PRICEVILLE & GLENELG

There are less fowl to be fed this Saturday morning in our barnyards, and the roosters and turkeys left, are crowing as if lamenting their comrades on the roost. The fragments left from yesterday's feast are picked up this morning and unlike the young man of old who was telling of the large number of bannocks his old mother made, and when those partaking were done, said there was not enough left to feed a child. What do we find at our Christmas feast tables? Yesterday's tables were loaded with all the delicacies imaginable and when all was over, the tables were still full of all kinds of cookery and the consumers sorry that they could not eat more. Some would have liked to have had an old time appetizer before partaking and then a good digester afterward, aye, a bottle at each end of the table.

What a change from the feast days of our forefathers! The feast was of no account if the contents of the bottle were not at each end of the table. The eatables were of no account in comparison to the contents of the bottle. They were all jolly good fellows and if the highland race had a piper in the company, they kept up the old fashioned reel till morning's sun next day told them it was time to go home, and all had to return to the old fashioned pot of potatoes and fish in the land of the heather, across the big mill pond in the highlands of Scotland.

But for all, the Highlanders were generally of a strong race, although some fed on oat cake and porridge and a' that.

Sorry to hear of the death of Jack McKinnon, after a few day's sickness from pneumonia. Jack was well-known in Glenelg and Egremont and engineered for Mr Dunsmoor while threshing last fall. He was buried Saturday last in McNeal's cemetery, Townline, Priceville.

To the Editor and staff, we extend the compliments of the season by wishing readers and all a prosperous New Year.

PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

PRICEVILLE

This will be the last budget for 1925. The old year is almost closed with its joys and its sorrows, its successes and reverses, friends made and friends lost, encouragements and disappointments and in many homes the vacant chair, reminding us that Time goes on and we are all heading to that inevitable end, no matter what use we are making of Time.

Last week, Mr John McKinnon of Egremont, a young man of 27 years, was called away, after a few day's illness from pneumonia, leaving to mourn, one lonely brother Donald, and sister, Mrs Colin Kennedy, Durham. The funeral took place Saturday to Priceville cemetery, Rev. A. Sutherland having charge of the service.

Again this morning, we learn that Mrs John Burnett of South Line, Artemesia, has passed away, after a lingering illness of nearly a year. Next week we will try and write further particulars of the death of this esteemed lady.

The holiday season brought many visitors to the different homes. The following came from Toronto: Misses Ethel Watson, Katie McTaggart, Olive McLean, Sadie and Mary McKinnon, Delia McPhail, Phoebe Livingstone, Esther McInnis, Nellie and Esther McLean, Flo McLean, Dorothy and Mary Carson, Myra McLean, Messrs Alex McLean and Neil Shortreed.

From other points are: Jas McLeod from Tilbury; Miss Donalda Nichol from near Shelburne; Willa McCuaig, Tiverton; Islay McCuaig, near Hanover; Gertrude McCuaig, Annie McLean, Mono Mills; Louise Watson, Beeton; Violet Watson, Mulock; Victoria McMillan, Shelburne.

Mr and Mrs Ed. Watson and family of Durham accompanied by their nephew, Mr Jay Sy, of Sask., spent Xmas at Mrs Chas. Watson's

Mr G. W. and daughter, Miss Margaret, are holidaying with other members of the family in Detroit.

Misses Martha and Louise Watson are visiting their uncle, G. L. Watson of Owen Sound.

Mr P. Johnston, our Public school principal, is spending the vacation at his home, near St. Thomas.

Miss B. Jelly is at her home in Shelburne for the holidays.

Dr. Frank Williamson of Brantford Hospital, is holidaying at his home, O. D. R.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Hueston of Peterboro, spent Christmas at the latter's parents home, Mr and Mrs. Peter Muir.

Mr and Mrs H. Bailey and children of Shrigley, spent Christmas at the latter's former home Mr and Mrs D. MacPhail.

