NEW YORK FASHIONS

COMFORT OF TRAVEL DEPENDS UPON CLOTHES

A Tailored Suit is Indispensable—The Things That Should Be Worn—None Too Early to Prepare Summer Dresses.

New York, June 7.—With women most of the comforts or discomforts of travel depend upon the clothes worn. These must not be of wash goods that easily crinkle or of things that are hard to do up, yet some easily crinkled wash goods are necessary for a long trip, Besides clothes, toilet conveniences must be carried by the traveller, as those furnished by the railroads and steamboats are necessarily limited. You will find comfort only in such creams, lotions, powders and soaps as you take with you.

For the all round useful costume a tailored suit of lightweight cloth or mohair is indispensable. No applied trimming should be used on this costume which is much smarter made in plain mannish style, with a semi-fitting coat and pleated or circular gored skirt enough to clear the ground in comfortable walking length. As to the hat a wide brimmed sailor of black straw is very smart, but if the wearer is not sufficiently youthful, or for any reason a plain sailor is not becoming, any simply trimmed straw hat or toque can be substituted. Hats trimmed with flowers are not advisable, as they too soon look crushed and dusty, but wings and quills and ribbons are most appropriate on the most desirable hats designed for such wear.

Have two petticoats of pongee or grass linen, the latter is much cheaper and wear tan shoes and stockings and dogskin gloves. With this suit as described have one pongee waist, two of butcher's linen, one of white wash silk, one of dark cotton cheviot. Do not get those of mull or lawn, which do not keep clean longer than a day even under the most favorable circumstances. Have one dark crush leather belt, two of linen that will wash. Linen collars that will wash, plain and starched, are the neatest, and can be made fresh in a few hours in any stopping place, but if too uncomfortable wear a riding stock or a dark ribbon the color of the suit with white turnovers.

Do not wear an elaborate travelling gown or a much trimmed night dress and a conspicuous sack. A very useful dressing sack is made of black crepe with a colored border in kino style. People most accustomed to travelling do not wear their handsomest clothes, but dress simply, keeping their best for other places than dirty coaches. For a night dress outing flannel or Henley serge is good, of a figured cotton voile will give one less the feeling of undress.

The travelling bag includes brush and comb, tooth, nail and clothes brush, wash cloth and sponge, soap cases, tooth powder, plenty of fresh handkerchiefs, a fresh linen collar, or ribbon stock, a night dress and dressing sack. It is usual to include in the list of toilet articles a box of talcum powder, a small hand mirror, a bottle of toilet water and a pair of slippers. It is restful to remove one's walking boots during a long day and put on instead light soled slippers or ties. It is also perfectly permissable to sit in the coach without a hat and in which case to protect the hair from dust a large long veil of the automobile type can be used this also protects from draughts.

At night when you are travelling or sightseeing, bathe the face with olive oil soap and warm water, wipe the skin dry and massage with pure cold cream. In the morning put a teaspoonful of borax in a tub of cold water and take a bath. Be sure the borax is in the travelling bag as you will find it very useful many times; a little in water to bath the eyes with when tired is restful after a day's journey and will certainly brighten them amazingly almost as well as belladonna and is not so injurious to the sight. Borax is also good for washing out handkerchiefs, turnovers, and various other little things while travelling.

A small pillow that can be tucked in the side of the suit case will be found to make the journey an easier thing, and aid sleep where otherwise it could never be wooed.

It is none too soon to get ready for the season's outing, travels of short jaunts—and bad weather must be all owed for in order that pleasure shall not be spoiled by it. To prevent the discomfort and ruining of a gown the wise traveller always takes a coat if she doesn't have a gown made of the rainproof goods. Experience has proved that two sorts of costumes are needed for real comfort on a tour of two weeks or more. One of these costumes should be of stylish light weight cloth, made so as to be dressy or plain according to the waist worn with it. To accompany this one needs a raincoat that will serve for a wrap for cool days and evenings as a protection in wet weather. Such a coat can be properly carried over the arm—the other suit may be a costume made of rainproof cloth, skirt and jacket, the jacket to be carried on the arm if the weather is too warm to make wearing it comfortable. This suit is not, cannot be dressy. It can be plainly elegant, quite tailormade in finish, but is not appropriate, as the other may be for evening. It is, however, more comfortable of the two for use, as when wearing it one is never uneasy as to what the weather may be. The coat is, of course, convenient for use with any kind of gown; the costume is nice because it leaves one free from luggage or worry about spoiling one's dress.

