THE CANADIAN CHAMPION

MILTON, JAN. 25, 1888

THE CHAMPION congratulates the Georgetown Herald on its recent acquisition of a fine new Prouty Press and an improved paper cutter. The Herald is evidently prospering, and the enterprise displayed by this publisher should be rewarded by an increase and a continuation of prosperity.

THE Acton Free Press vouches for Mr. James Beaty, Q. C., of Toronto, as a "sincere and consistent temperance man." The Free Press is quite correct. Mr. Beaty is a temperance man in the true sense of the word, he is abstemious in his personal habits. He is an anti-prohibitionist, and when in Parliament he distinguished himself particularly by his advocacy of a wine and beer law in preference to prohibition, and by submitting a wine and beer bill to the House. It is gratifying to see the Free Press falling into line at last with the true temperance party.

THE zeal of the Empire, the new Tory organ, to make capital against the enemy is beyond praise. In Monday's issue the list of appointments from last Saturday's Ontario Gazette appeared under the heading, "The Faithful Rewarded." One of the appointments was: "John Wilson Elliott, of the town of Milton, to be a notary public." As Mr. Elliott happens to be the leading political orator of the Conservatives of Halton, people up here are wondering what particular form his faithfulness took beyond faithful service in the ranks of the Opposition.

THE Acton Free Press and Georgetown Herald are indignant with the Toronto World, and charge that outspoken and independent journal with maliciously insinuating that Mr. David Henderson, the Tory candidate for M. P. for Halton, is not a consistent "temperance" man. The Free Press says:

"Everybody knows that from the first Mr. Henderson has openly supported the Scott Act and that from principle he is a total abstainer."

It is cheering to know this about the would-be M. P., but the alleged insinuation was made before he was nominated, and appears to have been a shot at a venture which took effect in a weak spot in somebody's armor. Whether the cap fits Mr. Henderson or not he is not likely to be grateful to the Acton and Georgetown Scott Act organs for putting it on him.

THE PARTRIDGE CASE.

A SCOTT ACT MAGISTRATE'S COMMISSION REVOKED BY THE GOVERNMENT—THE GROUNDS ON WHICH THE ACTION WAS TAKEN.

The commission of Mr. J. T. Partridge, the Scott Act magistrate of Barrie, has been revoked by the Government. Some time ago charges were made against Mr. Partridge, who is a Scott Act magistrate for Simcoe county, in connection with his conduct in dealing with cases arising from violation of the Canada Temperance Act which came before him for trial.

In order to ascertain the facts of the case Mr. Winchester, inspector of legal offices, was appointed a commissioner to investigate of the whole matter. The evidence was taken at Barrie some time ago in the presence of all the parties directly interested. Those who preferred the charges and the magistrate were represented by their respective counsel. A considerable amount of evidence was taken and a report by the commissioner was made. The principal complaint was that Mr. Partridge acted more as a prosecutor than in his judicial capacity in the hearing of Scott Act cases and that he employed a man named Rathbourne for the purpose of inducing hotelkeepers to violate the Act and that he paid Rathbourne certain sums for his services in that respect. It appears from the evidence taken that several meetings took place between Rathbourne and the magistrate, but as the first three or four meetings were between Rathbourne and the magistrate alone the uncorroborated evidence of Rathbourne was not deemed sufficient by the commissioner to establish any of the complaints. At a subsequent meeting, however, Mr. Patridge paid, as a loan, he alleges, $10 to Rathbourne for the performance of services in connection with the Scott Act detective work. Rathbourne at this time was in another district of the county, acting as a whiskey detective. This money had not been repaid to the magistrate at the time of the inquiry. Another meeting took place after this at the magistrate's house. Partridge admitted that he had paid $10 to Rathbourne on this occasion, which, he says, was for the purpose of assisting the man to get out of the country. In regard to the payment of this $10, Mr. Partridge in his evidence said that he had expected when he paid the money that Rathbourne would spend it at the very first hotel he came to. He had been endeavoring to avoid Rathbourne. This the commissioner considered inconsistent with the magistrate's plea that the money had been given as charity.

Another meeting of the parties took place in the store of a Mr. Gray, at which Mr. Partridge, Rathbourne and another man named Sutherland were present. At that meeting Mr. Partridge gave Sutherland $5, which Mr. Partridge claims to have been a matter of charity. It seems, however, that Mr. Partridge took Sutherland's address with the view, it is presumed, of communicating with him. There were, also, two cases in which for the arrest of the defendants in the first instance, instead of taking the usual course and issuing summonses. It did not appear that there was any danger of these defendants leaving the country, as they were men of some means and had some stake in the country.

