THE CANADIAN CHAMPION

MILTON, OCT. 4 1888

Haldimand Election.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—Mr. McCarthy having concluded his argument yesterday afternoon, the counting of the ballots was then proceeded with. Mr. Aylesworth presented 95 to the court to which he took objection and Mr. McCarthy 25. The court quickly disposed of the greater number of these, having no desire to interfere with the decision of the judge at the trial unless bad marking was very apparent. Two ballots, on which the cross was placed exactly on the line between the names of Mr. Coulter and Dr. Montague, were allowed for the latter by the judge at the trial. It appears that Judge Street used a microscope to find out exactly if the centre of the cross was not nearer to one candidate's name than the other. He decided the ballots in favor of Dr. Montague. This was too microscopic, said Justice Strong, as the voters were not supposed to carry microscopes with them, and the court therefore threw them out, reducing the majority of Dr. Montague from ten to eight. In several other instances some of the judges, although not a majority of the court, objected to ballots marked in favor of Dr. Montague. All were disposed of except two, one for Mr. Colter and one for Dr. Montague. On the ballot marked for Mr. Colter, the Deputy Returning-officer did not put his initials, while on the one marked for Dr. Montague the name of Philip S. Wintermuter was plainly written on the back. Providing that the election is not voided on the charge of corrupt practices, the admission of further evidence, say that of the eight spoiled ballots alone, suspected to be marked by the Deputy Returning-officer, will place Mr. Colter in a majority.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6, 8 p.m.—The Haldimand election case came up again in the Supreme Court this morning, when Mr. Aylesworth proceeded to answer the argument of Mr. McCarthy, first dealing with the ballot found on the floor at the polling booth, Lincida No. 4, which (if counted for Colter) would reduce Dr. Montague's majority to six. It was reduced yesterday afternoon to eight. The judges were in a dilemma in regard to the case, and came to the conclusion that the ballot being a good one the Deputy Returning-officer must have placed another ballot—a spurious one—into the box to make up for the one lost. What was rather curious, they appeared to entertain the idea that the deputy marked the spurious ballot for Mr. Colter. Then, according to this contention, the election was conducted in an irregular manner, and the result must be a new election.

The Chief Justice spoke very strongly against the conduct of the Deputy Returning-officer for having so conducted the election. The Court's decision as to the counting of the ballot was reserved, of course. From this Mr. Aylesworth proceeded to discuss the question of farmers' sons' irregularities, on which alone he was entitled to a new election, if not, a scrutiny of votes. At the trial he was prevented by the Judge from getting evidence on this point. The principal reason for this by the Judge was secrecy. He (Mr. Aylesworth) showed them that it was not necessary for him to ask the witnesses how they voted, so as to establish that unqualified persons voted, and therefore the granting of a new election, if he were not allowed a scrutiny of votes, yet the Judge would not even permit this. To show how far this was carried out, he was not allowed to show that aliens voted, and in one case one Julian, a personator, was debarred from giving testimony.

Justice Strong—This was reducing the matter to the reductio ad absurdum.

Mr. Justice Gwynne, for the first time in the case, took exception to the Judge's decisions, and could not credit that the Judge would refuse such evidence.

Mr. Aylesworth showed that such was the case, and Judge Taschereau shook his head, which perhaps was more expressive against the Judge's action than if he used words.

The counsel, proceeding, contended that on the question of general disqualification—otherwise that unqualified persons voted at the election—he was entitled to a new election.

Turning to the Hagersville poll he combatted the argument of Mr. McCarthy that there was no tumbling of the ballots, and that a suspicion did not exist against the deputy returning officer. The prevention of evidence in this matter did not allow him to endeavor to prove his case. In answer to the Chief Justice, he said he did not consider that the best method of proving his case would be to have first called the deputy returning officer.

Justice Strong—Supposing that you could prove that the deputy returning officer had a small pencil between his fingers and made these marks on the ballots, then you could have made out prima facie case.