The modern dust coat is a particularly chic affair, whether it is intended for motoring or simply for travelling use, it succeeds in fulfilling its humble purpose without being prosaic or unbecoming. For summer wear, the linen coat in some of its forms is the cheapest of its class.

These coats are, of course, severely tailored, as are all of the coats under consideration. The full flowing, fanciful coat, though picturesque, is of little use for motoring or travelling. Some linen weaves of the coarse sort, firm texture and natural color, have collar, cuffs and buttons of brown velvet instead of black silk, and this combination of linen color and brown has found much favor in coats of more expensive grade also. Gay tartan plaid silk is introduced upon other linen models and more impractical but very pretty are the cuffs and colors of soft light blue, relieving effectively the string color lines.

But after all it is the heavy rainproof tweeds and homespuns, coverts, etc., that practical materials for the motor coat, warmer than those of silk or light weight rubber, and for any woman who expects to do much automobiling, such a garment is desirable, if not absolutely essential, even during the midsummer months.

The heavy wool coats are perforce built upon severe tailored lines, and, like a majority of the best slim rubber coats, owe their success to the cleverness with which they are cut, stitched and strapped. The best of the models are quiet in coloring, the soft mixed having preference. One of the most effective coats of this class which we have seen is a mixed gray tweed of medium tone, beautifully cut and tailored. The only touch of color is the hair line of light blue and the silk of the same share which trims the deep standing collar.

Sweaters of all kinds are worn under automobile coats when more warmth is required, but the straight falling sweater that reaches but a short distance below the waist and down slightly at the neck is considered the most suitable under the motor coat.

For walking skirts for the woman who takes long jaunts on foot, the skirts are very near the ankles, and there are a few bolder that quite display the boot tops, and after all this is the best mode for such trips. The English walking skirt is particularly noticeable in this respect. There are dresses made for the London season that are short and so full that they swing clear of the ankles frankly displaying a very handsome pair of boot tops. And this brings one to the question of how the fashionable shoes are built both for sports and for street.

LIPTON AMONG LATTER.

Many Englishmen Oppose Disarmament.

Vienna, June 8.—The London correspondent of the Wiener Tagblatt received 177 answers from leading British politicians, generals and writers to a circular asking for their opinions about raising the disarmament question at The Hague conference.

Only eleven believed disarmament is practicable, sixteen violently against it and the rest are more or less skeptical, including Mr. Balfour, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Devonshire, Austen Chamberlain and Sir A. Conan Doyle.

The Duke of Sutherland prefers arbitration. Bernard Shaw declares that disarmament is pure nonsense and that with the assistance of a progressive income tax Britain could treble her armaments. Why, therefore, disarm?

Mr. Shaw is against war because he is afraid, and believes that war will only came to an end when every one has the courage to confess himself a coward.

Sir Thomas Lipton wishes Great Britain to increase her armaments instead of decreasing them.

Among those who are favorable to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's proposal are Sydney Buxton, Lord Ripon and Lord Avebury, who point out that Europe has four times the inhabitants of the United States, but forty times more soldiers. Consequently, Europe is economically handicapped.

PRETTY INCIDENT.

Siam's King Embraces His Italian Godchild.

Milan, June 8.—The King of Siam came to Milan for the express purpose of visiting the International Motor show, now open.