Mr C. D. McMillan of Portage la Prairie, is visiting with his parents, Mr and Mrs D. McMillan, S. L.

Mr Arthur Burnett, Mr and Mrs E. Lane (nee Mable Burnet) of Bassano, Alta., arrived home last week, in time to see their mother alive, and will remain for a couple of months.

Mrs Mepham and son Charlie of Hamilton, are visiting her sister, Mrs J. McMeekin.

Mr and Mrs R. H. Fleming of Toronto and Mr Fleming of Glasgow, Scotland, are visitors at Mr and Mrs F. G. Karstedt's.

Mr and Mrs F. G. Karstedt and Mr and Mrs H. E. Karstedt, spent Xmas in Flesherton.

Mr Bert Patton and cousin, Miss Marguerite Hutton, Toronto, spent Xmas with the Misses Wright.

Mr and Mrs W. J. Bowes and family of Markdale, spent Xmas with the Misses James.

Mr and Mrs Stanley Williams of Dromore, spent Xmas with Mr and Mrs. W. Ramage.

Rev. Mr and Mrs McCormack were in Mitchell for Christmas.

Mr Alex. McDonald and two children, from near Moose Jaw, are visiting his brother, Chas. McDonald, near Dromore. Alex has been away for 14 years and had the misfortune of losing his wife a few yeare ago. He will spend the winter in the East.

Miss Emma McEachern from Sask., is visiting at the old home of Mrs. A. McEachern, S. L., Glen., after spending a few years in the West.

Mrs A. Saulter is spending a few days at her home here.

At the young people's meeting on Tuesday night, a special committee was appointed by the President to consider about the banquet. The program was opened with a piano solo by Mr. Hueston and vocal duet by Miss Grace and Mr Reg. Ramage. Lantern views then illustrated "The story of the other wise man" while the story was fully explained by Rev Mr. McCormack.

The Christmas tree held in connection with the United Church here passed off most successfully. A fine program was given, consisting of two choir selections, two S. S. choruses, recitations by Sadie Vause, Jeanette McLeod, Mary McDonald, Kathleen Burnett, Viola Stafford, Evelyn McDiarmid, Wallace McDiarmid; a song by Primary girls, drill "colored candles" by Primary boys; pantomime by older girls; reading by Dr. Blake; piano duett by Mrs Harold and Mrs. Fred Karstedt; a doll drill by Primary girls; two dialogues by older boys; dialogue by O. D. Road boys and girls; May pole drill by older girls; solo by Dorothy Mallyon; and piano solo by Jeanette McLeod.

The drills and pantomime were especially well performed. That of the Maypole displayed the beauty of the poetry and symmetry of action, by 12 young ladies in plaiting in groups of three, in winding and circling. To the onlooker, it looked a maze of confusion, but everything all unfolded itself without a solitary hitch. Much of the program had to be left out for lack of time. Santa Claus arriving after 10 p. m. from nearby towns, made his speech full of well wishes and good will to all. The tree lit up with tiny electric bulbs, looked lovely, with its load of precious things soon distributed by willing hands. Among others, the organist was remembered by the choir with a box of fancy elite writing paper and envelopes, and the choir leader with a pair of gloves. Was it so he might handle them with them? No, perish the thought. It was rather that his heart be made warm towards them: Of course that is superfluous. It is such now. Splendid good feeling prevailed, all voting it a most enjoyable evening.

The services in St. Columba on Sunday were inspiring and of a Christmas nature. Rev. S. G. McCormack's morning text was "The Worshippers at Bethlehem" and in the evening "The First Christmas Carol". The choir contributed two anthems of Christmas sentiment at each service. A solo and obligato was given at the evening service in addition by Mrs. H. McLean, the choir accompanying in the chorus of "That glorious Song of Old." A matter of satisfaction to all was the announcement that St. Columba and Ebenezer had gone over their allocation for the Maintenance and Extension Fund by a comfortable margin, a free will offering.

