MINISTER SWOONED

THE CROWD VANISHED OUT OF THE WINDOW.

A Startling Episode in a Farm House in West Virginia Where the Company Had Gathered to Attend the Obsequies of a Lady.

Wheeling, W.Va., Oct. 2.—Relatives of Mrs. F. Hartwell, the young wife of a farmer living near Huntington, were bemoaning her death yesterday, a few minutes before the minister arrived to conduct the funeral rites, when she suddenly sat up and climbed out of the coffin. There was a rush of mourners for the open air, windows being used as exits. The minister swooned when the pale faced woman over whose body he had been called to conduct services met him at the door. The family was too poor to have a physician, and the woman fell into a swoon in which state she remained for four days. Her husband believed her to be dead and sent for the undertaker. He prepared for the interment without discovering that life lingered in the body.

SAVED FROM VENGEANCE.

Loses Her Home, But Saves Her Family.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—The inland mission at Konchowfu, destroyed by Boxers, consisted of two residences, a chapel and two schools, and was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Horne, of Hamilton, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Hall, of England, and R. W. Porteous, and J. L. Rowe, also of England.

Was Known In Hamilton.

Hamilton, Oct. 2.—W. S. Horne, the Hamilton missionary mentioned, came from Belleville, but his wife was a Miss Turner, and is a daughter of Alfred Turner, who lives on the Mountain brow. Together they went to China and engaged in the work of the China inland mission about eighteen years ago. About ten years ago they were home for a visit, and intended coming home on furlough next spring. Mrs. Horne's relatives here have not received any word from them about the troubles, and further than the above dispatch, are not aware as to their safety.

Some few days ago Mrs. Horne's father received a letter from her. It was dated August 5th, and in it she mentioned that the Boxers were again becoming restless. She said that this time they were not doing their planning and work in the secret manner that characterized their last outbreak, but were openly threatening the whole foreigners, and even went so far as to say that after they had been disposed of the believing natives would be killed. Mrs. Horne mentioned outbreaks in adjoining provinces, and spoke of one case where cannibalism had been practised.

Mrs. Horne, when in Hamilton, was a member of Victoria avenue Baptist church.

AID TO WORKERS.

A Scheme Suggested By Australian Statesman.

Melbourne, Oct. 2.—Sir William Lyn has outlined a scheme whereby it is intended to secure to workers a share of the government's protective policy. It is proposed to impose an excise duty equal to half the customs duty on all goods manufactured in Australia, the exercise to be remitted when the conditions where the goods are manufactured are fair and reasonable. A new tribunal styled "The board of excise," would decide the latter point with the requisite machinery. The commonwealth trade mark would be applied to goods made under reasonable conditions.

Fear Singer's Murder.

Cleveland, Oct. 2.—Friends and relatives of Miss Gertrude McKelvey, an opera singer, whose stage name is Gertrude Dayton, and whose home is in Youngstown, Ohio, fear she has been robbed and murdered in China.

With Mrs. J. C. Whiteford, of New York, Miss McKelvey was travelling about the Orient, and was last heard from on August 3rd. Since that time she and her friend have disappeared.

SHE STIRRED THINGS UP.

And Became Famous For Her Writings.

Miss Ida Minerva Tarbell, who is noted as one of the earliest writers on the subject of trust and corporation evils is associate editor of McClure's Magazine. She was born in Erie county, Pa., November 5th, 1857, and was the daughter of Franklin S. and Esther Ann Tarbell. She graduated from the Titusville high schools and from Allegheny College. About five years ago Miss Tarbell began publishing in McClure's Magazine a series of papers on alleged malpractices of the Standard Oil company, which created a sensation. She has written the history of the Standard Oil company and this is her most notable contribution to literature.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

Result of Commission's Inquiries in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, Oct. 2.—The commission appointed by the local legislature to inquire into and report upon the possibility of adopting a system providing old-age pensions for workmen in the mines of Nova Scotia, concluded its present session with a short meeting held in Sydney Mines. So far, generally speaking, the evidence adduced has gone to show that while there is general satisfaction expressed at the present system of relief in case of accident or sickness, there is room for improvement. Anything, however, that would tend to merge into common control the existing miners' relief with the proposed old-age pensions would, it is thought, meet with strong opposition. The commission adjourned to meet again in about three weeks after visiting Springhill, Inverness and Stellarton.

OLD CHARACTER DEAD

D. M. PRENTICE WAS A GREAT WOOD HEWER.

He Formerly Kept a Village Hotel Near Kingston—A Unique Plan For Drawing the Bad Picton Men to Church.

Picton, Oct. 1.—Some $400 was contributed by Pictonians and county residents, during the past year to the Loyal True Blue Orphanage, situated just out of town. According to the 8th annual report just out, there are twenty-seven children in the home from these places: Belleville, 2; Brantford, 2; Bloomfield, 4; Cannifton, 3; Cobourg, 2; Deseronto, 2; Fort William, 3; Gananoque, 2; Oshawa, 2; Toronto, 1; Alberta, 3; Saskatchewan, 1. It cost $5,314.18 to care for these orphans, during the year.

After a long illness, the death occurred early Tuesday morning of Daniel Phillips. Mr. Phillips had been a resident of Picton for twenty years, coming here from Belleville with his family. He was an ardent Orangeman, and was employed at the Barker foundry. A widow, one daughter and three sons survive.

