FURS and Cloth Jackets at The Big Store.

TO-MORROW, Friday, is Durham's Civic Holiday.

JUST to hand, another large shipment of men's and boys' clothing, at S. F. Morlock's.

THE Big Store bought a large stock of Lamps at a bargain and is selling them off at reduced prices.

ANOTHER letter reached us from Frank Irwin, Philippine Islands, but for want of space it is crowded out this issue.

T. P. SMITH, Eye Specialist, will be at the Middaugh House, Durham; on Wednesday, Oct. 16th, for one day only. Remember the date.

HANDSOME American Lady, independently rich, wants good honest husband. Address—Erie, 193 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

MR C. LAYTON, master builder of the foundation of the Cement Works, was absent last week attending the marriage of his daughter in Michigan.

A SNAP—300 yds. 36 inch print for 10c per yd., 1000 yds. 32 inch 12½c heavy duck print going at 10c per yd., 300 yds. 8c prints, while they last, at 6c per yd., at S. F. Morlock's.

THE Canadian Jubilee Singers will give an entertainment in the Town Hall on Monday evening, Oct. 14th. They were here a year ago and need no recommendation. Under Methodist Church Auspices. Admission 25 cents. Don't miss it.

MR. ROBERT COLVILLE met with an accident last week, by which he fractured his collar bone. It seems to have been done very simply, too, while getting on a wagon to ride home from the cement works where he was engaged. He will be laid off work for several weeks, no doubt.

THE business men of town are indignant at the condition of the front street, and well they may be, especially in wet weather. Last week it was simply horrible. During the past two or three years considerable has been done towards street improvement, but the work is far from finished. We hope the council will make a complete job of it as soon as possible.

THE Teachers' Institute will meet here on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 17th and 18th. All interested in Educational work are specially invited to attend the regular sessions. The concert in the evening will be given under Teachers' auspices by Will J. White, comic singer, and Donald C. MacGregor, baritone soloist, both of Toronto, with good testimonials. We bespeak for the teachers a good turn out. Admission to Concert 25c. Plan of Hall at MacFarlanes' Drug Store.

THE Furniture Journal has the following to say about our factory:—"The Durham Furniture Co., Limited, are still in the class of the 'youthfuls,' so far as years are concerned in the furniture manufacturing. Fortunately, in this progressive country youth is no debar to success, and this new concern is a very decided verification of the fact. Their line consists of bedroom furniture and sideboards in oak and elm. For the fall trade they are out with a fine range of new designs, which excel their past efforts, and as the Durham Furniture Co. find themselves already under the necessity of enlarging their factory, the future looks bright for them."

ON Thursday last we met for the first time Mr. J. Jenkins, of Revelstoke, B. C. Mr. Jenkins is an expert Railroad Engineer and is just now enjoying his honeymoon, having only recently married Miss Alice Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lawrence, of Glenelg. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins are now taking in the Pan-American, after which they will return for a time before going to Winnipeg and the West. An examination of the big Locomotives in the Transportation Building will occupy considerable time of an interested engineer. Mr. Jenkins is a happy looking man, of excellent physique and apparently able to get away with three good square meals a day. We extend our congratulations to the happy young couple.

DON'T forget the concert in connection with the Teachers' Institute on Thursday evening, Oct. 17th. Will J. White, Eccentric Monologist; Donald C. MacGregor, Concert Baritone, and Miss Whelpley, Accompanist, have been engaged for the occasion. Admission 25 cents.

THE new addition to the Furniture Factory is now about completed and will fill a long felt want for store room purposes. Two stories and a basement each about 50x60 feet gives the added floor space and it will not be long according to present indications until further additions will be called for. We are pleased to learn that everything is going on all right, that the hands are constantly busy and that orders are coming in lively. Some of the new designs are quick sellers.

MR. CON. KNAPP, one of the most successful hotel men in this part of the country sold his hotel business on Monday last to Mr. George Ries, one of Bentinck's best farmers. Mr. Knapp steps out about the middle of December but will remain in town for sometime after that date. Mr. Knapp has always been regarded as a good citizen, and as such we are sure the town as a whole regrets to lose him. Mr. Ries is a member of the County Council whose popularity may be measured by the large vote he polled at the last election.

