Mr. R. H. Sampson's, Sydney, N.S., Advice to all Sufferers from Nerve Trouble is

"GET A BOX OF MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS."

He says: "I have been ailing for about a year from deranged nerves, and very often weak spells would come over me and be so bad that I sometimes thought I would be unable to survive them. I have been treated by doctors and have taken numerous preparations but none of them helped me in the least. I finally got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before taking them I did not feel able to do any work, but now I can work as well as ever, thanks to one box of your pills. They have made a new man of me, and my advice to any person troubled as I was, is to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

AT LEGISLATURE

THE CONSERVATIVE CONTINGENT QUITE SMALL.

A Bill Brought Down By The Minister of Education—Many Bills Were Brought in and Referred —The Estimates.

Toronto, April 23.—The dispirited condition of the opposition is growing more evident. At the opening of the house to-day only six out of forty-eight of the members were present, and at no time during the short session did the number exceed fifteen. Among this select few, however, R. R. Gamey was in evidence, his good health giving a denial to the report rife in town that he had gone to the hospital for repairs to prostrated nerves. The report, indeed, flattered the honorable member, since credit for the customary supply of sensitive tissues is denied him in widely extended quarters. The proceedings were the tamest on record. A long line of questions to ministers, delayed for weeks, were allowed to pass in review and to be followed by introduction of bills, without two dozen words being spoken on the opposition side. They made the merest pretence of existence, a strange contrast to the aggressive debate of three weeks ago in which hour after hour they hurled speeches, full of charges and criticisms at the government. That the bribery investigation has been the greatest boomerang on record a casual look into the chamber will proclaim, independent of a hundred evidences in court.

The chief interest to-day centred in the bill introduced by the minister of education, for government of lower grades of education in large cities, applicable now only to Toronto. It makes provision for a board of thirteen members to govern the primary and secondary schools, twelve to be elected at large (one man one vote), and not by wards, when the mayor is elected, and one to be appointed by the separate school board. Small boards were the rule in other countries, particularly in the United States. New York and Philadelphia, with nearly two millions people each, had 31 and 27 members respectively; Boston, 24; Baltimore, 9; St. Louis, 12. In some United States cities the municipal councils appointed the boards; in Philadelphia the judges chose them; but in most cities election by the people was the rule. The minister strongly supported the reduction in number of trustees.

A flood of railway and other private acts proclaims that a long session is in prospect. The new assessment law cannot possibly be considered except in part, and will be referred to a special committee to be threshed out. The committees were to-day appointed, and were reduced in number save in private bills and municipal legislation,—a step in the right direction which might have been still greater.

The estimates were to-day presented for current expenditure for 1903, being $3,901,691, with $490,287 on capital account and $145,150 on the ever-embracing like of sundries, in all $4,537,428. The increases for civil government are totalling $10,883 on $326,443. Legislation at $139,350 shows a growth of $6,250, including $5,000 on indemnity, because of four new members. Administration of justice calls for $465,655, an advance of $4,627.

Education demands $922,241 as compared with $876,567, and showing expansion on all lines of general education, besides $5,600 more to the School of Practical Science, making $39,875; an addition of $5,000 to technical branches, making $20,000; and $13,200 extra to provincial university and mining schools. Eight salary increases of $100 each are given in School of Practical Science; a professor of geology is added at $2,000; lecturer in chemistry raised from $850 to $1,200, and registrar and librarian from $400 to $1,200. The Kingston School of Mining is voted the agreed sum of $23,500.

For maintenance of public institutions on an advance of $30,448 altogether, $5,000 is charged to Kingston hospital for insane, with 613 patients. The increases are, assistant physician, $100; second assistant physician, $50; storekeeper, $50; stokers, four, each, $25. Night sewage man goes on at $240. The salary increases are in all, allowing for decrease in number, $204. The total vote is $81,550, and the main increases are in the large sums for provisions, and in $2,000 extra for coal. The total vote for Rockwood is $81,550. The vote for Brockville asylum is $84,293, an increase of $7,500. Its coal account for 665 patients is $12,500, compared with Kingston's $11,000, but its meat is $1,000 less, or $10,000.

