TUXIS' BOYS COLUMN

Register early!

Only 60 boys can be accommodated so every boy who purposes to attend should register as early as possible.

Remember the date, from July 17, to July 24. Camp Saugeen folder with registration blanks may be secured from Glen Lloyd, Durham.

The Argonaut Trail Ranger Camp, Holstein, will leave Holstein on June 27 bound for Muskoka. They will visit various points of interest along the way: Camp Borden, Orillia, Muskoka, Midland, Wasaga Beach and Collingwood. One of the boys will write an article for our column next week on the trip.

On Monday night another clash occurred when the Sir Galahads tied the Eagles 1—1 in football. The subbing system persists more or less successfully. The end of the first half found the Sir Galahads leading with 1 goal and 28 perspiring players on the field. The last half was well played. The Eagles crowded their opponents' goal, and in the general melee an enthusiastic Eagle rooter shoved in a goal near the end of the game the Eagles scored to tie the game.

After the game a meeting was held to plan for the camp. Several committees were appointed and plans were made to make a boat for camp. It will be officially launched about the beginning of camp. Can you suggest a name?

The boys of Durham and South East Grey will regret very much the loss of Rev. Mr Fiddes. He has been an enthusiastic worker for several years. He organized and is the present Mentor of the Trail Ranger Camp and Tuxis Square in Durham. We are sorry to lose him and wish him at the same time every success in his new field.

R. D. CARRUTHERS, Pres. H. McKECHNIE, Sec'y.

QUEEN STREET W. M. S.

The W.M.S. of Sueen St. United Church, was held Thursday, at the home of Mrs Hopkins, Mrs H. McCrae presiding. The resignation of Mrs Groves as President and Mrs. Fiddes as Recording Sec'y were received. The appointment of a President was left until a later date. Mrs Glass accepted the office of Recording Sec'y. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs Hopkins and Mrs. Yiirs in connection with their supply work.

Mrs Knechtel took charge of the program: Psalm 24 was read responsively. The Devotional Leaflet "High Ideals" was read by Mrs Glass. Mrs M. Wilson sang very effectively, "Some day He'll make it plain to me." Mrs Knechtel introduced the Study Boarding Schools and School Homes. Mrs Yiirs read the account of the work being done for the new Canadians in Manitoba and Mrs McCrae gave the story of the work in Quebec. These schools all help to bring about the unity of the Dominion wide family.

The Heralds responding to the Watch Tower were Mrs Fiddes and Mrs Glass. Prayer by Mrs Twamley closed the meeting.

NORTH VICKERS

A sociable time was spent in the schoolhouse on Friday afternoon last, when a number of the people of the section assembled by request of our teacher, Mr Irvin Sharp and pupils, to enjoy with them an hour, in their closing exercises an hour after the school term. After an enjoyable program, presented by teacher and pupils, George Bailey read an address and Albert Reay presented to Mr. Sharpe, a purse of money on behalf of the section, ere his departure from our midst. Mr Sharpe responded and spoke some kind words before leaving the section. We are sorry to lose Mr Sharpe and join in wishing him every success in the future.

We must not forget to mention Mr Sharpe's gift to the school, which was a beautiful clock. We thank him very much as it was something badly needed.. Miss Florence McDonald of Durham, is our new teacher.

The June meeting was held at the home of Mrs Wm Fulton, with ten members and six visitors present. The meeting was opened in the usual manner by Ode and creed. We're Coming Along

What with Agnes Macphail sending a letter to each of the Senators asking for a contribution to assist the League of Nations in their work, with a view to disarmament, and President Hoover of the United States considering the nullifying of war debts for a year at least, it makes one feel as if we were making progress in some lines at least.

Miss Macphail's Weekly Letter to the Review

"I make my suggestion in all good faith, not as the leader of a party—and the Prime Minister laughs at it! the Prime Minister laughs!" Thus dramatically Mr Mackenzie King closed his four hour speech on the Budget, a speech which, while much too long and lacking that degree of constructive thought which one would wish to hear from a Liberal leader in these distressing and trying times, was sufficiently good to hold the attention of the House and the galleries throughout the whole of its length. Though much of it was political a note of real concern—rather troubled concern — over our present condition could be heard. While it is much easier to claim the common people as one's friends in opposition than in government, the vigorous championing of the cause of the people by the Leader of the Opposition has value. Mr King was possibly weakest in his attack upon the suggestion in the sub amendment, that Canada should suspend redemption of Dominion notes in gold in order that prices might be raised, debts lessened and business helped. "Why fly to the ills we know not of to get away from the ills which beset us now." He admitted that suspensions took place in Canada after war was declared in 1914 and in United States after the Civil War had commenced, but "we are neither in an international or civil war, and why should we announce to mankind that this Parlament has felt it necessary to adopt in times of peace in Canada, a measure which thus far nations have found it necessary to adopt only under great stress, sudh as in time of war."

