

Remembering Kirkland

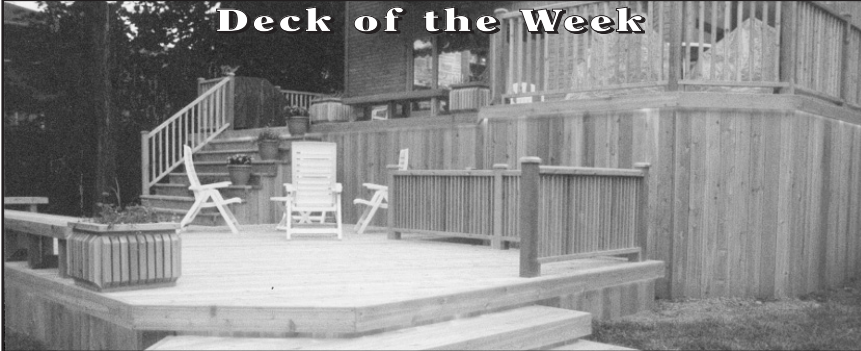

The fourth annual Mito March for Kirkland attracted approximately 300 people to run, walk or ride around the track at the Gellert Community Park Sunday. The event, which raised $41,000 for mitochondrial disease research at The Hospital for Sick Children, was named after Kirkland Kilbride, the Georgetown youngster who suffered from the disease and who died this past December. Participants released butterflies at the event and one lingered on the shoulder of Kelly Kilbride (inset) prompting her to say her son's spirit was evident at the event. (Left) Brandon Gowland, 12, (right) was first around the track and was congratulated by Kilbride and Anita Timpson. Gowland earned a new pair of running shoes from Feet in Motion for finishing first.
