HOUSEHOLD.

WHEN FATHER CARVED DUCK.

We all look on with anxious eyes
When father carves the duck,
And mother almost always sighs
When father carves the duck.
Then all of us prepare to rise,
And hold our bibs before our eyes,
And be prepared for some surprise
When father carves the duck.

He braces up and grabs a fork
Whene'er he carves a duck,
And won't allow a soul to talk
Until he's carved the duck.
The fork is jabbed into the sides,
Across the breast the knife he slides,
And every careful person hides
From flying chips of duck.

The platter always seems to slip,
When father carves a duck,
And how it makes the dishes skip!
Potatoes fly amuck.
The squash and cabbage leap in space,
We get the gravy on our face
And father mutters Hindoo grace
Whene'er he carves a duck.

We thus have learned to walk around
The dining room and pluck
From off the window sills and walls
Our share of father's duck.
While father growls and blows and jaws
And swears the knife was full of flaws,
And mother scolds him—well, because
—He couldn't carve a duck.

THE STRAWBERRY.

Sweet Strawberry Shortcake. —Beat two eggs, sift two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder with two scant teacupfuls of flour. Beat a teacupful of sugar with half a teacupful of sweet cream, add the eggs, a teaspoonful of salt, and beat in the flour. Bake in three layers. Sweeten to taste three pints of strawberries, lightly butter the layers, and cover each with berries. Over the top layer of berries, sprinkle sugar, and spread whipped cream, or a meringue of one egg and a tablespoonful of sugar, and brown in the oven.

Pyramid.—Boil until soft a teacupful of rice, cover the bottom of a plate with a layer of rice, then with one of berries, and sprinkle freely with sugar. Continue making each layer smaller until you have a pyramid serve with whipped cream.

With Tapioca.—Soak over night in cold water a teacupful of tapioca; put half in a buttered, earthen baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, put in a quart of strawberries, half a teacupful of sugar, or more, and the remainder of the tapioca. Fill the dish with water, and bake until it looks clear in a moderately hot oven. Eat cold with cream or with a sweet custard.

Pie with Cream.—Hull the berries, arrange in layers in a deep pie tin lined with rich crust, sweeten to taste, cover with a moderately thick pastry crust. Bake slowly, but thoroughly. When done remove the top and pour over the boiling mixture: Heat to boiling a scant teacupful of thin, sweet cream; stir in the whites of two eggs frothed, a tablespoonful of powdered sugar, and a teaspoonful of cornstarch wet with a little cold milk. Boil until smooth, and when cool use as directed. Serve cold, sprinkled with powdered sugar.

Escalloped Strawberries.— Whip until dry a pint of cream; hull a quart of berries. In a deep glass fruit-dish, place a layer of berries, add a sprinkling of powdered sugar, and cover with whipped cream; another layer of berries, sugar and cream, until all are used, heaping the cream on the top. Set in a cool place, to be chilled before serving.

Floating Island.—Measure out a quart of milk, a tablespoonful of corn-starch and a teacupful of sugar. Beat the yolks of four eggs with half a teacupful of the milk; dissolve the corn-starch in three tablespoonfuls of milk, and stir the two together. Bring the remainder of the milk to boiling, add eggs and corn-starch, cook until creamy, then add half a teaspoonful of salt and the sugar. When the sugar is dissolved and stirred in gently, take from the fire, and when half cooled, flavor with lemon juice. Crush a pint of strawberries with half a teacupful of sugar, let stand an hour and strain. Whip the whites of the eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the berry juice. Drop by spoonfuls over the custard, and keep cool until served.

Strawberry Vol-au-Vent.—Bake the shells in a patty pan. When nearly done, brush over with the white of an egg, beaten to a stiff froth, and sprinkle with granulated sugar; set in a quick oven a few minutes, watching that it does not brown. Fill with strawberry preserve, sprinkle with powdered sugar, and glaze with a hot shovel.

Bavarian Cream.—Soak an ounce of gelatine two hours in half a teacupful of cold water; crush a quart of berries with a heaped teacupful of sugar and let stand one hour. Whip to a froth a pint of cream, strain the crushed berries through cheese-cloth into a bright tin basin, pour over the gelatine half a teacupful of boiling water; when dissolved strain it into the basin. Set basin in a pan of pounded ice, and heat until mixture thickens. When like soft custard stir in the whipped cream, turn into a mold and leave to cool and harden. Serve with whipped cream.

Ruby Under the Snow.—Soak half a pint of tapioca twelve hours in half a pint of cold water, add half a lemon rind sliced, a pint of cold water and simmer until clear. Remove the lemon, stir in half a pint of strawberry jelly, a quarter of a pound of sugar, the juice of a lemon, a few drops of cochineal coloring; let simmer a few minutes, pour into two small glass dishes, cover with the whites of four eggs and three tablespoonfuls of sugar, beaten to a cream.