On the Harrison-Nixon charges, Mr. Aylesworth refuted the contention of Mr. McCarthy that the agency of Harrison was limited. "For what did Dr. Montague appoint him? Was it not to be that an unqualified person would vote for his opponent, and to secure all the votes he could, for himself? But supposing that Dr. Montague told him (Harrison) not to ask any one to vote for him, the case would be the same, and he would be responsible for his acts. This concluded the argument in the case, Mr. Aylesworth presenting and arguing his case throughout in an able, clear and forcible manner. Judgment was reserved.

Children Cry for

The Galt Mystery.

GALT, Oct. 5.—There were no new developments to-day in the celebrated poisoning case. The inquest to-morrow night is awaited with much anxiety as it is expected that some light will be thrown on this mysterious affair by the evidence yet to be heard. On Friday last Mrs. Cherry was too ill to attend. She was not suffering from the effects of the poison, but from weakness caused by the emetic administered to her. Besides her evidence there is also that of her two children to be heard. It is not thought probable that the result of the analysis will be known by to-morrow night, and all agree that it is impossible to do anything until the analyst makes his report. A careful watch is being kept on all matter going through the post-office in order, if possible, to get a clue by this means. It is expected that some of the witnesses who have already been heard will be recalled and make important disclosures. Coroner Varden, through whose prompt efforts the lives of the three children were saved, stated, however, to-day that he know of nothing new in connection with the case. The probability is that as soon as sufficient evidence is secured to convince the jury that the death of Meta Cherry was caused by poison from the candies received by mail, a verdict will be rendered to that effect, and the inquest will be closed so that Detective Murray may go quietly to work.

Monday night a representative of The Empire called at the residence of Prof. Ellis at 74 St. Albans street, when he was informed that the doctor was at work in his labratory at the school of practical science. At the school the reporter found the doctor, who, after stating that he did not wish to give information to newspapers before sending his report to the proper authorities in all cases, said he had during the afternoon examined one of the chocolate drops in the box addressed to the family of Rev. John Ridley. When put to the proper test the doctor found that the candy had been loaded with that deadly poison—strychnine. This is the first and only candy which the Government analyst has examined thus far. The charge of strychnine was strong enough to produce death in any case if the "drop" had been swallowed. This discovery not only substantiates the theory already published—that holes had been dug in the bottoms and strychnine inserted, and the boring covered with chocolate—but it proves that the statements of certain parties that the candies had been sent, not to poison, but as a compliment, that they might have accidentally become poisonous through chemical action since being manufactured and that no fiends had been at the bottom of it, were all wrong and unworthy of consideration. The people of Ontario will be all the more desirous of seeing the culprits brought to justice and summarily dealt with when they hear that it has been proved beyond a title of doubt that murder was intended.

GALT, Oct. 6.—There are no new developments in the mysterious poisoning case here. The evidence at the inquest last evening, whilst tending clearly to prove strychnine poisoning, threw no light whatever upon the motive for such a crime. Those who were at first inclined to think that the candies had been sent by some friend have now abandoned that theory, as the sender, if innocent, would ere this have come forward. An examination of the candies sent to Mrs. Lowell shows that a piece has been taken out of the bottom of each and replaced again, strychnine no doubt being inserted. It is further believed that the sending of the package to the wife of Rev. Mr. Ridley was simply a blind, and that an analysis will show that the sweets sent them are free from poisonous substances the families aimed at being those of Mr. Cherry and Mr. Lowell, who are related. The supposed clue contained in a telegram from a detective officer in a neighboring town has turned out to be worthless, and the mystery appears as far from solution as ever.

A Special Train Enables an Old Man to Reach His Dying Daughter.

A scene occurred at the Grand Trunk Railway station, Hamilton, Sunday morning which was witnessed by only a few, but which was very affecting upon those who did see it. A wealthy New York gentleman, accompanied by his wife, arrived in the city on his way to Toronto, only to find that he could not get to his destination by regular train until 8 o'clock at night, the first train leaving Hamilton at 7.40 p.m. He had missed the early train and, it being Sunday, there was no other to take him. He inquired about getting a special train, and when told the price, $80, he paid the money, and in a short time the train was in front of the station. Just as the New-York gentleman was going to get aboard, he observed an old gentleman, who was evidently in deep distress. The New Yorker was touched by the old man's tears and inquired of him what was the matter. "I have received a message from Toronto," was the reply, "stating that my daughter is dying, and urging me to go to her place at once, but I cannot get there until to-night." The merchant quickly offered the despairing man a seat in his special car, and in a little over an hour the thankful man was in Toronto hastening to his daughter's bedside.—Times.