For agriculture $282,920 is required —$5,350 less for special grants ($166,950), $14,308 more for Guelph College ($63,309), and there are increases due to growth in experimental plots, dairy, etc. The Kingston dairy school receives for maintenance $4,850 as before; no increases in this line; apparently the classes and work are the growing parts. In maintenance and repairs of legislative building and lieutenant-governor's house a trifle is saved, $52,750 being asked.

For public buildings, capital account, $463,201 is given, including these items for the hospital for insane, Kingston: To complete new cottage, $5,500; new boilers and covering pipes, main building, $2,800, and for general repairs and re-installations $4,750. The proposed hospital for epileptics, Oxford, is to be started with $30,000. The addition to normal school for manual training and domestic science is accorded $20,000. Part of the revote for new buildings, School of Practical Science, Toronto, is $215,000, with $14,000 for equipment.

Among votes for colonization and mining roads are: Abinger and Millertown line road, $300; Ashdad and Springtown road, $250; Arden, Harlow and Kennebec road, $400; Desert Lake road, $300; Frontenac road bridge, near Arden, $400; Jones' Falls and Battersea road, $300; Loughboro and Wilmur road, $250; Mud Creek bridge, $350; Oso and Bedford road, $400; Perth road to Bedford and Crosby, $250; Sheffield township road, $300; Tamworth and Parham road, $300; Westport and Perth road and bridge, $400.

Temiskaming roads are accorded $32,000. Because of rapid development outside crown lands service and locating are increased from $135,175 to $224,175, including $80,000 on new township surveys.

Gamey Discredited.

The talk in Toronto is upon the apparent desertion of the member for Manitoulin by the conservative party. His skip to Buffalo destroyed the remnant of confidence felt in his case; his return was sought merely to give color to a continuance of the case. To-day he has been without friends, even those who coaxed him back openly saying they wanted no more to do with him. He sat alone in the legislature this afternoon, and no one went forward to speak to him. He accosted a member at the close of the sitting, held a brief talk, then glided out alone. A month since he was a hero, taken warmly to the bosom of the party; to-day none so poor as to do him honor. The moral is that if you raise hopes in politics you must deliver the goods straight. It does not matter what your method is—only you must win.

MARRIED UNAWARES.

Experience Of Annie Moore, Who Had Two Husbands.

London, April 24.—To be married without knowing it was the curious fate of Annie Samuelina Naylor, otherwise Moore.

She was a young girl living with her mother, at Birkenhead when, in 1888, a cousin, Frederick Naylor, came on the scene from America and made love to her.

When he proposed, she replied that she would speak to her mother. He retorted that he was not going to marry mother. Thus commenced a secret engagement.

Naylor assured her that young women were not allowed to go to America unless legally betrothed, and he then succeeded in having her go through a ceremony which was really a legal marriage. Then he left her and never returned.

Subsequently she married another man who left her soon after the wedding.

Ten years later she discovered that she had two husbands in distant parts.

She told her strange story in the divorce division, adding that she had been supporting herself by teaching until she could provide the money to apply to the court, and that Mr. Naylor, her first husband, had wedded another woman in America.

She was granted a decree of nullity of marriage on the ground that she was induced to go through the ceremony by fraud.

Imposed Secret Penance.

Rome, April 24.—Cardinal Netto, patriarch of Lisbon, having recently claimed certain rights and privileges which the Roman curia disallowed, appealed to the supreme court of Portugal. Thereupon the papal nuncio, at Lisbon, informed Cardinal Netto that he was excommunicated, ipso facto, by appealing to a secular tribunal from a papal decision. Owing to the imminence of a conclave and the possible agitation of the Portuguese clergy the pope has absolved the cardinal imposing a secret penance upon him.

Canada's Coming Crop.

Ottawa, April 24.—Mr. Stewart, the member for Lisgar, has just returned from a trip to the west. He says that seeding in Southern Manitoba will have been finished by the end of this week. The prospects for an enormous crop this year are exceptionally bright. The acreage is fifteen per cent. heavier than last year, and conditions correspondingly favorable. Just how this enormous crop can be handled by rail is one of the increasing puzzles of the commercial situation.

