Feb. 12.—The young ladies of the Winona Mission Circle of Grace Church scored another hit at their Valentine party, last evening, in the lecture room. Valentines were sold and there was a postal delivery. An excellent programme of music and song was well rendered and was followed by refreshments. Many of the young ladies appeared in Valentine costumes.

The regular monthly session of the W.M.S. of Grace Church was held at the home of Mrs. DeWitta, Stone street, yesterday afternoon, and drew Scott, Victoria avenue, was thrown out quite a large attendance. The junior auxiliary of Grace Church held a very nice entertainment in the Anglican parish house, last evening, and was quite well patronized.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac open to their friends last evening for a dance and a goodly number of friends were in attendance.

M. J. Corrigan received word, yesterday, of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Corrigan, at her home in Kingston, and left at once for her bedside.

Miss Rose Funnell, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis in Brockville General Hospital, returned home yesterday to recuperate.

Mrs. William Chapman, Wellington street, was taken to Kingston General Hospital on Wednesday for a serious operation. Mr. Chapman spent yesterday at her bedside.

Miss Laura McCammon, trained nurse, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. J. A. McCammon, Stone street, has received word from the militia department that her services had been accepted for the third contingent. She is a graduate of Brockville General Hospital and will go to Montreal for special training for a month before leaving for the front.

Howard Churchill and O'Gorman Lee were in Kingston the fore part of the week to find out the requirements for service among the forty telegraph operators required with the second contingent. On learning that they would need to understand the continental code they returned home to decide whether to go or not. Both are operators in the employ of the T.I.R.

Messrs. George Masten, David Butler and W. J. Thompson attended the session of the county Orange lodge in Brockville on Tuesday. Miss Nora Donevan, Fairfax, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Hattie Conner.

ARE YOU STRONG ENOUGH TO WORK?

Mrs. Hubbard Tells How Vinol the Famous Cod Liver and Iron Tonic Built Her up and Made Her Strong.

Covington, Ky.—"I was in a general run-down condition and suffered from a bad cough. I have a family of four, and after working for a while around the house I would get so tired I would have to sit down and rest and sometimes it seemed as though my back would break.

"I tried cod liver oil emulsions and other remedies but did not seem to get any help. Finally one day I saw Vinol advertised and tried it. I soon noticed a decided improvement, and now it has built up my health and strength."—Mrs. ALEX. HUBBARD, Covington, Ky.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy for all weak, nervous and run-down conditions of men, women and children.

In a natural manner this delicious cod liver and iron tonic creates a hearty appetite, aids digestion, makes pure, healthy blood and thus creates strength for the run-down and debilitated. We have never sold in our store a more dependable remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis than Vinol.

Try a bottle, and if it doesn't help you we will return your money.

Geo. W. Mahood, druggist, Kingston, Ont.

Bronchial Tonic

Col a Vin surely builds up the whole breathing apparatus and at the same time acts as a system tonic and appetizer. It is the best tasteless preparation of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites made—an ideal winter tonic. Comes in large bottles.

WAR BULLETINS.

In the commons Premier Asquith said there was no shortage of food in the British Isles.

The British steamer Laertes, with passengers, was attacked by a German submarine near the Dutch coast, but avoided the torpedoes by taking a zig-zag course. She arrived at Amsterdam shortly.

The Prince of Wales personally praised the Princess Pats.

Savagery in Warfare

New York Evening Post.

The world will wait with interest for an official justification from Berlin of the German air raid upon non-combatants in undefended English towns. In truth, it cannot be justified. . . It is a bit of pure savagery in warfare. We assert this, not because the Germans did it, but because it was done at all. Whoever does it ought to fall under the heaviest condemnation of civilized men. We do not say that the British would not have done the same thing in the Germans' place. Americans at war might do it. Who can tell to what brutalities the fierce passions of men, once let loose in murderous strife, may not impel them? But there are laws by which all such inhumanities must be judged. There are the rules of war, there are the agreements of nations, there is the conscience of mankind. All these may be invoked against the raining of death by night from the sky upon private houses, unwarned and undefended. If the attack had been military; if the attempt had been made to drop bombs upon warships, at sea or in port, or upon barracks or fortifications or encampments, or even signal stations and coast guard detachments, it would have been terrible, but it would have been lawful. Even so, the large expediency of the raid might have been questioned. But what we have, in the detailed accounts of the bomb-dropping, without notification, in a series of unfortified English towns, is a mere exhibition of ferocity.

Bride's Reception.

Ottawa Journal.

Mrs. T. Howell Leggett, formerly Miss Myrtle Gallagher, Harrowsmith, on Wednesday held the first reception since her marriage at her residence, corner Gilmour and Elgin streets. The drawing-room was adorned with pink carnations, and in the reception-room daffodils and other yellow blossoms were used in decoration.