A pretty incident happened just before the king bade farewell to Florence, whence he came from. A bright boy of ten came forward to present a lovely mass of rosebuds. Ten years ago, when last in Florence, the king chanced to step into the church of San Giovanni Battista just as a baptism was about to be solemnized. The monarch desired to act as godfather to the infant, and his wish was acceded to. He was deeply touched on learning that this self-same godchild now stood before him. Embracing the boy, the king kissed him affectionately again and again, and then bestowing upon the lad two gold coins amid the enthusiastic cheers of the bystanders.

Every Buttonhole of a Shirt

Any Shirt fits better than any ordinary shirt. One reason is the accurate, careful spacing of the buttonholes. Unless they meet each other perfectly—if one were even a little higher or lower than its mate—the bosom would pucker—pull—bind.

Buttonholes on shirts are placed right, are made right, and stay right, even after many trips to the washtub.

FELLOW ESCAPES

MANY WOMEN DUPED BY A BOGUS BARON.

Ran Matrimonial Agency in Conjunction With Actress and Lived on Swindle.

Paris, June 8.—A bogus matrimonial agency, recalling that carried on at Versailles by Mme. Cosbron, has just been broken up by the Paris police. The principal, a Frenchman, who went by the name of "Baron de Mery," has been arrested on charges of fraud. He worked in conjunction with a woman who was formerly a well-known Paris music hall star.

The baron inserted advertisements in French newspapers setting out that a gentleman with an income of $9,000 wished to marry a French lady with $750 to $1,000. There was a plentiful supply of dupes. The rendezvous was always at the house of the actress, who introduced the "baron" as the eligible party. In the course of a few months the "baron" became engaged to several women. During the engagement, on several pretexts, he contrived to obtain possession fo their spare cash, after which he generally vanished leaving his numerous fiancees lamenting their broken engagements and the loss of their money.

When some of the women tracked the "baron" down he invariably told them that he was already married. The victims usually accepted his statement, and in order to avoid a scandal were content to waive legal proceedings. One woman, however, more plucky, perhaps, than the others, informed the police, with the result that the pseudo-nobleman was arrested. His accomplice has succeeded in escaping for the moment.

Throwing Dice For Bibles.

London, June 8.—A curious old Whitsuntide custom was observed yesterday at the parish church schools, St. Ives, Hunts. Six boys and six girls, selected from the church and Non-Conformist Sunday schools, cast dice for Bibles, in the presence of the vicar of the parish and others. The Bibles are purchased from a fund left by Dr. Robert Wilde, who died in 1675.

Hoard Of Old Coins Found.

Dublin, June 8.—A hoard of gold and silver coins, bearing dates of about fifty years ago, amounting to about $1,500, has been found near Aughnacloy, County Tyrone. The money was hidden in an old wall beside the house which had been the property of one family for some generations.

Are You A User?

"Olive Oil" Laundry Soap is a new soap—a pure lasting soap. You should be using it. Ask your grocer for it. Cost isn't any greater. Lasts longer. It's something distinctly new and is a soap every woman should try. You'll use it often if you use it once.

Dock Laborer At 73.

London, June 8.—An inquest was held yesterday at Bethnal Green, on Henry Vanner, seventy-three years old, a dock laborer. The widow stated that, in spite of his great age, her husband worked very hard at the docks every day. He died in bed from heart failure Saturday night.

Death Caused By A Needle.

London, June 8.—An inquest was held yesterday, at the North Staffordshire Infirmary, Hanley, on Mrs. Susannah Johnson, of Hanley, who was cleaning a floor, when a broken needle entered her wrist. Blood poisoning followed and caused her death.

HE IS CORRECT.

Dr. Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused By Constipation and Strong Cathartics.

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Leeders, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly; there's none better. They at once relieve and prevent a constipated condition of the bowels and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to every girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

Good for men, excellent for women, and most effective for children. All ages and both sexes find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a marvelous medicine. Although active, they do not gripe or cause inconvenience, still they cleanse and purify the system, thereby maintaining a high standard of health. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1, or by mail, from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

600 YEARS' INTEREST

May Claim Old Debt From England's King.