Who Owes the "Cuff?"

A LARGE APPROPRIATION FOR THE ST. CLAIR FLATS CANAL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—In the House yesterday Mr. Cutchins, from the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, reported the bill appropriating $180,250 for completing the improvements and dredging of the St. Clair Flats Ship Canal in the State of Michigan. Congress has always, in making improvements, named the place as in the State of Michigan. The United States assumes that it is with the jurisdiction of the State of Michigan, making that portion of Lake St. Clair west of the Commissioners' line a part of Michigan territory. As the lake and the canal are a part of a great water way, over which the commerce of the great lakes continually passes, it is regarded as somewhat peculiar that what belongs alike to all the States should be put down to the account of the State of Michigan. The pending appropriation for the completion of the canal will, when it is considered in the Senate and House, give Congressmen an opportunity to discuss freely the point whether the canal is or is not in the waters of the United States, and whether Great Britain has a right to revoke the provisions of an old treaty and make new provisions entirely unfavorable to the United States.

Pitcher's Castoria

Canadian Items.

Proceedings in the election case vs. Wm. the Scrivener, Court read as if Dr. Montague would need to get one this way instead of the other. Hardiman's friends are sure of the seat for the Dr. Wallace proved a lamed and dazed duck. Investigation continues and reapers are busy therefrom. Prestige is his, for the existence of which countrymen who see combines flourishing like a green bay tree can see no logical foundation.

Cardwell Conservatives are not mourning much because young Mr. White's majority was not larger. It suits them. They wanted him to get there by a majority the smallness of which would be a notice to make way for a native at the end of his present term.

On Tuesday last one of the oldest Baptist missionaries in Canada, Rev. Samuel Robbins passed away at Brampton in the 84th year of his age. Deceased was well known as an earnest worker throughout the whole Dominion and leaves four sons and three daughters to mourn his loss.

On Saturday John A. Macdonald, of Halifax defeated Duncan C. Ross at New Glasgow for the hammer-throwing championship of the world and $200. Macdougall broke the record by throwing the hammer 132 feet 5 inch. He also threw the 21 lb. hammer 47 ft. 10 inches.

Rev. Father West, of Goderich, undertook to bring an excursion to the town, and among the attractions he advertised was a rowing exhibition by O'Connor and Lee. As the expense of the enterprise was great, the rev. gentleman asked the business men to subscribe towards the fund for the oarsmen. He received but $11 in reply. An appeal was then taken to the town council, where a grant of $50 was made. The grant is the subject of adverse criticism in the town and "Reform the council" is the cry.

Post-office clerks throughout the Dominion have been subscribing to a testimonial to a retired post office official under the impression that they must pay their dollar or submit to dismissal. It is hardly probable that Mr. Haugart will allow money to be collected under such a misapprehension. But why should the money be collected? The retired official had a good salary when in office, and he has a pension now. He would, no doubt, value an address, which costs nothing, but conveys a good deal of meaning, more highly than the thousands of dollars that are being squeezed from men whom he never met.—Mail.

A correspondent in Bruce, writing of the apple crop, says there are thousands of barrels of good winter fruit in that locality for which there is no demand. The apples are of excellent quality, and yet the only offers received are from cider makers, who are willing to pay from 10 to 15c. a bag. The correspondent closes his letter thus: "I have lived here twenty years and never saw such a crop of apples before. My orchard is a young one, from which I can procure one hundred barrels of fruit; and yet there is not a buyer. This is becoming a poor country." The fact about apples seems to be that the yield is enormous. Prices, however, should be better, as the demand is good and apples are quoted in Toronto at from $1 to $1.50 per barrel.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8th.—Information for a criminal libel notice has been laid against the editors of the Free Press by Premier Greenway. Owing to the absence of Mr. Howall, who will not return till the end of the week, Mr. Greenway is not decided whether he shall bring suit against the Call Both papers this morning have strong articles against the Government's general policy. The Free Press asserts that the Ministers in the early stages of the Northern Pacific deal made desperate offers to purchase it out and out. Failing in this, they unsuccessfully tried to force Luxton, and within the past few days renewed the offer to purchase the paper. Both Martin and Greenway deny any knowledge of this and state that certainly the matter never came before the Government.

