THISTLES AND DANDRUFF.

An Interesting Parallel and a Valuable Deduction Therefrom.

Cutting down thistles no more relieves the land of thistles than does scouring the scalp cure dandruff. In each case permanent relief can only come from eradicating permanently the cause. A germ that ploughs up the scalp in searching for the hair root where it saps the vitality, causes dandruff, falling hair, and baldness. If you kill that germ, you'll have no dandruff but a luxuriant suit of hair. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation in the world that cures dandruff and falling hair by killing the germ. "Destroy the cause, you remove effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. G. W. Mahood, special agent.

Gso Station Items.

Gso Station, May 9.—The continued cold weather leaves the farmers very late in seeding. A few prospectors are here opening up the Dodd's mine. A quiet wedding was celebrated in Christ church on the 2nd of May, when John Weir and Miss Armine Burke were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Smith. Leslie Kirkham spent Sunday at his home in Bathurst. Joseph A. Burke has moved back on his farm. Mrs. Moses Chambers, of Zealand, spent Sunday with friends here.

A One Legged Beggar Put Up a Big Fight in Resisting Arrest —Mail Box Robbery.

Napanee, May 11.—The three young fellows arrested at the time of the finding of the dead body of Fred. King, on Sunday morning, were, after the inquest on Wednesday evening, allowed to go. The G. T.R. authorities considered the straightforward testimony given at the inquest as worthy of recognition, and they were released.

Chief Graham has a tussle, yesterday morning, while arresting a one-legged beggar, who declined to give satisfactory answers to the chief's questions. He fought like a Trojan for his liberty and in the tussle scratched the chief's hands, and resisted arrest.

Upon being searched at the police station there was found upon his person $758.58 and from marks upon the bills he had been in Brockville, Kingston, Gananoque, and other towns. He gave his name as Peter McQuade and is about fifty-five years of age. When the chief asked him where he belonged, he answered "I belong all over," and when asked where he made his home, he said, "Any place that night overtakes me is home." He was begging about the town, Wednesday, and anything smaller than ten cents, was scorned.

A mail box robbery was discovered yesterday morning. The mail box at the G.T.R. station is reported missing. It is thought that the thief would not get many valuable letters from this box, as very few people use the station boxes for dropping their registered letters into.

LARGE AND BUSY.

New York's Fire Department is the Greatest in the World.

American Magazine.

It is not a fire brigade that takes prizes at tournaments. The men look under-sized and insignificant on parade. Their apparatus is not the most modern in the world. And they do not attack a blaze after cracking their heels together, saluting their officers and making an exhibition drill of taking their hose out of a waggon, as the German military companies do. But in ability to handle dangerous fires, in daring, endurance and resourcefulness there does not seem to be a fire force to equal them.

And the reasons for this are simple. The fire department of Greater New York—now employing 3,563 men—is the largest and busiest in the world, and it has the largest fires to fight.

The houses on Manhattan Island are so crowded together that in the tenement district of the tenth ward, for example, there are 400,000 persons living on a square mile; the blocks are rabbit warrens done in brick, and the firemen cannot isolate a blaze in these and fight it from ladders through windows, from the street, after the easier methods of the firemen in less congested cities. They must "fight, from the inside out," as they explain. They must close with their enemy and sweep it before them, up the stairs, out the windows and through the roof. It follows that the men must needs be physically perfect, able to endure heat and suffocation, to "eat smoke" as they say, to be "regular salamanders."

A Coming Drama.

Bath, May 10.—Miss J. Cunningham has returned, after visiting friends in Napanee. The drama, "Happy Hollow," will be repeated in the town hall, on Friday evening, May 18th. Miss Ethel Covert and Faber Covert, Rochester, N.Y., arrived, on Monday, for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Covert. The steamer Alexandria calls regularly at this place every Monday. An old and respected resident of Ernesttown, John B. Thomas, is dead, aged seventy-two. He had been in failing health for some time. He died on the farm on which he was born, his parents being United Empire Loyalists. He belonged to the Church of England, and was a liberal. He leaves one brother, William, Napanee, and a sister, Lizzie, on the farm. The funeral took place to St. John's church, Bath, and was largely attended.