Mrs. Leggett, who wore her wedding gown of ivory duchess satin with princess lace trimmings, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. H. Brennan, wearing peacock blue satin with a minon overdress and fur trimming.

At the tea table, which was centred with a large basket of crimson roses, there presided Mrs. J. J. Kerfoot, Smith's Falls, and Miss Millicent Brennan. Mrs. Clifford Brennan served punch, and the ices were cut by Miss Maud Musgrove.

Mrs. W. H. Kerfoot, sister of Smith's Falls, assisted in the drawing room, and the young ladies who served in the tea room were: Miss Madge Chabbuck; Miss Dorothy Foster, Miss Eleanor Soper, Miss Gladys Beatty and Miss Lucille Gallagher, Harrowsmith.

THE NEW YEAR.

Seaforth Highlanders Bring It In With Quaint Ceremony.

The Seaforth Highlanders, now at the front, have one of the most peculiar New Year's Eve customs of the whole British army. The ceremony is picturesque and imposing.

On the night of Hogmanay, at about half-past ten, the regiment assembles in the barrack square. A few minutes later the oldest soldier in the battalion, dressed up as a druid, makes his appearance, to the accompaniment of a flourish of trumpets, and ascending the improvised throne, he calls on the ancient veterans to show their uniforms and achievements of bygone times. To the music of the pipes and brass band, veteran after veteran, arrayed in the uniforms worn by the regiment at different periods, marches past, and salutes the druid. The druid then toasts "The Seaforth Highlanders."

After a display of Highland dancing, the alarm is sounded, and the second oldest soldier, arrayed as Father Time, approaches. The veterans now retreat, leaving their honors to be guarded by their successors, and Father Time expels the druid.

At the last stroke of midnight a loud knock is heard at the gate, and out rings the sentry's challenge "Halt! Who goes there?"

"The New Year!" comes back the answer.

"Advance, New Year, and give the counter-sign!" is the next command.

"Cabar feidth gu brath!" (the clan cry of the Mackenzies, i.e., the Seaforths).

"Pass, New Year; all's well!"

The gate is then opened, and the youngest boy of the battalion enters dressed as the high chief of ancient Ross, to represent the New Year. The colonel shakes hands with the boy, while the band strikes up "A Guid New Year to Ane and A'."

After the colonel's greeting to the battalion the National Anthem is played, and the men fall out.

Mark Hambourg's Hobbies.

It may be of interest to know about Mark Hambourg's different hobbies. His beautiful home in London is a veritable art museum. Besides being an ardent collector of old coins, having had a wonderful collection presented to him by the Italian master Franchetti, and to which he is adding all the time, Mark Hambourg is also a jade collector, often going to Christie's in London and picking up valuable pieces. As a collector of beautiful glass he is well known in England, and he has found art treasures on his numerous travels. On one occasion he bought out a collection of beautiful crystal glass from a little old shop in Guernsey kept by an old lady, whom he had to coax into selling the glass, being the only thing she did not want to part with. For a while he had a craze for black opals, and just now it is red amber, Mrs. Mark Hambourg having started the fashion of red amber in London. He is also the fortunate possessor of pages of manuscript of Beethoven, Bach, and Chopin, which was presented to him by Felix Moscheles, the son of the famous composer, Ignace Moscheles. A cigar case belonging to Liszt, and a lock of Liszt's hair are others of his prized possessions. He received these souvenirs by reason of being a Liszt scholarship winner.

Echoes of 100 Years Ago.

An important centre of fighting in the present war, Verdun, was a familiar name to Englishmen 100 years ago. In it were interned the most important of those who were caught on the continent when the peace of Amiens came unexpectedly to an end in 1803. From then until Waterloo the French town had a British colony numbering about 800, who, with dinners and dances, steeplechasing and cock fighting, reproduced as well as they could the conditions of life at home. There were five exclusive English clubs, and even a pack of harriers.

They gambled for very high stakes. It was estimated that during his stay at Verdun Lord Blayney lost at cards something like $250,000 a year. That nobleman exhibited to the last the national insouciance. When peace permitted his return from exile he traveled leisurely to Boulogne, and then suddenly decided to go back to Verdun to purchase a property there, so as, he said, to be able to bathe and fish in the Meuse and have a pleasant retreat whenever he felt inclined to revisit France.

Bahama Sea Shells.

The shores of the Bahama Islands are each day strewn with multitudes of beautiful sea shells, more than 50 varieties of which have a high commercial value.

