HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

RICE FLOUR PASTRY.—Break half a pound of fresh butter into half a pound of the finest rice flour; add a little finely-powdered white sugar and a pinch of salt; moisten into a rather firm paste with water, knead lightly and roll out thin. The oven must not be too quick.

CAPITAL OATMEAL CAKES.—Work three parts of fine oatmeal and one part of flour into a stiff paste, with treacle (golden syrup), with the addition of a very small quantity of lard and baking-powder to impart the desired lightness. Bake the paste in the form of small flat cakes, much resembling the ordinary "ginger-nuts" of the biscuit baker.

JOHNNY-CAKE.—Take three eggs, well beaten, with a sprinkling of salt, add two cups of buttermilk, half a cup of brown sugar, about two tablespoonsful of melted butter, two cups Indian meal, one cup flour, one teaspoonful soda. Beat well and put into a buttered pan. Sweetmilk does quite as well as buttermilk, if a teaspoonful and a half cream Tartar is added. This, if eaten with maple molasses, will be found very good.

TEA-CAKES.—Rub three ounces of butter and two ounces of pounded sugar into one pound and a half of flour. Mix into this, by degrees, four and a half teaspoonsful of Borwick's baking-powder. When all well mixed, add by degrees half a pint of warm milk, into which has been put two eggs, well beaten. Mix all together with a wooden spoon, and divide into six teacakes. Put into a warm tin and bake in a quick oven.

COOKING PRUNES.—Some people do not seem to understand the proper way to cook prunes. They wash them, put them into the sauce-pan and set them upon the stove at once to cook. Prunes done in this way are not fit to eat. The proper way is this: Wash the prunes carefully, put them into a sauce-pan and cover them with cold water; set upon the back of the oven where they will not get very hot, and let stand for twenty-four hours, then bring them to the front of the stove and let them simmer gently for half an hour, adding sugar to sweeten. Prunes cooked in this way will be found very delicious.

AMMONIA.—No housekeeper should be without a bottle of spirits of ammonia, for, besides its medicinal value, it is invaluable for household purposes. It is nearly as useful as soap, and its cheapness brings it within reach of all. For cleansing paint, it is very useful. Put a teaspoonful of ammonia to a quart of warm soap-suds, dip in flannel cloth, and wipe off the dust and fly-specks, grime and smoke, and see for yourselves how much labor it will save. No scrubbing will be needful. It will cleanse and brighten silver wonderfully; to a pint of hot suds mix a teaspoonful of the spirit, dip in your silver spoons, forks, etc., rub with a brush, and then polish on chamois skin. For washing mirrors and windows, it is also very desirable; put a few drops of ammonia upon a piece of newspaper, and you will readily take off any spot or finger-mark on the glass. It will take out grease-spots from any fabric; put on the ammonia nearly clear, lay blotting-paper over the place, and press a hot flat iron on it for a few moments. A few drops in water will clean laces and whiten them as well; also muslins. Then it is a most refreshing agent at the toilet-table; a few drops in a basin of water will make a better bath than pure water, and if the skin is oily, it will remove all glossiness and also disagreeable odours. Added to a foot-bath, it entirely absorbs all noxious smell so often arising from the feet in warm weather, and nothing is better for cleansing the hair from dandruff and dust. For cleaning hair and nail brushes it is equally good. Put a tea-spoonful of ammonia into one pint of warm or cold water, and shake the brushes through the water; when the bristles look white, rinse them in cold water, and put in the sunshine or in a warm place to dry. The dirtiest brushes will come out of the bath white and clean. For medicinal purposes ammonia is almost unrivalled. For the headache it is a desirable stimulant, and frequent inhaling of its pungent odours will often entirely remove catarrhal cold. There is no better remedy for heart-burn and dyspepsia, and the aromatic spirit of ammonia is especially prepared for these troubles. Ten drops of it in a wine-glass of water are often a great relief. The spirits of ammonia can be taken in the same way; but it is not as palatable. In addition to all these uses, the effects of ammonia on vegetation are beneficial. If you desire your roses, geraniums, fuchsias, etc., to become more flourishing, you can try it upon them, by adding five or six drops of it to every pint of warm water that you give them; but don't repeat the dose oftener than once in every five or six days, lest you stimulate them too highly. Rain-water is impregnated with ammonia, and thus it refreshes and vivifies vegetable life. So be sure and keep a large bottle of it in the house, and have a glass stopper for it, as it is very evanescent and also injurious to corks, eating them away.

Home Reading.