Free Trade In Runners.

In the closing hours of parliament the bill which emerged from the municipal committee imposing a standard width of three feet four inches on sleigh runners, from centre to centre, was withdrawn, and a bill passed cancelled even the optional legislation of last year. After two sessions, and many excited sittings in which farmer members called for relief, on winter roads, this is not a surprising end. The member for Carleton, Mr. Kidd, criticized this action from the government side, but Hon. Mr. Hanna replied warmly, rightly claiming a lack of general approval or acquiescence in the compromise reached.

Double Tracking.

The contract for double tracking the C.P.R. line between Montreal and Smith's Falls has been let, and the work has already commenced. Mr. Drinkwater, Winchester, roadmaster, will supervise work, giving his attention to this branch, and Edward Myers, Smith's Falls, will act as road master.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

C. H. Pickering Considers Forestalling By-Law a Hardship.

Kingston, May 11.—(To the Editor): Please allow me a small space in your paper to speak of the forestalling by-law, broken by me yesterday. People would think that I was buying up all there was on the market and then charging an extra high price for it. The citizens know they can buy just as cheap and sometimes cheaper in the stores than they can on the market. However, I was summoned and fined for buying three bunches of rhubarb and six bunches of radishes, fifty cents worth in all, on which I expected to make ten cents, a large amount wasn't it? It was not for what I could make out of it, but it was because I wanted to accommodate some of my customers by letting them have the things in time for dinner, and some I wanted for my own use. I don't know why the city officers have a pick on me, for I am sure the law, which is one of the meanest and most out of date laws on our city books, is broken every market day by nearly every dealer, if not all, in the city, and it can't help but be broken. How can a merchant deliver goods in all parts of the city in time for dinner if he has to wait until after ten o'clock before he can buy. People wonder at our markets being so small and they will get still smaller if such laws are allowed to stand. Will our city council not do away with the forestalling by-law? It would be better for our city.—Yours truly, C. H. PICKERING.

Catches Mice With Her Tail.

Kansas City Times.

"Did you know that if you cut a cat's tail off she can't catch mice any more?" asked a young woman of another.

"I don't see why," replied the other; "and further, I can't imagine what occasion you have had for cutting off cats' tails to see."

"I haven't cut off any cats' tails, but an accident deprived our cat of its caudal appendages. The feline became as helpless as a ship without a rudder. When it tried to spring upon an object it would alight far to one side. The look of pained surprise on the cat's features was pathetic. After a while it learned to jump straight again, but it was a long and painful experience for the poor cat. The balance of power and the power of balance seem to lie in the tail of the cat."

A Fact.

After you have looked, you'll be forced to admit that our spring suits are newer, smarter and more reasonable in price, than any other sold hereabouts. The H. D. Bibby Co.

CHARTRAND EMIGRATES

Supposed to Have Crossed at Brockville.

Brockville, May 10.—Chartrand, alias Chalabran, the life criminal, who escaped from Kingston penitentiary, Wednesday, is supposed to have first made tracks for Brockville, and from here crossed to the states. As John O'Toole, a janitor, came out of his home, Tuesday morning, about 6:30 he was accosted by a stranger who came down Bethune street. The man, seeing the paint cans in Mr. O'Toole's hands, said he was a rough painter looking for a job. Mr. O'Toole said he wanted just such a mechanic for work at Fernbank, a pleasure resort three miles west of here, and at once hired him.

The stranger stated that he came in by Grand Trunk about 1:30 o'clock, and not having had breakfast, he was taken to O'Toole's house for a meal, Mrs. O'Toole giving him a lunch for the day on leaving, and in company with Mr. O'Toole he rowed to Fernbank and preparations were at once made for the day's work. The stranger said it was no trick reaching the roof of the cottage, as he was accustomed to climbing, exhibiting a scar on the forehead which he attributed to falling once from a scaffold.

While Mr. O'Toole and his other help left the stranger for a few minutes, he mysteriously disappeared, and no trace of him could be found. Nothing was thought of the incident until the return of Mr. O'Toole to Brockville. Reading a description of Chratrand, the escaped convict from the Kingston penitentiary, which appeared in the local press, he at once identified him as the man with whom he had such a strange experience during the day. He was dressed in overalls, coat and cap, and seemed very anxious to get across the river, as he made enquiries of the hours of sailing of the ferry steamer. The supposition is that after making his escape he boarded an east-bound freight train, getting off here.