After hearing all the evidence and giving the matter careful consideration, the commissioner found against Mr. Partridge. The evidence shows that whatever Mr. Partridge's motives may have been, his conduct in the trial of Scott Act cases was actuated by such a strong desire to convict, and to assume the part of a prosecutor, that his actions were entirely opposed to that judical duty which should characterise a magistrate in performing his official functions. It appears that the commissioner did not except the uncorroborated testimony of the informer Rathbourne, but found several of the charges against the magistrate for having an improper bias and zeal in securing convictions, to be clearly established by the testimony. The finding of the commissioner was so conclusive that the Government found it to be a proper case for revoking the magistrate's commission. Mr. Partridge's commission as Scott Act magistrate for Simcoe is, therefore, revoked. It is understood that it is the intention of the Government to appoint some outside magistrate temporarily for the purpose of hearing Scott Act cases in the County of Simcoe until a new appointment is made.—Globe.

Mr. Best's Discovery.

Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. J. T. Best, a respectable and hardworking citizen of this town, has made the discovery that the devil is dead and hell is frozen over. The discovery has caused Mr. Best such peace of mind that he desires to let as many of his fellow-citizens as possible hear the glad news. With this object in view he hired a hall wherein to deliver an address on the subject, and proceeded to advertise his lecture by means of methods which were more eccentric than conventional. The police interfered, and threatened to take Mr. Best into custody if he persisted in using the advertising methods which he had adopted. The alleged reason for the interference of the police was that Mr. Best was making a public nuisance of himself. Now, all that Mr. Best did was to place in front of the hall an announcement of his lecture, draped in crape, and to walk along the streets with a placard on his hat and a crape band around it, the crape being intended as an emblem of mourning for his deceased satanic majesty. If these advertising devices were a nuisance, then the advertising methods of the Salvation army are much more so. Mr. Best's opinions may be cranky; but in this glorious country a man must be allowed the liberty of being a crank and exercising his crankiness if it so please him. If Best wants to preach a dead devil, he must be given the same protection as the Salvation army is given in their warfare against a living devil.

Scott Act in Halton.

POLL ON REPEAL ABOUT MARCH 1ST.

(Empire Correspondence.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 23rd.—A proclamation will appear in the next Official Gazette fixing the date for polling on the question of repealing the Scott Act in Halton county. It is understood that the polling will be about the 1st of March and that Solomon Hannant, of Milton, will be the returning officer. The petition asking for the submission to the electors of the county of the question of repealing the Act has been before the Government for some time. A technical objection based on the insufficiency of the notice was taken by the friends of the Act and was fully argued by Rev. O. R. Morrow. This objection has been carefully considered by the Privy Council and after due deliberation it has been decided that the notice is sufficient. Halton was one of the first counties in Ontario to adopt the Act, the election taking place on the 19th April, 1881, when the petition was carried by a vote of 1,483 to 1,402. A repeal election took place on September 9th, 1884, when the Act was sustained on a vote of 1,947 to 1,767.

"Beak" Young on the Commins Case.

(Oakville Star.)

He felt assured that the prosecution had acted solely upon information given, and was without any motive for spite. Some person had been guilty of a piece of rascality in supplying the information to the prosecution. If the evidence had implied any gain to the defendant in obliging his friends, he would have fined him; but it gave him pleasure to dismiss the charge and to compliment the defendant upon the straightforward manner in which he had replied to the questions of the counsel for the prosecution. In the majority of cases which were brought before him for trial the witnesses were given to too much equivocation. He felt grieved that so many respectable men were obliged to testify as witnesses in this case; yet they should remember that, as citizens of Canada, they have to obey a summons to any court, no matter what the nature of the trial might be.

The Bishop and the Upstart.

That level-headed bishop of the Methodist church, Dr. Merrill, was right when he advocated the high license plan in 1874; and now, as the campaign of 1888 is approaching another eminent divine of the same church has spoken. Bishop Foss was twitted by a young preacher as to his theory of controlling the liquor traffic by hedging and fencing it in. The young man said: "Why, bishop, if there was a mad dog running up and down the street, would you shoot it or hedge it in?" The bishop quickly replied: "If that mad dog had been running up and down the street for thirty years and I had been shooting at it all that time in vain, I guess I'd be willing to hedge it in."—[Jacksonville (Ill.) Journal.

Scott Act Excitement in Grenville.

KINGSTON, Jan. 22.—There is a fever of excitement in Spencerville and the neighboring village of Kemptville, on account of the threatening demonstrations and letters written by opponents of the Scott Act. It is said they have declared their intention to burn all the churches, and that Dr. Ferguson, M. P., has received a longthy letter threatening him, if he continued to uphold the Scott Act. Some churches are placed in charge of watchmen, and it is thought this precaution has alone prevented serious results.

Like Brother Young Here.

Barrie Press Dispatch.

General satisfaction is felt here at the removal of Mr. Partridge from the position of Police Magistrate in this county. It is felt by a good many friends of temperance here that Mr. Partridge from his ultra prohibition views could not hold the balance of justice evenly, and like all ultra men he did the temperance cause more harm than good.
