would mean to them political extinction.

Crime under the Scott Act.

The criminal list for the Assizes of the County of Bruce, which opened on Monday, before Judge Rose, contained charges of murder, forgery, sheep-stealing, false pretenses, etc. It is safe to say that the so-called "temperance" party will not quote Bruce to show decrease of crime under the Scott Act.

Another Police Magistrate in Trouble.

Globe.

Serious charges against Police Magistrate Partridge, of the County of Simcoe, have been put into the hands of the Provincial Secretary. He is charged, in substance, with paying informers or witnesses sums of $5 each in cases brought before him, and of holding communication with such persons outside of the regular proceedings before him; in general terms, of acting both as prosecutor and judge. These charges were substantiated by the statutory declarations of the persons said to have received the money. There are other charges of a general character. Partridge denies the accusations, and an investigation has been ordered. The complaint was filed with the Attorney-General.

Scott Act Whiskey Pedlars.

(Globe.)

On the last pay day on the Guelph branch of the Canadian Pacific railway a number of sharks took advantage of their opportunity and, with valises full of liquor bottles, patrolled the line and disposed of a quantity of whiskey to the thirsty souls employed in the construction gang who were flush with cash. One party was ordered off, and the revolver in one of the sub-contractors' hands somewhat hastened their departure.

THE constant success of The Illustrated London News (American edition) is not by any means a surprise when even the contents of a single week are considered. Take for instance the issue of October 29th, now on the market. The supplement alone, giving an excellent colored portrait of Prince Bismarck, is a valuable souvenir to possess, while in addition there are pictures of the Nizam of Hyderabad, two pages devoted to illustrations of the State of Ireland, another page of Our Troops in Burmah, one of Border Sketches in Kelso, one of Bristol Cathedral, one of the Death of Cæsar, and a most attractive picture of a little girl and a dog entitled Speak. The reading matter is as interesting and complete as ever, while the price for all is only ten cents. All newsdealers have it, and the New York office is in the Potter Building.

At the Cornwall assizes John Stillwell, editor of the Glengarrian, was charged with criminal libel in publishing on the 11th and 18th of February last a letter signed "Flora McDonald," accusing Mr. P. Purcell, Liberal M. P. for Glengarry, of drunkenness, Sabbath breaking, deserting his wife and home, immorality and seduction. The defendant pleaded that the letter was true and that he was justified in publishing it. The accused was found guilty and on Saturday Judge O'Connor sentenced him to imprisonment in the county jail for one month and to pay a fine of $200 and costs, with imprisonment for three months additional if the fine be not paid. The judge, in giving sentence, said that Stillwell knew what he was doing when he published the libel, and had apparently been indemnified. The only way to get over the indemnity was by imprisonment.

Scott Act Trial.

Police Magistrate Young did not turn up according to appointment at 5 p. m. on the evening of the 26th inst., to try the adjourned charges of illicit liquor selling against David Dewar. Two of the witnesses subpœned, Messrs. Jas. Sheppard and Thos. Wilson, left their work, went to the court-room and waited about 20 minutes, but as the beak did not appear, they went home again. Young arrived about 5.50, and learning what the witnesses had done, issued warrants for their arrest and adjourned the court until Monday last at 9 a. m., when Messrs. Sheppard and Wilson appeared in charge of a constable. Mr. M. E. Mitchell, Solicitor, watched the case on behalf of the defendant.

THOMAS WILSON, sworn.—Know defendant; got beer in his house within the last three months from Sandy McArthur, whom I paid for it; got no liquor from defendant, who refused to give me any, saying he had gone out of the business.

Inspector—Can you fix a date?

Witness—Can you tell me when defendant's youngster was born? I was in about that time and Dave showed me the baby.

Having finished his testimony, witness asked for his fees. The court was not disposed to allow them, the excuse being that witness did not wait on the 26th ult. for the magistrate to appear. Witness replied that the summons with which he was served was indefinite, inasmuch as only the day of the month for the sittings of the court was stated in it, no year being mentioned, and that it might have meant next year as well as this year. The court said the question of allowing witness fees would be considered. The following passage at arms occurred before witness left the stand:

Witness (to license inspector)—Did you say that you would teach that "bull-headed Englishman" (meaning me) a lesson?

License inspector—No.

Witness—You are a liar.

License inspector—That's all right. The magistrate—That will do.

JAMES SHEPPARD, sworn.—Know defendant; have been in his house frequently during the last three months; got no intoxicating liquor from him during that time; he refused to give me any, saying that he had gone out of the business; got beer from Sandy McArthur in defendant's house a day or two before or after 12th July last; Mr. Geo. Smith was with me; he took pop and I asked him what was the matter; he replied that Brothers had been vowing vengeance against him and threatening to have him up in a Scott Act case the first chance he got; I treated.

