FRONTENAC CHEESE BOARD.

Officers Elected at Its First Meeting This Year.

The first meeting of the Frontenac cheese board for 1902 was held at the Windsor hotel this afternoon. Thirty-five cheesemen registered their names as members, and paid the annual fee of $1. This is the largest number of members the board ever started with. Secretary McGarvey read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, W. J. Franklin, Pittsburg; first vice-president, John Wilmot, Pittsburg; second vice-president, John Davis, Pittsburg; secretary-treasurer, Alexander Ritchie, Inverary; auditors, L. L. Gallagher, Wilton, and W. D. Black, Parham.

Mr. McGarvey, the efficient and popular secretary-treasurer for a number of years, was offered the position again, but resigned, as he will not be a member of the board this year. A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers.

An Old English Fair.

London Chronicle.

The coronation promises many revivals, and among them is that of the old English fair, which seemed to have died of its own disgrace. Arrangements are being made for a big fair at Kensal Green during the coronation week. On the forty-eight acres of ground which have been secured by the committee, there will be a huge number of van dwellers, the majority of whom will help entertain the thousands of spectators who, it is hoped, will be attracted. Among the interesting sights will be the roasting of whole oxen every afternoon. The fair will be on a much larger scale than that held at the time of queen Victoria's coronation, and should be a crucial test of the improved manners of a new century.

PIPER HIMSELF PAID FINE

MADE A BELLEVILLE BELL-BOY DANCE A TUNE.

Some One Mistook a Room—Piper Fraser Thought it Was the Hotel Attache and Summarily Chastised Him.

Belleville, April 10.—Angus Fraser, Toronto, the well-known Canadian piper and sword dancer, and A. D. Sturrock, baritone soloist, both members of the Caledonian concert company, now touring through this section, figured in a police court action that caused a great deal of interest. They were charged with grievously assaulting James Johnston, a bell boy of the hotel Quinte. The company arrived on Sunday to fill an engagement for Monday. Some time after midnight on Sunday Miss Ella Walker, soprano soloist of the company, claims that some one entered her room. The lights were out, and she could not distinguish who the man was. He departed when she ordered him to. From the description given by Miss Walker, Fraser and Sturrock were led to suspect Johnston. A complaint was made to the management, but the men decided to settle the matter in their own way. Monday night after the concert they rang the bell, and Johnston answered the summons. When he entered the room he found the furniture piled on the bed. The door was locked by one of the men, and they at once proceeded to punish Johnston. Before he succeeded in making his escape he was badly cut and bruised about the face, and suffered severely. Fraser and Sturrock were arrested in Warkworth, where they went with their company. Before the magistrate they admitted the assault, but pleaded as justification their belief that Johnston was the one who entered Miss Walker's room. Johnston swore that he was not the man, and there was no evidence whatever to support the suspicion. The two men were ordered to pay $20 compensation to the injured young man, were fined $20, and ordered to pay $22 costs, making $62. Johnston is about twenty-three years of age, and is married.

The court of appeal to-day, dismissed the appeal of the sick children's hospital, in the case of that institution acting in behalf of itself and other charitable organizations, against Eliza and Agnes Chute, the trustees of the estate of the late Mrs. Bilton. The latter, who was in the fruit and fish business in Toronto, left $200,000. Her sisters, the Misses Chute, were trustees and the estate was to go to her three children, the trustees having power to dispose of it in their interest. If the children died without issue the estate was to go to a number of charitable institutions. These institutions were also given definite bequests. The charities claimed that the trustees had given large gifts to the Bilton children from the estate exceeding their powers by these divisions and asked that they be set aside. Chancellor Boyd dismissed the action. Now the court of appeal has dismissed the appeal, holding that the trustees had acted within their powers.

WILL SUE FOR DIAMONDS.

Mother of Caroline Miskel Hoyt to Enter Action.

New York, April 10.—Diamonds, pearls, and other rare jewels, valued at nearly $50,000, a part of the estate of the late Charles H. Hoyt, the playwright, will soon become the subject of litigation in the surrogate court, the claimants being Mrs. Mary W. Scales and Miss Sarah Miskel Scales, the mother and sister of the late Caroline Miskel Hoyt, second wife of the late Mr. Hoyt, and formerly of Toronto, Canada.

Apart from the value of the jewels, most of which were worn first by Flora Walsh Hoyt, and later with some costly additions, by Mr. Hoyt's second wife, so much sentimental and family interest is attached to them that the contest promises to be exceedingly bitter.

The jewels are now in the possession of Frank McKee Hoyt's former partner, and one of the executors of the estate. The claimants say that shortly before Hoyt's death he promised to give them the gems. A. H. Hummell, counsel for McKee, says the claim of Mrs. and Miss Scales is preposterous.

LAST MEETING OF SEASON

OF THE ASSOCIATED BOARD OF CHARITIES.

Will Urge Macdonald Park for Public Bathing Place—Proposed to Tunnel to Martello Tower Moat and Build Bathing Houses.

The closing meeting of the associated charities' board for the season was held at the city buildings on Tuesday afternoon, when the general secretary made a report for the year. There was a large diminution in the number of applications for relief, and those who were made came chiefly from widows and sick and aged people. This diminution was partly attributable to the abundance of work obtainable during the winter, and partly to the careful system of investigation made into the character of the applicants. Last year the number applying for relief was 110, to ninety-nine of whom it was given; this year the number applying was sixty, of whom fifty-five received aid. The average sum expended on each family was however larger this year than last.

The treasurer's report showed money contributions from the poor relief association, charity circle of king's daughter's, St. George's cathedral, and St. James, Queen street Methodist, Williamsville Methodist, Cooke's and Chalmers churches.

The board has been considering the question of the establishment of a penny savings bank chiefly for the boys and girls. Two systems have been discussed—that embracing the card and stamps, as adopted in New York, which entails but little bookkeeping and saves the cost of management and most other expenses; the other, the more familiar system, which on a small scale is in operation in Montreal and Toronto. Philanthropic people in the latter city are presently applying for a dominion charter and the board has decided to await the opinion of the dominion government on the subject.

The subject of a bathing place for the public has also been discussed, and the matter relegated to a committee, to which the city engineer's name has been added. It has been suggested that, under proper regulations as to dress, definite hours for bathing, and police attendance, the front of Macdonald park could be adapted for the purpose. The moat of the Martello tower could be reached by a very short tunnel and could be used for bathing houses which in such a case might be of a very inexpensive character.

CHRIST IN DISGUISE.

Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, Plymouth Church, Brooklyn.

Not simply do good men entertain angels unawares, but sometimes they entertain unawares the Christ himself, who comes wearing strange disguise. Those two disciples who met that stranger on the way to Emmaus recognized not even their own Master. He talked with them indeed with his old fire and eloquence. As was his wont, he threw light upon problems that had been dark. He breathed into them a new hope, but not until a long time had passed did they realize that their hearts had burned within them as they talked by the way. At last in the breaking of bread he was made known to them. And he who once came in physical disguise now comes disguised in events. He makes weakness his minister. He makes troubles and defeats his messengers. He makes old age, pain, suffering and death itself, to mean deliverance. He knocks at the door of the house of man's soul, and the keeper of the door trembles, suspecting the coming of an enemy, but in the hour when men fear most of all the approach of death itself, behold, behind the mask is one whose face is nimbed with light, the Lord of life and death, who comes bringing release, convoy and guidance homeward.

Such was the remarkable answer of lord Roberts to lord Lansdowne's request that he should go to South Africa to take supreme command in December, 1899.