A well-known character for his humorous eccentricity, D. M. Prentice, died Tuesday morning at the House of Refuge. Death was due principally to his age, the old man being considerably over eighty. He had lived in town for many years and during his early life was widely known as a great wood hewer, and old residents say he was so expert with his axe, that he could hew lumber as if it had been planed. He won distinction, too, for many remarkable fish catches. Previous to coming to Picton to live he kept a village hotel near Kingston. His death is truly the passing away of a distinctly representative type of the village character depicted in books.

Alcorn, left to-day to join the staff of the Bank of Montreal, in Halifax, N.S., as accountant. Patrick McManus, who returned recently from Tonawanda, N.Y., where some six weeks ago he was nearly killed in a railway accident, is now able to be about.

Eldredge, formerly vice-president, all of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, against whom collectively are pending fifteen indictments alleging forgery and perjury; Walter R. Gillette, formerly vice-president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, charged with forgery and perjury; Robert A. Grannis, of the same company, charged with forgery, and Thomas D. Jordan, former comptroller of the Equitable Life Assurance company, against whom there are eighteen counts, alleging forgery and perjury.

MADE A BIG MISTAKE.

Sold Grip For $4; it Contained $2,500.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Two thieves made a mistake a week ago, Monday, for which they will certainly be sorry if they read this story. They stole a grip and a pair of field glasses from one of the wharves where the ocean steamships dock and sold the valise for $4 and the glasses for $2, to J. B. Miller, second-hand dealer, 235 St. James street.

Yesterday, Mr. Miller opened the grip and found therein 100 £5 notes, and the genealogical tree of Hon. Percy Holt, of England.

Hon. Mr. Holt had reported his loss to the police, and the grip will be forwarded to him in Vancouver.

London, Oct. 2.—Dugald Ross, described as a Canadian, staying at the Berkley hotel, in London, has been missing for a week. He had resided at the hotel since September 9th. Mount Vernon, N.Y., Oct. 2.—Jennie Burch, the young Indian girl who killed baby Wilbur Winship, the son of a Putnam county farmer, has been released from the Matteawan asylum, where she was sent when the jury, before whom she was tried last April, found that she was insane. World Postage Stamp.

Paris, Oct. 2.—The international postage stamp, which was adopted at the Rome Postal Congress, last year, on the suggestion of Henniker Heaton, MP, will come into use on October 10th.

It is an artistic picture of a goddess, with a background of olive branches, was designed by Grasset, and has been printed at Einsiedein, in Switzerland. Its value is five cents, and will be sold in every country in the postal union, so that a correspondent may repay a reply from any of these countries.

Choked By Stolen Grapes.

Boston, Oct. 2.—James E. Toomey, aged seventeen, of Revere, accompanied by half a dozen other youths, went grape stealing in a yard, when two men came out of the house and chased them. In the morning Toomey was found dead in a field. There were grapes in his mouth and it is supposed he fell and choked to death.

Much Rates As No. 1 Hard.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 2.—A heavy movement of grain is taking place all over North-Western Canada. There is no frozen grain showing up, and a larger percentage is grading No. 1 hard than in previous years. It will average 90 per cent. Heavy and continued rains are interfering with farmers' operations.

BRIBERY AN INSULT.

Berlin Manager Sentenced to Heavy Fines.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—The manager and buyer of a large factory here have been sentenced to heavy fines for attempt to bribe two railway officials. The factory in question made a number of articles used on the Prussian state railways, and the railway officials had been intrusted with the duty of examining the goods before they were received. They at once reported the matter to their superiors, and action was taken, the factory people being charged with insulting government officials.

The railway minister at once issued a circular to all railway employees expressing his belief that none of them would accept presents in any shape. Acceptance would, of course, bring instant dismissal and imprisonment, and any firm attempting to bribe officials would not only be heavily fined, but forever excluded from supplying the railways.

MARRIED AT 14.

Tells Piteous Tale of Domestic Misery.

London, Oct. 2.—An extraordinary story of married life was unfolded at Walsall, yesterday, when William Bowen, a miner, of Bullocksfold, Bloxwich, was summoned for persistent cruelty to his wife, Rose Bowen.

It was stated in evidence that Mrs. Bowen was seventeen years old, that she was married when only fourteen, and was now the mother of three children.

Mrs. Bowen declared that since her marriage her husband had often thrashed her, and she had to leave him and go home to her mother.

A brother of Mrs. Bowen said he did not believe that Bowen was right in his mind, as he had often threatened his life for taking his sister's part.

Bowen was ordered to pay his wife $2.50 a week.

Too Rich To Live.

LOCKED UP IN VAULT

GANANOQUE DRUNK IN A CEMETERY.

There Was No Room For Him in Lansdowne Lock-Up—A Young Ladies' Literary Athletic Club Formed.

Gananoque, Oct. 2.—Quite an interesting experience happened to a young man from Gananoque, while in the village of Lansdowne, during the past few days. Knowing Lansdowne to be a local option village, he had provided himself with a bottle of whiskey before leaving Gananoque. On his way he had imbibed somewhat freely, and consequently arrived in the village in an advanced stage of intoxication, in which condition he was run in by the Lansdowne police, and as the lock-up was full, he was locked up in the vault at Lansdowne cemetery, the local officer doubtless considering him to be "dead" drunk. He was liberated during the evening, on giving his promise to leave for home at once.

The Young Ladies' Literary Athletic Club held a meeting in its rooms, in Boyd's block, last evening, to continue the work of organization of the society, and make arrangements for the coming season's work. Its object is to encourage an interest in literature, art, music, current events and wholesome sports for girls. All girls and young women who are not pupils in the town schools, are solicited for membership. So far a large number have given in their names to the canvassers.