MR. Philip Eva, of this town, was eighty years of age on Tuesday last and celebrated his fifty-ninth wedding day on Wednesday. He has been a resident of Durham since 1854 He was married in St. Helier, Jersey Island, by the Dean of the Island, who was succeeded by the father of Mrs. Langtry, the well known actress We also learn that the father of the actress had the honor of marying Mr. David McClocklin, who is now staying in town with his niece, Mrs. Wm. Caldwell. Mr. Limin, Sr., is also a native of the Channel Islands.

WE may refer to a matter which citizens have often thought of, but in which no action has been taken. We mean the simple and inexpensive act of labeling the streets. The cost would be a mere trifle in comparison to the inestimable convenience resulting from such a move. We feel confident there are scores of people living in Durham to-day who know little or nothing of the street names, two blocks from their own homes, if indeed they know the names of the streets on which they live. The council is the proper body to take this matter in hand.

AT the Fall Assizes in Owen Sound last week there was a case against the Durham Furniture Co., the plaintiff being Mr. John Cameron, of Priceville, who met with an accident some time ago, by which he partially lost the use of one of his hands. He sued the Co. for $1000 damages, and endeavored, as we understand, to take the ground that the machinery was not properly protected, and that he had not received sufficient warning regarding the danger. The case was non-suited. Lucas, Wright and McArdle for Plaintiff, G. L. McCaul, of Durham, and A. G. MacKay for Defendants.

Millinery Opening

DELIGHTED CROWDS VISIT ALL THE SHOW ROOMS—A GRAND SUCCESS.

Last Friday and Saturday were days of feasting for the ladies. They were not regaling themselves on culinary productions nor on the tempting viands many of them know so well how to prepare. Nor yet did they participate in a feast of reason and a flow of soul. Oh, no, it was the millinery opening days, and each of the three establishments were vieing with each other in getting out the grandest millinery display ever witnessed at this season in the town of Durham.

Mr. Ireland and Miss Dick had magnificently attractive windows, as well as loaded tables of exquisite headgear, to be examined inside in their artistic show rooms. The fall millinery to be in keeping with the season is always less gaudy than the spring or summer styles, and hence the absence of color was the first feature to attract the attention of the visitor.

Mr. Morlock had no display window in the neat, natty millinery notions so tastefully prepared by Miss Sweet, who is in charge of the establishment, but the exhibit inside made full compensation for any lack elsewhere. The opening days here, as well as at the other establishments, (all of which permit us to say would do credit to a much larger place) were pronounced a great success by way of admiring visitors and extensive opening-days' sales. Mr. Ireland's millinery is under the management of Miss Euart, a young woman of considerable experience, and skilled in bringing out the best effects known to the millinery art. Miss Dick, too, with so able an artist as Miss De Lyon for an assistant, has full confidence in her ability to satisfy the most fastidious, and from the large display of pretty things to be seen there, we have no doubt she is amply able to accomplish her desire. Each place was certainly a millinery cynosure, and with such a display of taste at home there is surely no need to go elsewhere to be fully suited in the line of head-wear.

AT MISS DICK'S

The stylish tricorner shape made in beautiful chenille braid and panne velvet, the top of brim in cream applique, three nodding black plumes secured to crown by two rossettes composed of velvet ribbon.

A very handsome hat in dark red velvet of the beautiful pattern shows one of the new fancy feather plaques in irridescent reds, two straps of velvet joining plaque to brim, and fastened with pretty enameled buckles.

A neat little hat was the "Neathersole" turban, in brown velvet, graceful breast at left side, and an unique decoration in Parisian effects caught with cut steel buckle in front.

Ladies' bonnets—There were also in great variety, one decidedly pretty was composed of a jetted velvet and sequin front trimmed broad and full with fancy sequin and chenille wings and rosettes of pinkish mauve liberty satin.