One of the most pleasant and noblest duties of the head of the family is to furnish its members with good reading. Let good reading go into a home, and the very atmosphere of that home gradually but surely changes. The boys begin to grow very ambitious, to talk about men, places, books, the past and the future. The girls begin to feel a new life opening before them in knowledge, duty, and love.

They see new fields of usefulness and pleasure; and so the family changes, and out from its number will grow intelligent men and women, to fill honourable places, and be useful members of society. Let the torch of intelligence be lit in every household. Let the old and young vie with each other in introducing new and useful topics of investigation, and in cherishing a love of reading, study and improvement.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW PLANETS.—Three more new small planets have recently been discovered—the first by M. Perrotin, at Toulouse, on Jan. 29th; the second by M. Cottenot, at Marseilles, on February 2nd; and the third by Prof. Peters, at Hamilton College, Clinton, U.S.A., on the 6th. Unless it turns out on further investigation that one or more of them is a older one, the discoveries of the three will reckon as Nos. 180, 181, and 182.

In 1876 the number of miles operated on the Intercolonial was 344, and the cost of operating them $1,6[illegible], being at the rate of about $2,950 per mile. That was under the late Administration managed 745 miles of the same road, the cost being $1,661,675.88, or an average cost per mile of about $2,230, being some $720 less per mile than the cost under the old government.

An account in a Russian paper of recent explorations in Siberia relates that one of the travellers, while proceeding along an estuary of the river Lena, found a pack of wolves devouring the frozen flesh of a mammoth, which had been exposed by the breaking away of a cliff, and was apparently in a perfect state of preservation. This is probably the oldest preserved meat in the world, compared with which the most ancient Egyptian mummy is a recent pottage.

AUSTRALIAN EXPLORATION.—News has been received from Australia that a party has been despatched to explore the vast unknown districts in the northern territory, on the Katherine and Fitzmaurice. It was expected that their journey would last seven months, and that thay would meet with land suitable for sheep. Another party has recently returned after discovering some magnificent country between the Victoria and the junction of the Katherine and the Daly.

Doctor Kinlay, of Cincinnati, asserts that habitual drunkenness is a disease purely physical, and may be overcome by medicine. He asserts that he is eminently successful in his own practice. This is his modus operandi:—The patient is dosed with whiskey, calomel, and ipecacuanha in large quantities, and in frequently repeated doses. After a day or so of this treatment he, of course, becomes desperately sick, and dreads he is dying—more whiskey is exhibited. Again sick, still more whiskey and more ipecacuanha. On the third day he loathes the smell of whiskey and the thought of stimulants. Again more ipecacuanha in small doses. "At the end of the week," the doctor says, "dropsical symptoms disappear, and the patient, though weak, is healthy, with a good appetite and a clean tongue."

There was an extraordinary scene in the course of a recent trial of the Nihilists in St. Petersburg. A prisoner named Mischkin complained of the merciless ill-usage and torture to which he had been forced to submit for two years. According to his statement, during the prolonged examination, 43 of the 180 prisoners had died from natural causes, 12 had committed suicide, and 28 had gone mad. He denounced the proceedings as a miserable farce. At these words the judge jumped up and gave orders that the prisoner should be at once removed. An officer of the gendarmes promptly seized Mischkin, but at the same time two other prisoners rushed to the aid of the latter, and a hand-to-hand fight ensued, in which the officer had to contend against the three. Mischkin continued in a louder key to rail against the Court and the judges. At last a gag was forced into his mouth, and he, with his fellow-prisoners, were dragged out of the chamber. A terrible tumult ensued in the Court. Many women, some being wives of the prisoners, fainted or went into hysterics, and loud curses were heard. The prisoners, officials, spectators and gendarmes were involved in a riotous struggle, but eventually a detachment of soldiers succeeded in clearing the place.

A Richmond woman asks for a divorce, saying that she has not seen her husband since he murdered her father.

Why is the sculptor Powers the meanest man that ever lived?—Because he chiselled a poor Greek girl out of a piece of piece of marble.

The wife of a citizen of Hamilton objects to his keeping the memory of her five predecessors green by wearing five bands of crape on his hat.

Irritating the feelings—After rolling all night in your berth at sea, to have a steward ask you in the morning if you will have a fresh roll for breakfast.

"The manufacture of paper from wood has reached the altitude of perfection in Canada," says the Danbury News. "The superintendent of the mill says a tree is cut down and shoved into one end of the mill and five minutes later there is a neighbor at the other end to borrow the paper."

