DOES THE GOV'T DO THE THINKING OF THE WOM. INSTITUTE?

The Cadet Training movement has had a stormy course to hoe since its inception in several of the collegiates of Ontario. That it has the approval of the Gov't, is evident by the large grant this organization receives, even though the Ontario Educational Association and other bodies, condemn it by overwhelming majorities, as an encouragement to fostering the militaristic spirit in the country.

At the recent provincial Convention of Women's Institutes in Toronto, they just as strongly endorsed the movement as it has received censure from other bodies. The Farmers' Sun, have "put it plain" to the ladies of the Institute that their course is wrong as judged by the following editorial last week:

.. "The fact is the Women's Institutes, while they number among their members many of our best rural women, are nevertheless so completely dominated by political and urban influence that their decisions cannot be accepted as any criterion of rural opinion. This is especially to be regretted in view of the fact that press reports of the convention intimate that, by rejecting the resolution, the rural women of the province have placed their stamp of approval upon cadet training in the public schools. Nothing, of course, could be farther from the truth and it is to be hoped that the United Farm Women at their Convention next week will so indicate. While on the subject of the Institutes, it is of interest to note that the cost thereof continues upwards. For the year ending Oct 31, 1929, the last year for which figures are available, the provincial gov't expended public money to a total of $82,753.82 for the maintenance of the Women's Institutes Branch. Of this amount, $9,006.25 was disbursed in salaries to a permanent staff of six, the highest paid of whom was G A Putnam, Sup't of the Branch, who walked away with $3,600 for his services. Contingencies, including travelling expenses of the permanent staff, printing, stationery, papers and periodicals, postage, telegrams, telephone and so forth, took $3, 975.07. Grants to county branches of the Institutes absorbed $7,139.00 : lecturers received for their services and expenses $25,955.80. Miscellaneous lecture expenses amounted to $975.76, while payments for services and expenses in connection with demonstration lecture courses in home nursing totalled $35,701.94. Much of the good work of the Institutes is negatived by the members' willingness to let the government do their thinking for them."

FIRST IN 31 YEARS

Premier Ferguson's retirement from the office of first Minister while his party is in power, will be the first in Ontario in 31 years. The late Hon. A. S. Hardy resigned the Premiership to accept a position at Osgoode Hall in October 1899. He succeeded Sir Oliver Mowat who yielded to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's call and went to Ottawa as Minister of Justice. Mr Ferguson's retirement brings to a close the ninth ministry in Ontario since Confederation, as follows:

Hon. John Sandfield MacDonald, 1867 to 1871.
Hon. Edward Blake, 1871 to 1872
Sir Oliver Mowat, 1872 to 1896
Hon. A. S. Hardy, 1896 to 1899
Sir Geo. Ross, 1899 to 1905
Sir James Whitney, 1905 to 1914
Sir Wm. Hearst, 1914 to 1919
Hon. E. C. Drury, 1919 to 1923
Hon. G. H. Ferguson, 1923 to 1930.

Tariff no Good to Farmers

London Advertiser: With a tariff of 14c a pound on butter prices in Chicago, the leading United States produce market, have dropped to the lowest level in years. Eggs are also at the lowest level in years with the tariff sky-high. United States farmers have been buncoed and the recent Congressional elections show they are beginning to know it.

School Section Remains

A petition presented by the rural ratepayers in Dundalk public school section that the section be dissolved, was thrown out by Judge C. J. Sutherland of Owen Sound, who dealt with the matter.

Wright and she also read a paper on the author of some of the Children's Christmas poems and read the poem, 'The night before Christmas.' A dialogue by seven children entitled, 'Telling about Christmas' was well given. Mr D. J. McDonald led in prayer. The meeting closed by singing 'Come all ye faithful' and two contests were enjoyed.