Misplaced Politeness.

The Barrow family possessed a dog named Growler. If addressed politely, Growler instantly obeyed all reasonable commands, but if spoken to crossly the sensitive dog crept under the sofa and sulked. At such times as she wished to be alone it was Mrs. Barrow's habit to hold the door open and remark courteously to the discriminating animal, "Please go out, my dear," And Growler, wagging a cheerful tail, always went.

One evening, while Mrs. Barrow sat reading by her evening lamp, a large June-bug entered the room, and behaved as June-bugs usually do. The absent-minded lady, conscious of the disturbance without fully realizing what caused it, rose abstractedly, politely opened the door, and to the great delight of the family, murmured gently:

"Please, go out, my dear."

Why They Left.

New York Tribune.

"I shall never leave the stage," Miss Barrymore said to a Philadelphia woman the other day. "My audience are so kind to me I could not bear to desert them.

"My audience have never treated me as a western audience once treated a comedian, a distant cousin of mine. This comedian appeared in a four-act comedy in a western mining town. At the end of the third act the miners rose in a body, gathered up their belongings, and started to depart. The comedian, in dismay, rushed before the curtain.

"Gentlemen," he said, "there is another act yet."

"Yes; that's why we're going," said the miners."

The Antelope's Home.

The antelope lives always in open country, unlike members of the deer family, which invariably prefer a thick dense forest. They cannot be driven into timber cover or brush, but will literally turn about and run over a pursuer, if necessary, rather than be forced into cover. If they are ever obliged to pass by or through such places for food and water, they take a great deal of time to do so, as if they were determined to see everything that could be seen en route.

Chinese Laundry Fire.

There was a lively time at Ching Hong's laundry, Montreal street, about 7:30 o'clock last evening. Fire was discovered in a partition, but was difficult to get at. After some energetic work by the celestials and a few outside helpers, a few pails of water extinguished the hidden fire.

GANANOQUE NEWS.

Kingston Musicians Assist at An "At Home."

Gananoque, May 11.—The "At Home" of the Willing Circle of King's Daughters held in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church, last evening, attracted quite a number. Miss Larke, of Kingston, rendered several solos in fine style. Clarence Skinner and Ralph Britton each rendered solos. Miss Mignon Telgmann, of Kingston, the child violinist, was much appreciated for her violin solo. Messrs. W. E. Rees and George Gallop, B.A., also gave instrumental selections, and the Rees orchestra was in attendance.

The Largest Loaves.

The largest loaves of bread are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves two and three feet long, while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls four or five feet in length, and in many cases six feet long.

The bread of France is distributed almost exclusively by women, who go to the various bake houses by five in the morning, and spend an hour polishing up the loaves. After the loaves are thoroughly cleaned of dust and grit, the "bread porter" proceeds on the round of her customers. Those who live in apartments and flats find their loaves leaning against the door.

There were forty-four horses, thirty-two dromedaries and twenty-five camels for his highness' personal service and twenty-four camels supplied by Bedouins for transport service.

Will Protest Against Immigrant Encouragement.

London, May 11.—Mr. Hazelton, M. P., North Galway, on Tuesday, will ask whether the prime minister is aware that the Canadian government is paying the sum of one pound to shipping agents, in Ireland, on every ticket for an immigrant to Canada, and whether, in view of the fact that such encouragement of Irish emigration is injurious to the welfare of Ireland, he will make representations to the Canadian government to have the practice discontinued.

SULTAN'S VAIN IMAGININGS.

Thinks British Coercion Won't Hurt This Time.

London, May 11.—The Times correspondent cables from Constantinople, that in spite of the support afforded Great Britain by the French and other embassies, at Constantinople, in spite of the movements of the British fleet, in spite of the fact that the time limit is rapidly drawing to an end, the sultan shows no sign of yielding. His advisers cling to the belief that the British government is not really in earnest, and that the coercive measure, it is likely to take will be of the kind to which they are accustomed, and would be able to contemplate without trepidation.