AT MORLOCK'S

A beautiful display of millinery goods will be seen at the show rooms, which are in charge of Miss Sweet. This firm has achieved a reputation in Durham as having as fine a display of trimmed hats as could be seen any where. They have surpassed any previous season. The show room, which is large and well lighted electrically, gave the many visitors an excellent opportunity to examine the various styles, of which they have many, but we can only mention a few of the leaders.

Large Gamisborough hat, made in black velvet shirred crown and upper brim, leaving a soft puffing around crown, forming a tam, and also a puffing on edge of brim, under brim covered plain. At front, on under brim, holding two large plumes, is a large gold and brilliant buckle, which gives a decided effect to this pretty hat.

Jonasson Hat—This exquisite hat is one of the stylish hats for winter. The crown and under brim is of mink with a soft draping of panne velvet knotted in front, with ospery going to left side, drape held in place at back with gold buckle.

The Ascher hat, made in white velvet, upper brim drapped with velvet, a sequin band at edge of brim, under brim covered, plain and tam sequin crown lined with white. Large plume starts at front, and following the outline of hat finally droops at back. Front finished with jet buckle, and velvet draping from buckle to band at the left side, finished with jet buckle.

AT IRELAND'S.

The beautifully dressed window was the first thing to attract attention. We next met the genial little milliner, Miss Euart, who was evidently proud of her tastely decorated surroundings. And now for a word about a few of the hats brought before our notice, such as:

A draped turban, very much admired, with shirred facing of dark green velvet, and a green shaded feather plaque crown. Draped around below crown was cream Battenburg lace, caught down with a handsome steel and brilliant ornament at back.

Another black hat, also a beauty, medium sized shape, raised off the face, made of black silk velvet, folds standing up all over the hat; facing of frills of black pleated silk. The trimming consisted of two pointed rosettes of pleated silk on edge of front rim, from which a long plume went back over left side of hat.

A beautiful large hat in grey, had a bell crown, and rim something like "Gainsboro'" style This hat was made of panne velvet, and had a facing of white tulle over satin, with Battenburg lace round edge of hat. The trimming consisted of white tulle and grey panne velvet, and a large grey breast lying along left side of rim. Handsome buckles finished this charming hat.

A large Gainsboro', in black, had a bell crown of folds of chiffon, with facing of same material. This hat had two long plumes, one going each way from front, where there was a large looped rosette of soft satin ribbon with fringed ends brought over rim.

Another turban, which attracted a great deal of attention, had a plaque crown of folds of panne velvet. The rolling rim was made of folds of white and castor velvet Castor velvet was draped above the rim to meet the crown, which had three bands or straps coming over to edge of rim, where they were fastened down with fancy buckles.

One girl's hat was a large flop shape in brown of the new style of soft felt; this had white satin cords going round all over hat. Its facing was of white panne velvet, and the trimming consisted of a large white hackle, curling round rim, with the quill caught through the felt. At the left side, toward back, was a large pretty bow of taffeta silk, bound with brown velvet.

CEMENT NOTES.

Everything is moving nicely and rapid progress is being made around the Cement Works. The gigantic scheme is taking on definite shape and everybody is pleased at the result so far.

The machine shop is now under construction and the walls of cement blocks, made in the yard, are rising rapidly. This building though one of the smallest of the lot is 32x136 feet and standing alone appears to be a large concern.

Excavations are now being made for the rotary building which is 135 by 143 feet, and the foundations will begin in a day or so, and no time will be lost while the season holds good.

During the past week eleven car loads of rails for railroad and switches one car load of bolts for the buildings a car load of 18 inch water pipe, a car load of miscellaneous stuff and four car loads of cement have been delivered here. In addition to this 2,500 ties are to be placed on the ground this week by Mr. E. P. Lawrence of Dornoch. Word has also been received that one of the rotaries 70 feet long has been inspected in Cleveland and will arrive here in about ten days. This gives a general idea of how the work is going, and when we add that stock is selling rapidly we have surely said enough for the present and next week we expect to give something further.