Milan, June 8.—Reports recently revived that the representatives of the ancient Florentine family of Peruzzi intend pressing their claim upon the English royal family for the liquidation of immense loans made to the first three Kings Edward have led the Corriere della Sera to institute special inquiries in Florence.

The Marchese Vicenzo Peruzzi, the present head of the house, is now away in London for his marriage with Miss Betty Cox, the daughter of a deceased magistrate. The other members of the family profess to know nothing about the revived demand for restitution, but on learning the particulars remarked that though according to British law the recovery of both capital and interest was now barred, yet debts of this kind in the case of royal families remain debts of honor uncancelled by the lapse of ages.

The sum of 1,000,000,000f. ($200,000,000) does not represent the real total advanced by the merchant brothers, Simon and Bindo Peruzzi, but includes interest calculated in respect of the 600 odd years that have passed since the first loan, amounting to 60,000,000 lire ($12,000,000), was advanced to Edward I, in 1200. One of the original bills of exchange is preserved in the British Museum.

The researches of the Corriere della Sera have verified the ipsissimi verba of the boast made in the last century by the Italian patriot, Ubaldino Peruzzi, then mayor of Florence, at a banquet he gave in honor of the then lord mayor of London during the latter's sojourn in Florence. "The ancient Florentine merchants, Peruzzi and Baldi, lent such a sum to English sovereigns," exclaimed Signor Ubaldino Peruzzi, "as to-day, perhaps not crown treasures themselves would suffice to pay."

The lord mayor, struck by the allusion, later signified to Signori Peruzzi and Baldi that a concession could be granted them to ornament their family crest with the English royal arms. Signor Baldi accepted the offer, as visitors to Florence may see by noting the family tree in the private chapel belonging to the Baldis in the Basilica of Santa Croce. The Peruzzis, however, declined the quasi-bribe, though the prestige of their house had sadly waned meanwhile, owing to faithless debtors.

SUICIDE THROUGH FEAR.

Asks France to Yield Noted Camorra Chief.

Milan, June 8.—The Italian minister of justice is already negotiating with France for the extradition of the notorious Camorra chief, Erricone Alfani, who was expelled from the United States under the immigration regulations relating to false passports, and was rearrested at Havre on the demand of the Italian consul while disembarking from the steamship Savoie, from New York.

Erricone was packed off by the Havre route to avoid the inconvenience which might have attended his disembarkation at Naples, and within the next fortnight the Camorra chief will, in all likelihood, be delivered over to the custody of Italian Carabinieri at a frontier station.

The caretaker of the Naples cemetery has shot himself through fear of the threatened vengeance of the Camorra on account of his having denounced to the Carabinieri the blackmailing exploits of the incarcerated priest, Don Ciro Vittozzi. Don Vittozzi, previous to his arrest, was the cemetery chaplaon, but he has now been suspended by Cardinal Prisco, archbishop of Naples.

Arctic Explorers.

Copenhagen, June 8.—Hr. Knud (Canute) Rasmussen and his sister Frk. William Rasmussen, aged only twenty, who have been making ethnographical studies during the winter at Unmanak, North Greenland, have now started for Smith's Sound to find a tribe of Eskimo who are said never to have had communication with the civilized world.

The brother and sister are accompanied only by one Eskimo, and proceed with dog sledges, relying for food on their shooting. They will ultimately make for the Canadian mainland, which they hope to reach next year.

74 Years With One Master.

London, June 8.—It was announced on Saturday at a meeting of the committee of the Suffolk Agricultural Association, at Sudbury, to make the award of annual premiums for long service in husbandry, that one horse driver, James Fletcher, has been seventy-four years employed on the same farm, but as his master had never been a member of the association his case could not be considered.

Metal Tabs For Mutton Chops.

Liverpool, June 8.—Complaint was made to the governor, Lord Raglan, at yesterday's sitting of the Manx Tynwald, that imported frozen meat, was sold as home killed. Lord Raglan replied that he saw a difficulty, unless a metal tab was to be attached to every mutton chop.

