FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE NEWS FROM CALIFORNIA.

(From the Montreal Herald.)

ENGLAND.

The political information which we find in the pages of Willmer & Smith, is limited to the statement that the new reform movement, led by Hume and Cobden, is steadily progressing. Its supporters seem to take their stand on household, as opposed to universal suffrage; in so far as they apply themselves to the question of electoral reform. The Jewish disability bill has been passed.

FRANCE.

The news from the other side of the Atlantic continues to be most important. The general opinion in England, up to the period of the meeting of the Assembly, was that Mr. Lamartine would be elected the first President of the French Republic. This expectation would perhaps be more correctly described as a hope, for all Europe seems to regard him as the genius of peace and order. On the other hand, the ultra party, of which Ledru Rollin is the leader, are resorting to all the expedients employed by fierce factions in revolutionary times, to carry their ends. Blood has been shed in Rouen, Limoges, Nantes, Rhodes, Nismes, and Marseilles. Limoges holds out stedfastly against the Provisional Government. Colonel Rashes, the President of the "Rights of Man Club," and commander of the National Guards, has issued a placard, with the declaration of the rights of man, first published by Robespierre. The placard was, however, torn from the walls by the agents of the government. Considerable alarm prevails in the capital; and, as was desired in the case of the convention of the early revolution, it is rumored that a force will be brought from the Provinces to protect the Assembly against the rabble of Paris. Lyons, according to Willmer & Smyth, is to furnish this force.—The Provisional Government will resign their authority in a few days; they have issued a proclamation enjoining confidence, and declaring that "madness alone can deprive France of the democratic consequences of the revolution of February." This resolution is said to show that the Provisional Government are aware of the universal dread of a civil war.

The meeting of the Assembly was to be inaugurated by a fete in the Champ de Mars. This was to consist of a public dinner to 60,000 Parisians, at an expense of a million of francs to France.

Thiers has no seat in the new Assembly: it is said he will be elected to one of the several constituencies which have elected Lamartine.

Lucien Marat son of the king of Naples, is chosen as a representative of the Department of Lot.

L'Independent de l'ouest has declared the Duc de Bordeaux king of France.

From the Department of the Seine in which the Capital is situated, the thirty-four members returned may be classed as follows: Moderates 25; Ultras 4; Doubtful 9. There are among them twelve ex-deputies; two journalists, five ouvriers, one Catholic and one Protestant Clergyman. The Archbishop of Paris, and the Bishops of Quimper, Langres and Orleans, besides several other ecclesiastics have also been elected. Dupin and Montalembert are the only Conservative members of the late Chambers returned.

Lacordaire the celebrated Catholic preacher returned for Marseilles, was rejected at Paris, while Coquerel the Protestant, also celebrated for his pulpit eloquence has been chosen. It is remarked as a proof of the utter indifference of the electors to the religious opinions of the candidates that the Catholic Cure, the Dominican Friar, the Protestant Clergyman, and the Jew Advocate frequently figured on the same list with D'Alton Shee, who boasts that he is neither a "Catholic nor a Christian."

La Reforme, the organ of the Ledru Rollin party says:—"We expected that the election would be very bad, but the result, it must be avowed, has exceeded our expectation."

It is remarked as a circumstance showing the difference among the members of the Provisional Government, that Messrs. Lamartine Pages, and Marrast, have placed their names on contiguous seats on one side of the Chamber, and Messrs. Ledru-Rollin, Blanc, and Flocon, on the other.

There are in the chamber of the Assembly places for ninety reporters, and forty-two editors.

The Provisional Government have published certain regulations for the government of the Assembly. The senior member is to be the President; and the six youngest members are Secretaries. The election returns are then to be verified; and as soon as six hundred shall have been declared duly elected, they are to choose a President, six Vice-Presidents, six Secretaries, and three Questors for a month. The President then to establish the Republic; and the Provisional Government to give an account of their seven administrationship up to the meeting of the Assembly.

It is said that the Provisional Government have given assurance of their intention to aid the Italians, in case the latter met with reverses from the Austrians.

There will be a division of opinions as to the form of the new constitution; Between those in favor of one Chamber and a President, and those in favor of the form of the General Government of the United States.

The Moniteur Algerien says that the Kabyles have assumed a hostile attitude, and that troops were to be sent from Oran against them.

The Messenger says that "there was discovered in a cellar of the Hotel de Ville, a tube in connection with the cellar where the gunpowder is deposited." After the discovery of this crime, which might have led to horrible results, the men who were suspected of being concerned in it were dismissed from the National Guard.

In the street fights at Rouen, fifteen or twenty national guards are said to have been killed. The Commissary of the Provincial Government is spoken of differently by different parties. Some say he exerted himself nobly to maintain order, others that he originated the emeute by issuing a certain placard commencing with the words nous sommes vaincus. Eighty persons were arrested. The number of wounded was considerable.