When Abraham Lincoln was a poor lawyer, he found himself, one cold day, at a village some distance from Springfield, and with no means of conveyance. Seeing a gentleman driving along the Springfield road in a carriage, he ran up to him and said: "Sir, will you have the goodness to take my overcoat to town for me?" "With pleasure," answered the gentleman. "But how will you get it again?" "Oh, very easily," said Mr. Lincoln, "as I intend to remain in it." "Jump in," said the good man, laughing. And the house President had a pleasant ride.

Why she wouldn't: A young lady was at a party during which quarrels between husband and wife were discussed. "I think," said an unmarried elder son, "that the proper thing is for the husband to have it out at once and thus avoid quarrels for life future. I would light a cigar in the carriage after the wedding breakfast, and thus settle the smoking question forever." "I would knock the cigar out of your mouth," interrupted the belle. "Do you know I don't think you would be there," he remarked.

Council then adjourned to meet at Maxwell on the 28th day of May next, as a Court of Revision.

Friendly Notices.

THE GREY REVIEW.—This is the title of a new paper published in the town of Durham, by Mr. J. Townsend. It is neatly printed, Reform in politics, but its articles are rich and racy. We wish it success financially.—"Grand River Sachem."

THE GREY RETIEW is the title of a new weekly journal recently started in Durham, in the county of Grey. The REVIEW is Reform in politics, and during the coming months the cause will enjoy the benefit of its advocacy in a part of the county hitherto unsupplied with the luxury of a Reform journal.—"Daily Globe."

The third number of the GREY REVIEW, published in Durham, county of Grey, by Mr. J. Townsend, has reached us. It is the Dundalk GUIDE in a new and much improved form. Mr. townsend knows how to get up a neat and readable paper, as the REVIEW abundantly testifies. Its politics are staunch Reform.—"Dumfries Reformer."

We have the first number of the GREY REVIEW, a weekly paper just issued in the town of Durham, by Mr. J. Townsend, late of the Dundalk "Guide." The REVIEW is to be published in the interests of Reform, and promises to be a live and well conducted paper. We wish Bro. Townsend much success in his enterprise.—"Mt. Forest Confederate."

The Dundalk GUIDE has changed its name and its place of residence. It is henceforth to be called the GREY REVIEW, and is to be published at Durham. We hope this new move will be a move in the right direction, and that friend Townsend will meet with the success he deserves in his new sphere of action.—"O. S. Advertiser."

We see by a late issue of the Dundalk GUIDE, that the proprietor will, after his next issue, remove the plant to Durham, where he intends to publish his paper in future. If he continues to conduct his paper in the same able manner that he has in the past, he will no doubt receive a liberal patronage. We wish him success in his venture—"Dufferin Standard."

THE GREY REVIEW.—We have received the first number of this paper, published at Durham, by Mr. Joseph Townsend, formerly of the Dundalk GUIDE. The paper presents a neat appearance, and we are sure that it will be well supported by the people of Grey. The REVIEW gives no uncertain sound as to politics. It will be a staunch advocate of Reform principles. We wish it great success.—"Orangeville Advertiser."

STILL THEY COME.—We have just received No. 1, Vol. 1, of the GREY REVIEW, a paper to be published by J. Townsend, at the town of Durham. The REVIEW is to advocate Reform principles, and will be the only Reform paper, in what may fairly be considered a Reform Riding. We hope our contemporary may succeed in getting a good circulation in S. Grey. There is plenty room for a good Reform paper in that riding.—"Walkerton Telescope."

The first number of the Grey REVIEW, published in the interest of Reform, has been placed upon our table. The venture is made by Mr. Joseph Townsend, formerly of the Dundalk GUIDE, and if earliest application and living like his great predecessor—Benjamin Franklin—on sawdust pudding, will secure success, then the paper will be one of the institutions of Durham. The REVIEW is creditably gotten up, and full of the latest news. We wish its publisher abundant success.—"Elora Lightning Express."

We have received the first number of the Grey REVIEW, a neatly gotten up sheet which is published in the town of Durham, by Mr. Joseph Townsend, late of Dundalk. Judging from the numerous advertisements which appear in the first paper, we should think that the REVIEW will be well supported. Although differing in politics from the new paper we wish it every success, and trust that friend Townsend may reason to regret never have his trip from Dundalk to Durham.—"Shelburne Free Press.

Five Years, commencing on the 4 of September of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy. Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Dropping in Throat Disappear.

ST. ANDREWS, P. Q., Sept. 18, 1877.

MR. T. J. S. HARDING.

DEAR SIR,—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am 39 years old, had been out of health for about five years, had employed three or four different doctors and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the kidneys, with very painfull back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy. One bottle of which cured my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health, so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy. I remain truly,