Negro To Save The Smart Set.

Liverpool, June 8.—A strangely dressed negro who landed among the Campania's steerage passengers at Liverpool yesterday declared that he had come to England in the name of God to save the Smart Set. He gave the name of Dr. Johnson Efijah, and was attired in a uniform resembling that of an American admiral.

Grave Of Arpad Found.

Vienna, June 8.—Two Hungarian archeologists who have been making excavations on the site of the oldest settlement in Budapest have found the grave of Arpad, the founder of the famous Hungarian dynasty, and the remains of the chapel which St. Stefan erected over his tomb.

Good Field For Doctors.

Cape Town, June 8.—So great is the dearth of medical men in South Africa that an advertisement of a vacancy on the resident staff at Kimberley Hospital, carrying a salary of $1,500 a year, with board and quarters, did not bring a single application.

Pains in Back? It's Your Kidneys.

Mrs. E. E. Van Denter, Los Angeles, California, Secretary of the Social Science Club, Had Kidney Trouble So Bad That She Could Not Straighten Up—She Has Been Cured By Warner's Safe Cure.

A TRIAL BOTTLE OF THIS GREAT KIDNEY CURE WILL BE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE TO EVERY READER OF THE BRITISH WHIG, WHO SUFFERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER OR BLOOD DISEASE.

Mrs. Van Denter writes: "I am so grateful for what Warner's Safe Cure did for me that I am pleased to give you my experience. A heavy cold resulted in kidney trouble and my side and back pained me so much that I was unable to be on my feet for several months. The doctor we had was unable to give me relief, so I told him not to come any more, and began using Warner's Safe Cure. I was much relieved from pain in the course of three weeks, and I continued to improve all the time. I used eight bottles in all and that effected a complete cure. I feel so well that I am like a different woman. I can straighten up now, something that I was unable to do a few months ago. Gratefully yours, E. E. Van Denter, 423 West 9th St., Los Angeles, Cal., Secy. Social Science Club."

H. JENNINGS, KING ST

"ARE THOSE STRANGE YARNS REALLY TRUE?"

This Was a Question Put to a Toronto Business Firm Yesterday.

"I have been reading the newspapers lately and I have come in from Vaughan township, over twenty miles, to see if those strange yarns about 'A Deliberate Case Of Grave-Robbery,' and 'Literally Dragged From the Grave' are facts or fiction," was the way an intelligent Vaughan farmer introduced himself at the office of Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, yesterday. He stated that his wife was given up by a number of doctors as being in the advanced stages of consumption caused by a neglected cold. He was invited into the office and perused most earnestly hundreds of letters from grateful people who had been cured of just such troubles by Psychine. At the end of an hour he said, 'I take back the word yarns.' All you have published and much more is true. You have not given the public half of the truth. I feel like a new man. I see there is hope for my wife, and I am convinced that Psychine will be her salvation." Her trouble all arose from a summer cold—the worst of all colds. Here is one of the letters he read:

I cannot refrain from telling all who suffer of my remarkable recovery through Psychine. In May, 1892, I caught a heavy cold, which settled on my lungs, and gradually led to consumption. I could not sleep; was subject to night sweats. My lungs were so diseased my doctors considered me incurable. Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, Port Elgin Presbyterian church, recommended Dr. Slocum's Psychine to me when I was living in Ontario. After using Psychine for a short time I ate and slept well, the night sweats and cough ceased.

Months ago I stopped taking Psychine, as I was perfectly restored to health, and to-day I never felt better in my life. Psychine has been a God-send to me.

MRS. ANDREW CAMPBELL. Cottonwood, N.W.T.

Spring and summer coughs and colds, catarrh, bronchitis, chills, night sweats, run-down conditions, summer debility and all throat, lung and stomach troubles yield quickly to Psychine. To be had at all druggists at 50 cents and $1. There is hope in this remedy and almost a certain cure for all sufferers from any of these troubles.
