Like to have herb garden?

Have you ever thought of planning and planting your own herb garden? It could become an interesting and practical outdoor hobby. And September is the month for Fall planting.

Before you take a whirl at this growing trend, take a trip to Black Creek Pioneer Village, Jane Street and Steeles Avenue, and inspect the herb garden there. You'll be able to pick up some tips on the variety of herbs to grow and something about their growing habits and their uses from a member of the Village staff. Then you can go home and plan your very own herb garden.

At the Black Creek herb garden, there are some 40 species including such familiar names as thyme, sage, sweet savory, fennel, caraway, wormwood and catnip. All of the herbs grown at the Village were grown by pioneer families prior to 1867 and used for seasoning food, making home remedies and for fragrance. Some herbs were even used to control insect pests.

GOLD DIGGER: A woman who doesn't care whose means she lives beyond.