Massacre Of Russian Jews.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—Twenty-five Jews were killed and 275 were wounded, many of them fatally, during anti-Semetic riots at Kishineff, capital of Bessarabia, April 20th, when a number of workmen organized an attack on the Jewish inhabitants. The minister of the interior has ordered the adoption of the special measures to restore order in the town and district.

THE TREASURY.

THE BUDGET OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Ritchie Made a Calm, Dignified Address, Full of Valuable Facts—What The Expenditure Should Be.

London, April 24.—The budget, which was introduced in the House of Commons, yesterday, shows an estimated expenditure for 1903-4 of $719,770,000.

The chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Ritchie, fixed the national debt charge at $1,035,000,000, of which $31,500,000 is available for the sinking fund.

The estimated revenue on the existing basis of taxation is $773,850,000, giving an available surplus of $54,080,000.

Budget day in the house is always attractive, and it was unusually so this year, as the chancellor, Mr. Ritchie, had the pleasure of introducing the first police budget for four years. The house was well filled, and there were many visitors in the galleries when the chancellor rose to make his statement.

The duty on tea, which the trade expected would be reduced, is not changed. Mr. Ritchie's proposals included the following: The abolition of the duty on grain, the taxes on sugar and coal are unchanged, and fourpence (eight cents) is taken off the income tax.

The government whips had expected trouble over the budget, and had warned their followers that important divisions were impending. No summons was, however, required for filling the benches and galleries. Mr. Ritchie was not an orator nor a man of original genius, but he had a message for the nation of thrifty shopkeepers and overburdened taxpayers. This handy man of the ministry had won the stronghold of power, the treasury, not by great talents but by business-like habits, dexterity in arranging details and plodding industry in mastering the subject in hand. These qualities were revealed in his first budget speech delivered quietly and almost as mechanically as though he were making an annual statement to a board of bank directors. It was dry, precise and dull, without a gleam of humor. In place of the usual budget jokes about the mortality of millionaires and the profits of intemperance was placid optimism about the magnitude of the war debt and the decline of consols.

In the lobby the balance of opinion was that the budget indicated an early dissolution. Business men in the city were jubilant when the tickers announced the reduction in the income tax to eleven pence, and they gave practical expression to their views by rushing consols up three-eighths to ninety-two.

Mr. Ritchie's dexterity was shown in his manipulation of the sinking fund figures and the permanent debt charges so that the surplus available for the remission of taxation was increased to pay £10,816,000. No expert calculator had forcasted so large an amount. The income taxpayers were favored with a reduction of four pence or a penny more than had been expected. Mr. Ritchie, being a new chancellor of the exchequer, was bound to consider the traditions of the treasury. Custom required that direct and indirect taxation should share the benefits of any reductions. Coal, tea and sugar could not be touched, but the abolition of the corn registration duty would relieve the government from inconvenient agitation over the bread tax.

Protectionist tories were not pleased with the removal of the corn duty, but the best politicians in the house agreed that it helped to make the budget popular, and would deprive the liberals of one of the most effective issues in the general election. The registration duty was not large enough either to yield much revenue or to benefit the agricultural industries of the United Kingdom, and an opportunity for making discriminations in favor of the grain of Canada or the other colonies was wasted. The duty is now abolished in order to balance the remission of income taxation and to convince the workingman that something has been done for him. The radicals, under the leadership of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, were very willing to quarrel with the budget, but they could not object to a remission of the corn duty, and their protests against the reduction of the income tax were hollow.

Dropsy And Heart Disease.

"For ten years I suffered greatly from heart disease. Fluttering of the heart and smothering spells made my life a torment. Dropsy set in. My physician told me to prepare for the worst. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose gave great relief, one bottle cured me completely." Mrs. James Adams, Syracuse, N.Y. Sold by H. B. Taylor and H. Wade. —107.

Infringments On Patents.

London, April 24.—It is reported that Sir Oliver Lodge, F.R.S., may sue Signor Marconi on the ground of an infringement of his (Lodge's) patents, in connection with the installations in America of the Italian inventor's system. Sir Oliver Lodge contends that Marconi's vertical radiator cohere and other essentials are infringements on his patents.

Negotiations Suspended.

Berlin, April 24.—The negotiations which have been in progress for some time past looking to British participation in the construction of the Bagdad railway, have suspended as the British government has refused to consent to the German conditions.
