

BACK TALK

By Dr. Gabor Madarasz

Several times a week I get asked how I became a chiropractor, so here it is. When I was in grade seven my desire was to study dentistry once I finished high school. My interest was fueled by my need for braces due to an overbite. To get to the dental office, I would have to take a bus from our home and transfer twice before I got to my destination, scary to say the least for a young kid. The problem was that my mother was not able to go with me because of severe low back pain. If she sat in a chair for 30 minutes or more we would have to lift her out and help her take the first few steps! Within two years she had gone from super-mom to disabled. After considering surgery (the surgeon's only option) our family decided against it. A friend of our family convinced her to give a chiropractor a try. At this point she felt she had nothing to lose, so she went ahead. The chiropractor did an exam, took some x-rays, and then "adjusted" her spine. My mom said "the adjustment didn't hurt, it actually felt good" and she got relief. After several months of care her pain was finally gone and we had our mother back! It worked so well that I decided to move to Toronto in 1977 to study chiropractic and in 1981 I graduated as a doctor of chiropractic. If you have been suffering please call, we provide a great service at an exceptional fee and we'll treat you like a family member.

P.S. Please tell Patricia that you read this in the paper when you call.