License inspector—Who paid for it?

Witness—What a silly question! Of course I paid for it; the man who treats is supposed to pay for what he orders. (Laughter.) If I hadn't paid for it perhaps I would have been sued.

P. M.—I don't think there was much danger of that.

Witness—I don't know. I believe that there was a judgment recovered at the last Division Court here for a whiskey bill. (Laughter.) It is probable that I got liquor from McArthur more than once during the last three months, but I can't fix any date but the one I have given.

The court complimented the witness on his straightforward evidence.

Witness asked for his fees. The court objected on the same ground as in Mr. Wilson's case. Witness produced his summons and showed that it was indefinite in the same way as that served on Mr. Wilson. The magistrate said he would consider the question of allowing the fees, and witness replied:—"If you don't pay me my fees I shall sue you." Witness signed his deposition, left the stand, and as he was going to his seat was stopped by the reporter of the CHAMPION, who whispered something in his ear.

Witness (to court)—Did you, in taking down my evidence, include that part where I said that the defendant refused to give me any liquor?

The P. M.—No, I did not put it down. It was not necessary to do so.

The magistrate apparently did not relish being caught at his old game of distorting the evidence given him and suppressing parts of it favorable to the defence, and suspected the CHAMPION reporter of having drawn attention to it. He turned viciously to the latter and said: "I won't allow any of your interference with witnesses, Mr. Panton.

Mr. Mitchell—Mr. Sheppard was no longer a witness after he had left the stand.

Mr. Panton—I did not interrupt the court, and as long as I don't do so I shall speak to whom I please.

The P. M.—I shall fine you for contempt of court, Mr. Panton.

Mr. Panton.—I shall speak to whom I please, and I won't allow you to bulldose me.

The magistrate subsided, looking, if possible, sourer than usual, and announced that he would adjourn the court until Thursday at 1, a. m.

Shot by His Hired Man.

The Guelph Mercury gives the following account of the shooting of Mr. Henry Torrance, on the townline of Erin, next Eramosa, on Thursday:—Mr. Torrance, with his hired man, James Sanderson, about 18 or 19 years of age, were engaged hauling in turnips to the root-house. Sanderson, it seems had a rifle with him, and on going out from the barn he pointed it at a calf near by. Mr. Torrance cautioned him never to point the rifle, which was loaded, at any living thing. Sanderson passed on with his team, and when a little way off was heard by Mr. Torrance to say something which he took to be "look out, Torrance." Immediately after that Sanderson must have fired, and whether intentionally or not, the ball struck Torrance well up in the thigh, glancing down the bone and lodging in the knee bone. Our information does not state how Mr. Torrance got into the house or how Sanderson acted after the shooting, but word was immediately sent to Dr. Mennie, of Belwood, who, with Dr. Groves, of Fergus, hurried out to the unfortunate man. He was put under chloroform and kept under it for three hours, while they made a thorough examination of the wound. In doing so they found it necessary to amputate the leg at three different places, as they found the injuries so great at each cutting that it was necessary to go higher up to save the man's life. The shock completely prostrated Mr. Torrance, and since the operation it has been necessary to keep him under the influence of opiates. It is doubtful if he will be able to pull through. Naturally the shooting causes a great deal of excitement in the neighborhood, and strong suspicions are entertained that it was not accidental. It is said that Sanderson is very passionate, with a bad temper and a revengeful disposition. It may be that he was annoyed at the remark made by Mr. Torrance about pointing the rifle at the calf, and in the heat of passion pointed it at his unfortunate victim as he did at the calf without really meaning to shoot the man, and then it went off accidentally.

An Inspector Jailed.

London Free Press.

Constable Munson, of Arthur, passed through Fergus the other afternoon, having in custody Inspector Flath, of Drayton, whom he was taking to Guelph gaol. It appears that the Arthur magistrates, acting on the advice of the County Solicitor, decided to commit Mr. Flath for trial, on the charge of having collected excessive fees for services as constable in connection with Scott Act cases. The bench offered to accept bail, and fixed the amount at the reasonable sum of $400, but Mr. Flath refused to give bail and went to gaol instead.

Whiskey-Guzzling "Temperance" Men.

(Bruce Herald.)

The sentiment that found expression in prohibitory liquor laws, has about spent its force. It was largely artificial, and had no solid foundation, either in the character or habits of its advocates. Most of those in our own community who publicly support the movement privately keep liquor in their own houses. They use quite as much of it as those whom they publicly denounce as whisky advocates. A vast amount of insincerity and dishonesty has been all along enlisted in support of the movement. Enthusiasm founded on such a basis can't last. And as a consequence, we see that a return to a license law is rapidly approaching, both in the United States and Canada.