The good will of Mr. Layton in his obedience to Canadian laws is evident from his action on Saturday night last. On the American side where he belongs a person can work right along seven days in the week if he feels so disposed. Some of the pillars being unfinished in the cement building now being erected. Mr. Layton requested a few of the men to return Sunday morning to complete the job, but as soon as they told him that it was contrary to Canadian laws and contrary to the feelings of the good people of Durham, he immediately countermanded the order and nothing was done, nor will anything be done contrary to our law of Sabbath observance. We respect Mr. Layton for his ready acquiescence in a matter so dear to every Canadian heart.

People We Know

THE GOING AND COMING OF VISITORS IN THE MONTH OF OCTOBER.

Mr. McWilliams, of Owen Sound, was in town last Friday.

Mr. Fred Lewis, Piano Tuner, is in town this week.

Dr. Park, of Hamilton, was in town over Sunday.

Mr. Stanhope, of Toronto, was in town Saturday.

Miss Maude Davidson visited Holstein fair, and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allan.

Mr. G. I. Brown, of Portland, is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Gun, of Inneskip, visited the former's father who is seriously ill.

Mr. MacKenzie, of Seattle, Washington, is visiting his grandfather, Dr. Gun, at present.

Miss Ida McEwen, of Mt. Forest, was the guest of Miss Maude Davidson last week.

Mrs. Fraser, of Vickers, leaves this week for Hamilton where she intends to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Hess.

Mr. Courtice, of Clinton, Mr. Broadfoot, of Seaforth, and Mr. Cline, of Wingham, were in town Saturday and looked over the cement.

Rama Reserve.

A very pretty wedding took place at the parsonage on Wednesday, September 4th, when the Rev. John Lawrence, uncle of the bride, united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony, Miss Edith Parker, daughter of Mr. Richard Parker, of Uno Park, Lake Temiscamingue, and Mr. Flavius J. Stouffer, of Stouffville. The ceremony was performed at 2 p. m. In the absence of her father, the bride was given away by her cousin, Mr. Levi L. Lawrence. Robed in her travelling dress of light grey, trimmed with rich silk lace and pearl buttons, the bride presented a picture of womanhood true and handsome. The following were the guests: Miss A. Lawrence, Toronto; Mr. Claton Stouffer, Altona; Miss Etta Cook, Orillia; the Rev. J. Jewitt, Minnisota; Miss Edna McPhee, Mr. Howard McPhee, and Miss M. Brown, Atherley. After the ceremony a light lunch was served, and amidst the cries of good wishes from the whole crowd, and a storm of rice and old boots, the happy couple took the 4:20 train for the city, to spend their honeymoon. From thence they will visit the home and friends of Mr. Stouffer, and will finally settle in Uno Park, Lake Temiscamingue. The presents were many and costly. In the bride Rama loses one of her best Sabbath School workers and Mr. Stouffer gains a prize. May they live long and happy, and may their wedded life be one of peace and prosperity.—Orillia Packet.

One Better Every Time.

It seems to matter not what other newspapers may offer as premiums, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, can always go them one better, and this year they have again clearly outclassed all competitors. Subscribers to that great family paper will this season receive the biggest value ever offered. In addition to a very much improved paper, each subscriber will receive no less than three valuable and seasonable premium pictures. The pictures are large portraits of our new King, Edward VII, and the beautiful Queen Alexandra, each 18x24 inches, on beautiful paper, making a lovely pair of pictures ready for framing, and which should be found in every Canadian home. The third picture is a grand suprise. We have all heard of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire, the picture stolen and recovered after 25 years and recently purchased by J. Pierpont Morgan for $75,000 cash. The publishers of the Family Herald are giving each subscriber this season a beautiful copy of this historical picture, 22x28 inches, in ten rich colors, same as the original, along with the pictures of the King and Queen. All three pictures and a year's subscription to the best Family paper on this continent for one dollar is certainly a big dollar's worth. The plates of the King and Queen will be a surprise. No such plates were ever given with a newspaper.

Baby's cold may be cured in a night by using Vapo-Cresolene, which has been extensively in use for twenty-four years. All druggists.