GUELPH, Oct. 8th.—A joint meeting of the Railway Committee of the City Council, Board of Trade and directors of the Guelph Junction railway was held in the City hall this evening to consider which would be the best route for Guelph to extend the C. P. R. to Goderich. There was a good representation of the bodies above mentioned present. Three routes were under consideration. The northern one would run through Elmira, Listowel, Brussels, Blyth and Goderich; the centre one near Winterbourne, Conestoga, St. Jacobs, Elmira, Hawkesville and Linwood, but which route would be to Milverton, and from thence to Goderich. The southern route would be south of St. Jacobs and Hawkesville into Seaforth, and along to Goderich. All these routes were carefully talked over, but no definite conclusion as to which would be the best was arrived at. It was decided that the mayor, Ald. Russel and Wm. Bell be a committee to wait on Mr. Van Horne for the purpose of impressing on him the necessity of taking action in relation to surveys and ascertaining what his views were.

LISTOWEL Oct. 6th.—During the Northwestern Exhibition a natty and well-dressed individual, who flourished cards of C. C. Hale & Co., dealers in horses and mules, Nashville, Tennessee, New York and other American cities called on Mr. Scott and presented a bank draft for $1 000 00 on a Philadelphia bank, and requested Mr. Scott to cash it. With considerable suavity of manner and insinuating grace he produced his high-sounding card and explained his business in the to Mr. Scott cashed the draft after Mr. H I intimated that he wished to place to the credit of Mr. Lowry, a local horse dealer, from whom Hale had bought a couple of horses. This was done, and a credit slip given to Hale in favor of Lowry. Hale walked away, after thanking Mr. Scott for his accommodation, and has not since been seen. Mr. Scott sent the draft on in due course, and it was returned "N.G., having been pronounced a forgery. Mr. Scott has the sympathy of the community in his distress. When will people who ought to know better cease dealing with sharpers on more favorable terms than would be accorded to reliable business men of good standing? Mr. Hale may turn up somewhere else in Canada and work the same game, and the private bankers are warned to keep a sharp lookout for him.

The New Parliament Building.

The new Parliament buildings in Queen's park are rapidly taking shape, and the public can soon form an idea of what the structure will be like when completed. The walls of the east wing are already near the second storey, while the lesser buildings of the west wing are ready for roofing. Horse-gear derricks are at work on the College avenue and University cresent fronts. Most of the material to be used for the remainder of the building has yet to be cut and hewed, and there are large quantities of it lying about. The stone used throughout almost the entire building is Credit Valley freestone. The walls are all inlaid with brick and the partitions are well advanced. At the east entrance yesterday workmen were engaged placing the cast iron lintels in their brick beds. The elevation of the ground floor would seem to be higher on this side than any other. There are at present over 225 men at work on the building. It is expected that the building will not pass the second tier of joists this fall.—Empire

He is Old and Yet Young.

A wonderful old man is Sir John. The adjective seems a questionable application to him. Age has no weakening influence upon the Premier mentally. Nor do rolling years weight with physical debility a life that promises to stretch far beyond the allotted span.

Truly his youth is renewed. He revealed himself to Toronto Saturday looking younger and stronger than he appeared fifteen years ago.—Telegram.

Its Weakness Its Strength.

Hopeless and helpless but the Ontario Opposition sits facing Mr. Mowat. It seems to be permanently seated to the left of the Speaker. Its dreary future is lighted by no promise of coming victory.

Poor Mr. Meredith. He is too good a man to waste upon the post of Opposition leader. He is weaker in ability than his numbers, and is altogether the humblest apology for an effective legislative fighting force that Canadian politics has yet developed.

Its weakness is Mr. Mowat's strength.—Telegram.