In closing Mr King suggested the need of two conferences: one between the Dominion and the Provinces, to discuss financial arrangements and to come to some method of delimiting the fields of revenues and expenditures and so arrange matters that taxes in municipalities, provinces and the Dominion will not unnecessarily be increased at this time. The second conference should be of employers, employees, trade unions, farmers organizations, women's organizations, Red Cross and the like. Mr King suggested that this group should appoint a com. to handle all the money for the unemployed, that they should report back to the Gov't. In this way overlapping would be prevented and the Auditor General would audit all the expenditure they made. It was at the conclusion of these remarks that the Prime Minister laughed, providing a perfect finish for his opponent's speech. We might now cancel out Mr. King's "not a five-cent piece" speech of last session and Mr. Bennett's laughter.

Mr E. J. Garland of Bow River, in replying to Mr King's attack on the policy of leaving the gold standard, quoted eminent authorities in this country and others. Mr Neill of the Royal Bank and Sir Herbert Holt have both said that the principal cause of the present condition in this country and throughout the world is a wrong monetary policy. Sir Basil Blackett, one of the directors of the Bank of England, was quoted as follows: "The basic cause of the present difficulty lay in the banking methods, and in a too rigid gold standard and in the monetary policy generally.' Sir Josiah Stamp has said, "Many of our troubles would pass if the bankers could only be weaned from their traditional beliefs." It was Mr Garland's opinion that there was no hope of trade recovery under our present slavish devotion to a gold standard. The League of Nations have had for some time, a gold committee, studying this problem. One member of that committee, Gustav Cassel, in speaking of the break in prices in 1920—21, said: "The downward movement of prices has not as is sometimes assumed, been merely a spontaneous result of forces beyond our control: it is entirely the result of a policy deliberately framed with a view to bringing down prices and of giving a higher value to the monetary unit."

In my speech on the Budget, I stated my grounds for opposing it. The Budget made no mention of the need of change in the monetary system, nor did it provide for any change. By it, arrangement is made to balance the budget next year by additional taxation on an already overburdened people. The Finance Minister could have issued currency through the Treasury Board, against the assets of Canada, to the amount of the deficit, or if not prepared to go so far, could have borrowed at low rates of interest. The new taxes will be paid largely with borrowed money; the individual borrows it with great difficulty and at high rates of interest: the taking of the 75 or 80 million dollars out of the already painfully limited purchasing power of the people will still further intensify the depression. The Budget exempted the incomes of the very rich from higher rates of taxation and for that reason, if no other, should be opposed. It made no provision for the care of the unemployed through the very difficult winter facing us; it increased tariffs, and its general effect upon South-East Grey is detrimental to the best interests of the people. To us it means more taxes.

Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways, was the last member of the Government to speak on the Budget. He devoted himself almost exclusively to the financial condition of the Canadian National Railways and the Government's attitude toward it. In referring to "the Prime Minister laughs' incident, he recalled to the House the speech made by Mr. King on unemployment last year, in which he had practically denied the existence of such a condition and in which he had said, he would not give a five-cent piece for the relief of unemployment to any province of this country under a Conservative regime, and at that time there were six provinces with Conservative governments. "And now he cries, as though he had discovered the villain in the piece, 'the Prime Minister laughs.' No wonder the Prime Minister laughed; who would not laugh at such an attitude as that taken by the Rt. Hon. Gentleman." Dr. Manion's speech, while dealing largely with figures, was very well done. He gave the following as his conclusions: "If the depression passes, if unwise capital expenditures are not indulged in, if costly advertising stunts are eliminated, if proper economic management is brought into play, and if the people of this country are reasonable in their demands as to freight rates and capital expenditures, I think within five years there will be a much more hopeful and cheerful picture in connection with both the great railways of Canada than there is at the present time . . . The real friends of the National Railways are those who believe in care, caution and economy in the policies of the road."

The vote on the Budget was never for a moment in doubt. It carried with a very substantial majority and now we discuss it item by item. With many estimates yet to be voted, the Beauharnois investigation only beginning, we are likely to be here for a month longer.

Never..
pass a car on a hill... or curve

Experienced drivers of motor cars have learned that there is one rule of the road which cannot be violated without danger to life and limb . . . these seasoned drivers always keep in line when the road ahead is obscured.

Hill tops and curves are blind spots on the highway. You can't see what is coming toward you . . . and there's almost always sure to be another car coming around the curve or over the hill. The one safe rule is to stay on your side of the road . . . the right side.

Every time you take a chance that the road ahead may be clear, you jeopardize your own safety and the approaching motorist may be made an innocent victim of your carelessness . . . surely a heavy price to pay in conscience and cash.

After all you can observe the "Hill and Curve rule" for a whole season without losing as much as sixty minutes' time all told . . . Why not?
