KNOX UNITED W. M. S.

The W.M.S. of Knox United Church met in the church schoolroom on May 11th, with Mrs Mather presiding. The meeting opened with hymn 645 and the Lord's Prayer. After business matters were disposed of hymn 545 was sung and Mrs Thos McGirr offered prayer and the members repeated the 23rd Psalm. Miss Jessie Smith read the Dev. Leaflet, "Mary, the woman of Quiet.' Mrs Thos. Young had charge of the topic from the study book the subject being an account of the different missionary societies previous to Union. Mrs. Young told how, that from the time of our Lord, women had been given to church work and had continued this work down through the ages. Then came the formation of the different church societies and their activities. The Congregational formed in 1888, Episcopal Methodist in 1876 and Presbyterian in 1864. Mrs Alder then spoke on the Budget and stressed the fact that what the church needs to-day for Missions, is Pentecost, and to realize that it is God's agent to do His work. The meeting closed with the Theme Song and prayer by Mrs Mather.

RELIEF AID A VOLUNTARY OBLIGATION — NOT LEGAL

In a Hamilton court, observes the Kingston Whig-Standard, there was handed down recently a decision relating to responsibility that relief cases throughout Ontario would do well to ponder over. and also all citizens who feel that municipalities must care for all in distress because of unemployment.

An unemployed Hamilton man, deprived of relief because he owned an auto and a radio, sued the relief authorities on behalf of himself and family. In handing down his decision the judge stated that municipal governments are not bound to provide relief, and that any assistance given is a privilege and not a right so far as the recipient is concerned.

There are people on relief lists, who look upon the receipt of relief as a right, who are ready to assert that the municipalities must take care of them. Among these are those who are unwilling to work, to give any service in return for the aid given them from public funds, who think that civic authorities have no alternative but to provide them with the necessities of life.

Such people would do well to consider the Hamilton judgment which shows that municipalities are under no legal obligation to provide food, shelter and clothing. The obligation which municipalities have assumed is a moral one. The assistance given to those in distress has been voluntary, not compulsory. It would make the whole handling of relief simpler and happier if all in receipt of public assistance were to regard it in that light.

THE 24TH WAS A GREAT DAY

We move to-day very close to the 24th of May, but of course the 24th of May cannot be the same as it was years ago. Somehow the glory and the thrill and the color have gone out of the day. People who lived through the period when the 24th of May was the biggest day of the year, and who still talk about it, are apt to be told by the younger folk that they are always talking about what used to take place on the 24th of May.

Of course it must be admitted that we can live it again in memory only. It would be quite out of the question to go through another 24th as it used to be done. In the first place we would not enjoy getting up at 4.30 in the morning to enjoy walking over the hills to the old fishing hole, the old swimming hole for the first swim of the season which simply had to take place on the 24th of May regardless of weather. We are certain that a tendency toward sciatica would prevent any such excursion. Then there is the matter of letting off firecrackers. We are quite sure it would not be possible to place a nice large one under the chair of some sedate gentleman who was sitting out in front of the Central Hotel and then be at a safe distance by the time it exploded. Likewise we doubt very much whether it would be possible to climb high up in a tree at the edge of the fair grounds to see the racing and we know there would have to be more than one board off the fence before we could actually enter the grounds. To-day there would probably be the inclination to enter by the official gate and pay the required entrance fee.

We are quite certain too that resentment would be general of the numerous fights that were staged around the livery stables on that day. All the differences of the year were settled then: it was a sort of clearing house for pugilism. From 4.30 in the morning until 11 or 12 at night, would be rather long now so perhaps it is advisable just to live over the 24th in memory rather than to long too earnestly for participation in person. But don't you ever forget that it was a great day.—Star Weekly.

GOD MADE A GARDEN

(Katharine Atherton Grimes)

God made a garden to rest His eyes
After the spaces of earth and skies;
God made a garden to rest His heart,
Where He might walk sometimes apart.

God made a garden because He saw
Life was good by a garden's law;
Flowers for love, and fruitful trees—
Soul and body may grow with these.

God made a garden because He knew
There must be work for His sons to do;
Bessies to gather keep mischief out,
And a clinging vine is no place for doubt.

God made a garden just to find
Another way to be loving-kind;
And the things we see in the garden-row
Are the words He has written to tell us so.

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Institute and Junior Farmers will be held on Thursday evening, May 18, at 8.15 p.m. in the basement of Durham Public Library. All young people welcome.

Takes Teachers' Tip to raise Standard

Premier Henry Announces Discontinuance of Second-Class Courses in 1935.

Discontinuation in September 1935, of courses for second-class teachers, thus reducing the number of the teaching profession and assuring a better-prepared class of teachers for schools, was one regulation affecting normal school courses in Ontario, issued by Premier Henry as Minister of Education. Premier Henry accepted several recommendations submitted by teachers, trustees and educational bodies, along these lines.

Other regulations allow extension of interim certificates issued in July 1929; cancellation of interim certificates issued in July 1928, with the requirement that teachers who wish to continue return for the second-years course in September.

The new regulations in full are as follows:

"The Minister of Education makes following announcement with regard to (1) the second year normal course commencing in Sept. 1933 and 1934. and (2) the qualifications for admission to the normal schools commencing Sept. 1935.

"Interim certificates issued in July 1929: Teachers who completed first year normal school course in 1929 and whose interim rertificates will expire in July 1933, are granted one year's extension to their certificates, but, if they wish to continue teaching after thatdate, they will be required to return for the second year normal school course in Sept. 1934.

"Interim certificates issued in July 1928: Teachers who completed the first year normal school course in 1928 and whose interim certificates were extended to July 1933, are notified that these certificates will expire in July 1933, and that if they wish to continue teaching, they will be required to return for the second year normal course commencing in Sept. 1933. This course will be given at each of the normal schools. The forms of application may be obtained from the Deputy Minister of Education after July 1.

Qualifications for admission to normal schools, Sept. 1935: Commencing in Sept. 1935, the courses for second class teachers will be discontinued. Applicants for admission to the normal schools will require to hold departmental certificates as prescribed at present for admission to the first class course and in addition certificates of lower school standing in English grammar and arithmetic."

THORNBURY SCHOOL BOARD SWAMPED WITH APPLICATIONS

There is no scarcity of teachers for Ontario Secondary Schools, says the Thornbury Review-Herald last week, when results came in to the School Board there, from an advertisement in the daily press, for the four positions on Thornbury Continuation School staff. To the time of going to press, 270 had been received by Sec'y Mr Idle, and he expected a total of 300 before they were through.

About 15 of the applicants made personal interviews.

"While the applications have not been fully reviewed," said the Herald, "it has been found there are about forty persons who have intimated their willingness to assume the principal's duties, while the balance of the letters are more or less evenly divided among the other three positions. Salaries are said to range from $1,800 to $3,000 for the principalship, while the range of salaries asked for the assistants, generally "run" from $1,000 to $1,500."

Henry Ford says things are on the mend. The Meaford Mirror thinks however we should have more faith in Henry as a maker of automobiles than as a prophet.

There always shall be human needs,
For men to work and struggle for.