Mrs Fred. Karstedt's father, mother and uncle are at present on a visit to their daughter here.

SWINTON PARK

This truly is an exciting old world as the air hardly ever gets clear of election strife. Now all over this Dominion, municipal elections are on and candidates aplenty in Proton on Monday. Four were nominated for the Reeveship and nine for Council. Now these may not all stand. However they all aired their views on municipal affairs anl when through, there was little left to be said.

The people of the Park were, one asd all, very sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mrs Thos Atchison in Durham Hospital, and all wish for a recovery.

On Wednesday of this week there will be united in wedlock, at the home of her uncle, Mr Alex. Richardson, Miss Mary McLean, daughter of Jas. and Mrs McLean, 17th con. and Mr Hooper of N. Egremont. A reception will be held that evening for the many friends of the bride. Mary has spent the greater part of her young life at her uncle's and is well and favorably known here. We bespeak for this young couple a happy wedded life, both having grown up under favorable conditions and in homes where the best things in life are kept well to the fore.

The young people of the Park entertained the many visitors home for Christmas by a community dance on Saturday evening in the hall. All had an enjoyable time and wended their way home ere 12 o'clock.

Zion's annual Christmas entertainment held on Xmas eve, was a decided success, the church being well filled. Rev. J. E. Peters took charge of the lengthy program. The program was opened by singing an old familiar hymn "All hail the power of Jesus' name," which was followed by prayer. The program consisted of a couple of choruses by the school children, a Chinese song by 5 school children which was well acted, a pantomine "Comin' thru the Rye" by Miss Iola Noble; a duet by Mrs. Noble and Miss Edith Teeter. Three short plays were given by the young people, entitled 'Jumbo Jum'; 'Getting rid of father'; 'Troubled by Ghosts'; a dialogue by the school children, 'A sure Cure' was well given. Music by Zion orchestra was much appreciated. A 'Grandmother' drill by 8 young girls and an Eastern hanl drill by 8 young men, were two comic duets. At the close of the program old Santa appeared and the gifts from two well laden trees were distributed. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $39.

Funeral of late Jno. McPhail

Death came suddenly to the McPhail home Saturday, 19th Dec. when Mr John McPhail was called to his eternal resting place, at 59 years of age. Only taken seriously ill a few days previous all was done that could be for his comfort, Nurse Cole, Bowmanville, assisting, when the end came peacefully Saturday morning. The deceased was a highly respected and valued friend, loved by all who knew him though the last two years was not active as was his usual. The funeral Tuesday was conducted by his pastor, of the Union congregation at Hopeville, Rev Robt. Patton, B. A., who held a short service at the home, preceding that of the Hall and to Dundalk cemetery for burial.

Floral tributes were tendered by Mrs McPhail, son and daughter—a 'broken column'; Russell and Gillies families,— a pillow; Brothers and sisters—a wreath. The pall bearers were nephews of deceased—Thos. Spence Jr.; Alex Gillies, Arch Russell, Jim Gillies, Peter McEachnie, Mac Henderson. Mr Colin McMillan, Holstein, an old and intimate friend, had charge of the funeral.

"WORTH WHILE BOOKS"

I. C. McGIRR

'BESIDE THE BONNIE BRIER BUSH'

By Ian McLaren

This is an old book with a story that is ever new. Those who enjoy hearing the Scotch accent, will be assured of finding pleasant companionship with the characters the author has so cleverly depicted. Where will one find a better neighbor than Margaret Howe, or a school teacher that had more interest in the welfare of his pupils than Domsie? In the story of the transformation of Lachlan Campbell we see the stern unapproachable Scotsman change into a hnmble and loving disposition. No one was intoxicated in Drumtochty,—the worst that could be said was "ye could see he had been tastin". The cunning speech of Drumtochty shows humor and pathos, and the cynicism of Jamie Soutar was always applied at the right moment. No man was more loved in any community than Dr. MacLure whose whole life was given for others.