Pickled Strawberries. — Put ten pounds of not over-ripe strawberries in a jar, scattering through them half an ounce of cloves and a stick of cinnamon broken fine. Boil five minutes a quart of vinegar and five pounds and a half of brown sugar and pour over. At the end of 24 hours, pour off and boil three minutes. The third day cook berries and liquor together half an hour and can.

Canned Strawberries.—Into a preserving kettle put enough berries to fill two quart cans. Heat in the oven or over a slow fire until the juice starts; then gradually increase the heat and let simmer 15 or 20 minutes. Add two teacupfuls of granulated sugar and simmer 15 or 20 minutes longer. If kept in paper bags, the fruit will not lose color, and is delicious.

Canned Cold.—To each pound of fruit allow a pound of sugar; dissolve the sugar in the least possible quantity of water, put in berries and let boil up once thoroughly, or until well heated through, put fruit and syrup in deep earthen pie-plates and let stand in the sun covered with mosquito netting 24 hours; then can. They are very nice. Other small fruit may be put up in the same way.;

Strawberry Acid. — Dissolve two ounces of citric acid in a quart of water, pour over four quarts of very ripe berries, let stand 24 hours, strain with little or no pressing; to each pint of juice add a pound and a half of sugar, boil ten minutes; let stand three days and bottle.

DANCERS SUPPLIED TO ORDER.

Among the articles purveyed to its customers by a mammoth London dry goods store are young dancing men. In London as elsewhere, hostesses have the greatest difficulty in obtaining the requisite number of male dancers for their balls. Outside of the military, dancing men form a very small minority of the regular residents in the metropolis. On the other hand there are almost at all times plenty of visitors in London, young men who come up for a few days from the country or the universities, who would be only too glad of the opportunity to attend a private ball, but are debarred therefrom owing to the limited extent of their acquaintance in the city.

To obviate this difficulty and bring would-be hostesses and guests together a plan has been devised by the management of the big shop which is said to work satisfactorily. When a customer intends to give a ball and finds that she will not be able to find partners for all her women guests, she notifies the shop to supply her with a specified number of young men. The order is filled through the medium of a list wherein male visitors to the city are requested to enter their names. Of course the management of the shop has to be very careful concerning the social status of hosts and guests. It would never do to send small tradesmen to the house of a woman of rank. This difficulty is obviated by a system of tabulation. The managers take care to find out all about the hostesses and the men, and having satisfied themselves concerning their position in society, arrange them in groups accordingly.

Thus everybody can be suited without danger of unpleasant contretemps. The scheme is said to be profitable to the store, for of course the young men who are thus accommodated buy their gloves, ties and other necessaries there.

BUILDER AND STRENGTHENER.

That is the Term an Ottawa Lady Applies to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Among many in Ottawa and the vicinity who have been benefitted one way or another by the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People, the Journal has learned of the case of Mrs. Gilchrist, wife of Mr. T. V. Gilchrist, of Hintonburgh. Mr. Gilchrist keeps a grocery at the corner of Fourth Ave. and Cedar street, and is well known to a great many people in Ottawa as well as to the villagers of this suburb of the Capital. Mrs. Gilchrist states that while in a "run down" condition during the spring of 1897, she was greatly strengthened and built up by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Speaking of the matter to a Journal reporter, she stated that while able to go about at the time she was far from well; her blood was poor, she was subject to headaches, and felt tired after the slightest exertion. She had read at different times of cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. She was benefitted by the first box and continued their use until she had taken five boxes, when she considered herself quite recovered. Mrs. Gilchrist says that she always strongly recommends Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a builder and strengthener, when any of her friends are weak or ailing.

FUNNIGRAMS.

N. Peck—My wife hasn't spoken a cross word to me for two weeks. Betterhaws—When is she coming back?

Fillmore—Wonder what has come over Nell Handel? A week ago she wouldn't look at Nat Tyres, and now she is always with him. Hillton—Yes; he swapped off his wheel for one the same make as hers.

Mrs. Mishaw—You praise yourself too much, my dear. People would appreciate you more, and would tell you so, if you were to cultivate a little modest reticence. Mr. Mishaw — There's where you are out. I did that for years, and nobody took any notice of me but you.

Little Boy—Mr. Blake, won't you bend some for me? Mr. Blake—I can't, my boy. Little Boy— Aren't you a contortionist? Mr. Blake—No, child; what ever gave you that idea? Little boy—Sis said that every time you opened your mouth you put your foot in it.

