Silver Dagger opens tomorrow

Murder most foul is not all it seems as cast members in Silver Dagger, Georgetown Little Theatre's upcoming play, rehearse at their newly opened hall in Stewarttown, replacing the one that burned down a few years ago. Steve March (David Brock) appears to be caught in the act with his smoking gun, as Tony Bishop (Paul d'Entremont) tends to the lifeless body of Gemma Dodd (Lee McKeown) while Jane Talbot (Ro Palumbo-Coates) and Pam Marsh (Elizabeth Barfoot) watch in horror. The play opens April 18 and continues 19-20, 24-27 at John Elliott Theatre. Tickets are $15 (Wed./Thurs.) and $18 (Fri./Sat.) and are available at the Theatre Box Office or order by phone at 905-877-3700.

Cellist featured in fourth recital

Cellist Mary Katherine Finch and harpsichordist Ronald Dr. Greidanus perform Music from the Court—the works of Bach, Sweelinck and Handel in a recital, on Sunday, April 21, 7:30 p.m. at St. Alban's Anglican Church in Glen Williams.

This is the fourth concert in the International Spring Festival series. Tickets are $15. Tickets are available at the door or at Timepieces, Foodstuffs or the Travel Hut.

The final concert of the International Spring Festival will be held on Saturday, May 4, 7:30 p.m. at St. John's United Church. It features the Georgetown Bach Chorale, the Festival Chamber Orchestra with conductor Juan Gonzales Castelao, soprano Rebecca Whalen, contralto Pamela Gibson, tenor Mark Rowsom, bass Nelson Lohnes and pianist Ronald D. Greidanus. Tickets are $20.

Missa Gaia begins tomorrow

Georgetown Choral Society, along with the Georgetown Children's Chorus performs Missa Gaia, 8 p.m. at Holy Cross Church, tomorrow (Thursday) and Friday (April 19).

It's a unique earth mass celebrating creation and includes vocal and instrumental music from gospel to jazz to organ and soloists, including jazz singer Alana Bridgewater.

Tickets are $20 adults, $18 seniors, $15 students and are available at Bergsma's in the Georgetown Market Place or The Freckled Lion on Main St., Georgetown.