Among these are rice shells, so tiny in size as to make one marvel how a sufficient number could be picked up to fill a barrel; gold shells, mud shells, cockles, bleeding tooth; pretty decorative sun shells, eardrop shells, which are exported to Odessa, Russia, to be used as ear pendants; Panama or tent shells, which resemble miniature encampments, and sell at $90 a barrel; black snails, which take a high polish; conchs — king queen, ivory, pink-lip and trochchus or Turk's cap—locally termed "whelks"; these are but a few of the assortment kept in stock at the leading warehouse at Nassau.

Had a Big Job.

An amusing story was told in connection with the appointment of the Emperor of Russia as colonel-in-chief of the Scots Greys, who, it may be mentioned, fought in the Crimea during the war. After the appointment had been duly promulgated an enthusiastic subaltern of the regiment communicated the information to the soldier servant.

"Donald," he said, "have you heard that the Emperor of Russia has been appointed colonel of the regiment?"

"Indeed, sir," said Donald, "it's a verra gran' thing for him." Then, after a pause, he inquired, "Beg pardon, sir, but will he be able to keep baith jobs?"

LIMESTONE MINSTRELS

GAVE AN ENTERTAINMENT IN ST. LUKE'S HALL.

On Thursday Evening, And Made a Great Hit—Prizes Won By Ladies Who Sold the Most Tickets.

The Limestone Minstrels were the attraction at St. Luke's Sunday School Hall on Thursday evening, and the hall was packed, standing room being very scarce. A large portion of the city's local talent figured upon the programme.

The minstrels, comprised of William McFederidge, H. B. Blake, William Hackett and James Saunders, were as good as though they had been native born darkies from the south. "Steve" Graves was interlocuter. The minstrels' performance was good.

During the first part of the programme, William Eva, tenor, sang, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "The Girl that Was Always Chewing Gum"; George Compton, baritone, sang, "It's Nice to Get Your Breakfast in Bed on Sunday Morning"; Albert Pardoe, baritone, "The Lighthouse Bell"; Alfred Compton, baritone, "O, Suzanne"; George Graves, "Heart Bowed Down." The latter also made a hit in singing, "The Little Old Ford." J. Connor and H. Jennings were also in line in the cast upon the platform during Part 1.

After a short intermission, part II was introduced by Master George Connor, a little chap, scaring upon the scene and singing, "The Old Union Jack." This was followed by a cornet solo by J. Connor; monologue, by William McFedridge; pickaninny sketch by Master Sam Conley; comedy sketch by Messrs. S. Graves and W. Hackett; musical monologue by K. B. Blake accompanied by Miss B. Rogers as pianist; three choice selections by McAuley's orchestra; Southern medley by A. Pardoe, who took the part of "Old Black Joe," assisted by Messrs. G. and A. Compton, H. Jennings and J. Saunders.

The finale introduced a beautiful and very realistic "plantation scene" in which the whole cast participated. Louis N. Marchand was accompanist throughout the evening.

This entertainment was gotten up to raise funds for the purchase of a piano, and prizes were awarded to three young ladies who sold the most tickets. These were Miss Dora Murray, first prize; Miss Lillian Green, second prize; Miss Ena Connor, third prize. The last two were quite close but Miss Murray had a large margin to the good.

Gift For A Bride-Elect.

The choir of the First Baptist Church gathered at the home of Miss M. Halkett, William street, and presented Miss Hughson, one of the members of the choir, with an address and a silver pudding dish on the eve of her marriage, which takes place on February 20th. A. C. Singleton read the address while Miss Halkett made the presentation.

It was announced in the British commons that the ringleader of the German spies had been sentenced to prison.

Speculation in New York and Chicago was blamed by Premier Asquith for the big rise in food prices in Britain.

WASHING WON'T RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

Dissolve It, That's Best Way

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

JOHNSTON THE PRACTICAL SHOE MAN 70 BROCK ST.

A War Zone in America?

New York World.

To one performance of the kaiser's representatives in this country every American has a right to protest vehemently. They announce "neutrality and peace meetings," and with the aid of their alien societies pack them with German sympathizers. Speakers engaged in the belief that they are to address neutral and peace-loving audiences find themselves torpedoed or Zeppelined before they have talked two minutes. Instead of neutrality, peace and free speech, they encounter riot and lynch law. New York has had this experience. Chicago had it on Sunday.

These assemblages are engineered by Germans, domestic or foreign, who are making war upon the president and secretary of state. Orators who do not hesitate at sedition are heard gladly. Those still loyal to the United States who have been tricked and trapped into these conclaves of militarism are shouted down by the ambushed clause, and another triumph of "Kultur" is proclaimed.

Neutrality as defined by these professionals means donning the emperor's coat. Peace as they understand it is an attack upon the president and the government of the United States.

Forest George Shafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shafer, Tin Can, died on Wednesday at Brockville, after an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever.