AN IMPORTANT JUDGMENT—At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on May 28th, on application of G. T. Fulford & Co., proprietors of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., a perpetual injunction was granted by Chancellor Boyd restraining Theodore Sweet, druggist, of St. Catharines, from selling a pink colored pill in imitation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It seems necessary to again impress upon the public the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can only be obtained in packages the wrapper around which bears the full, law-protected trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Pills offered in any other form, and notwithstanding anything the dealer may say are fraudulent imitations and should always be refused. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., will be glad to obtain, (in confidence), the name of any dealer offering for sale any imitation of their pills, as the company is determined to protect the public against this species of fraud.

BOOKKEEPING MADE EASY.

There is more than one way to keep an accountbook. The method of one woman is in the direction of simplifying the distracting matters of debit and credit.

Mrs. Calloway is extravagant in her expenditures for housekeeping, according to her husband's ideas. With a view to rectifying this failing, he recently bought her an attractive little account book, and carefully explained its use to her.

Now, he said, here is twenty-five dollars. Put down what I give you on one side, and your expenditures on the other. When that money is gone you shall have more.

A few days later, he asked to see the book, which Mrs. Calloway produced with an air of modest pride. On one page was written, Received from John, twenty-five dollars. On the opposite page stood one comprehensive and indisputable entry—Spent it all.

APPRECIATED IN ENGLAND.

Hamilton Tobacco Leads Wherever It Goes.

The London, England, Army and Navy Gazette of May 21st, contains the following reference to one of Hamilton's products:

The smoker who has not yet tried the "T. & B." Myrtle cut tobacco has a new pleasure before him in the use of "the weed." An investment will furnish him with the means of giving it a fair test. Let us advise him to make the experiment; he will find the tobacco to be all that its thousands of friends claim for it, and they are far from stingy in their praises.

Messrs. Tuckett & Son ought to be pleased with such a recommendation from such a source, just as all who are interested in the progress of Hamilton's industries will be pleased to know that Myrtle Navy has made a place for itself on the other side of the ocean. Personally, the Times' tobacco expert does not agree with the English authority on military matters, but holds that the "plug" makes a cooler, slower and generally more satisfactory smoke than the "cut," always provided that both are Myrtle Navy to start upon. The Englishman has something yet to learn with regard to the solid comfort wrapped up in Myrtle Navy. — Hamilton Times.

I wonder who it was invented the phrase, "idle rumor?" I don't know. It must have been some fellow who was unable to foresee how busy rumor would be in these days of war with Spain.

THE PHOENIX.

The Phoenix was the name of the first fire company in England, and it was established in 1682. At that time, in the towns, squirts or syringes were used for extinguishing fire, and their length did not exceed two or three feet, with pipes of leather. Watertight seamless hose was first made in Bethnal Green in 1720.

IS A GREAT WHEEL.

WHAT THE GLOBE SAYS OF THE E. & D. BICYCLE.

Its Many Good Points are Almost Too Numerous to Mention.

The bearings on this bicycle were invented in Canada in 1895 by Canadians and the wheel is built only in Canada and exported throughout the world. It is the first and only Canadian bicycle that has successfully entered the United States market, and Canadians have a particular reason for feeling proud when it is known that this wheel commands a higher price than any wheel in the U. S. and that it is sold there at an advance of from $15 to $20 above its price in Canada.

The 1898 models are the acme of perfection and beauty. Perfection of movement, of course, has always been the particular theme of this company, and they have every reason to feel proud of the reputation they have gained in so short a time by the use of this wonderful hub. We are informed that they have never yet supplied a cone or ball for this bearing, nor even have been asked to replace one. They defy their competitors or others to show a cone out of their wheel, no matter how long it has been in use, that shows the slightest indication of wear. They also challenge the public to destroy one of their bearings or to make it bind, no matter how tight it may be screwed up. The wheel is guaranteed to run the year without being oiled or cleaned, no matter how many miles it is ridden, or how much dirt is encountered. The bearings also are guaranteed against wear for three years. They never require to be adjusted or interfered with.

The Typograph company are bringing out a special model this year, which includes an automatic brake that acts on the rear hub. Simple back pedalling applies the brake and when once applied the foot can be removed and the brake remains, while forward pedalling immediately releases the brake, so the rider completely controls his wheel, whether his foot is on the pedal or not.

This model also includes the most perfect gear case made. It is composed of aluminum and celluloid, and does not make the wheel look heavy or cumbersome. It can easily be removed and leaves the chain and sprockets at all times exposed to view. It is also so arranged that the back wheel can be adjusted without in any way disturbing the case.

The points of interest in their 1898 models are entirely too numerous to be noticed here, but we advise all intending purchasers to at least call and see the "E. & D." wheel before they decide on their 1898 mounts.—Toronto Globe.
