PUT OUT FIRE

That Broke Out In a Hardware Store.

Carleton Place, Ont., March 5. About nine o'clock, last night, fire broke out in the rear of W. J. Munhead's hardware store. In a very short time the tremolo had the engine placed on the bridge and with the assistance of Brown Bros. fire brigade they succeeded in extinguishing the fire before serious damage was done to the building. The front portion was saved, but great damage was done to the stock. The men and boys of the town removed considerable of the stock to a vacant building across from the hardware store. Cause of fire is unknown. It is supposed to have started in the tinsmith shop. The stock is covered by insurance.

A SERIOUS STRIKE

Is Now On At Vancouver, B.C.—Business At Standstill.

Vancouver, B.C., March 5. The strike of the C. P. R. is becoming serious. Yesterday the longshoremen, coal handlers, teamsters and others joined the brotherhood and in consequence the discharging of the Empress of India and the loading of the Aorangi is at a standstill. The freight agents state the company is not accepting business for rail or water for forwarding at present. The Board of Conciliation offer immediate satisfaction to the strikers, but not to the company, saying it does on its head a flat declaration by the board on a freight rate matter.

A BIG PROJECT

A New Steel Plant For Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., March 5. A syndicate is in the city for the purpose of [illegible] the iron and steel industry in this province. It is understood that the syndicate is composed of Montreal capitalists, and that the scheme is to establish a plant for the manufacture of iron and steel products. The syndicate will be ready to begin the work of building the plant at Port Dalhousie, in Cape Breton county, N.S., early next spring. The Halifax Board of Trade has already entertained the syndicate, and will do everything in its power to assist the enterprise.

BAD DEFEAT.

Sultan's Army Rushed And Captured.

A SORRY FLIGHT

TROOPS ABANDONED EVERYTHING.

The Situation is Now Said to be Serious—The Use Of Lances Abolished in The British Army—Jingo is in His Travelling Cage.

London, March 5.—A Tangier correspondent of the Times says that, despite official reports from Fez of a great government victory, on February 27th, there has been undoubtedly a bad defeat. The camp of a division of the sultan's army was rushed and captured by rebels. The troops fled in disorder, abandoning everything. The division formed the vanguard of the main body under Menebhi, the minister of war. It consisted of 1,600 men. The recent lull in the fighting aroused an optimistic feeling, but as a matter of fact the situation is serious. A despatch from Tangier to the Morning Leader says that after the camp was captured Menebhi rallied his forces, and again attacked the rebels.

Fighting In Macedonia.

London, March 5.—Despatches from Constantinople and other capitals confirm the rumors of fighting in various districts of Macedonia. The disturbances are not serious, at any point, however, and it is premature to conclude that a general insurrection has been ordered by the revolutionary committee. The commanders of Turkish battalions are finding it difficult to maintain order when the districts are in an excited condition and when massacres by the Albanians and revolutionary outbreaks are expected any day.

The foreign offices of the continent succeed in concealing their uneasiness if serious apprehensions of war in the Balkans are entertained, and official circles here maintain a studied air of incredulity respecting the Macedonian crisis. The powers are asserted to be united and the sultan is alleged to be co-operating with them in good faith. Sofia is the main centre of interest and the adoption of stringent repressive measures on the frontier by the Bulgarian government is expected.

Abolished Lances.

London, March 5.—The war office has issued an order abolishing the use of the lance in the British army. The Lancers and Dragoons will "retain their lances, but they will only be used in reviews and ceremonial occasions. All cavalry in the future will be armed with carbines and swords, but the carbine will be the principal weapon.

In His Cage.

London, March 5.—The huge African elephant Jingo, purchased from the Zoo by Mr. Bostock, for shipment to the United States, on the steamship Georgic, on Friday last, was finally enticed into his travelling cage yesterday afternoon. All of Tuesday he refused to be tempted into the cage by the food placed therein, and until two o'clock yesterday afternoon, until hunger mastered him, he refused to eat.

Poor Children For Dominion.

London, March 5.—The British government, under the stimulus of the Canadian emigration commissioner, sending a circular to boards of guardians throughout the country noting the diminution of emigration of orphan and deserted pauper children, and urging that never before had Canada possessed so many opportunities by utilizing these young emigrants in a satisfactory manner.

BAR-ROOM SHOULD GO.

Toronto Paper's Editorial On Temperance Policy.

Toronto, March 5.—The probable future temperance legislation for the Ross government is suggested, in the following editorial paragraph in the Globe:

"What ought to be done? The bar-room ought to be abolished throughout Ontario, and all the sale of intoxicating liquors, for scientific, technical, domestic and medical purposes, ought to be through a limited number of shops conducted either under a special license or under Government control. We have no hesitation in saying that legislation securing such ends would best serve the highest interests of the industrial, social and moral life of the province. The bar-room as an institution is discredited and the community is a standing instance to economic, social and moral evil-laying at every community that supports it. It serves no good purpose, and the growing distrust of it is well-founded only because it is the best established place for the sale of liquor. Let the Government take it over, and let the Government be responsible for the sale of liquor. Let the Government be responsible for the sale of liquor. Let the Government be responsible for the sale of liquor.