At Limoges, the declaration of the election returns, showing the defeat of the communists, was the signal for violence. Armed bands disarmed the national guard, and seized the canton and magazine. The insurgents have levied a tax of 75,000 francs on the city.—The courriere of St. Leonard, a neighboring town, intended to march to Limoges. Other towns offered to send their national guards to put down the emeute. The Government at Paris determined to send down a military force. All the respectable families were leaving the city.

M. Blanqui has demanded of the Provisional Government the dissolution of the national guards of Rouen; the punishment of the officers who took part in the "massacres;" the trial of the members of the cour d'appel named by Louis Phillippe, who acting in the same and on account of the royalist victorious faction, have imprisoned the legitimate magistrates of the city, and filled the jails with republicans;" and the withdrawal from Paris of the troops of the line, "who at this moment prepare in fraticide banquets, for another Bartholomew of the Parisian workmen." This is very much too like the language of the old Jacobins.

At Elbeuf the troops had taken possession of all the posts lately occupied by the rioters.

The Provisional Government among other decrees, which seem to usurp the proper functions of the Assembly has issued one relative Negro Emancipation.

Slavery is to be entirely abolished in every French possession on the 27th of June.

Slaves already condemned for crime, to punishments which would not have been awarded to free men, are pardoned.

The National Assembly to fix the compensation to be granted to colonists.

The colonies to be represented in the National Assembly.

"The principle that the soil of France emancipates all who touch it to be applied to all foreign possessions.

Every Frenchman is prohibited from holding slaves in a foreign country on penality of losing his citizenship.

IRELAND.

The apostles of physical force in Ireland, like the inventors of the pill-dies and the new shop, have made the first experience of the principle in their proper persons. Messrs. O'Brien, Mitchell, and Meagher having proceeded to Limerick for the purpose of agitation, found that they were the agitated instead of the agitators. The people had been told that Mitchell was the "exterminator of O'Connell" and that "slaughter of the Catholic religion." He was, therefore, hung in effigy by the old Irelanders. In this state of feeling the Smithfield Young Ireland Club gave a course to Messrs. O'Brien, Mitchell, and Meagher. A frightful riot was the consequence; the windows and doors were demolished; O'Brien was beaten about the face; Mitchell and Meagher escaped in disguise; and the "butchers," as Mitchell calls the soldiers under General Napier, alone prevented more serious punishment being inflicted. In consequence, Limerick has been proclaimed by the Lord Lieutenant. His Lordship has declared that it is not his present intention to proclaim Dublin, as the few turbulent and desperate men, who have occasioned as much alarm, know nowhere found the support upon which they relied, agitation has in a great measure subsided." He adds that it is better the movement should be put down by the good sense of the people than by measures of coercion; but if pikemaking and seditious speeches are persisted in, he will use the powers with which the laws invest him. In Parliament, Sir W. Somerville has introduced a measure for improving the electoral franchise in Ireland. The bill substitutes for existing franchises a simple rate rating of £8 per annum to the poor's rate. Occupiers of lands of the value of £5 per annum, will be entitled to vote. These alterations will extend the constituencies immensely: it is thought that the numbers of electors will be quadrupled. At the last meeting of the Repeal Association John O'Connell indicated an intention to present an address of condolence to Mr. O'Brien on account of the Limerick business. Weekly rent £15.

The Lord Lieutenant has issued a proclamation against the proposed assembly of a Council of Five Hundred, and the formation of a National Guard. The Council of the Confederation has issued a counter manifesto, and Mr John O'Connell has intimated his intention to drive a coach and six through the act of Parliament on which it is founded. He also proposes toganize a Parliamentary Committee to watch the course of the Legislature on Irish questions.

At Cork 25,000 Repealers are said to have assembled on the 1st inst. Meagher addressed them.

The Protestant Repeal association has issued an address enforcing their principles, which they declare to be to avoid mixing political with religious questions.

Protection of vested interests. Loyalty, and opposition to Republicans.

The United Irishman of the 29th ultimo was exceedingly tame, the editorial being broken with asterisks, with the pithy notification that "the learned censor considered the remainder felonious." It appears that the proprietor of the press where the United Irishman is printed has declined to publish any articles except after submitting them to Counsel for a legal opinion of their innocence.

INDIA.

The Legislative Council has abolished all differential duties. The interportal trade is also declared free without any exception or reservation. This enlightened policy must no doubt give increased activity to the Indian trade. So far as the abolition of distinctive duties, and the duties imposed on the coasting trade is concerned, the trade of India is now open to all the world.

DENMARK AND HOLSTEIN.

From the many uninteresting details relative to these countries, we learn in general that the Danes are being overwhelmed by the force brought against them. Hamburgh is to be considered neutral. The mediation of England has been accepted by Prussia, on the part of the German Confederation. It was reported late in April, that Russia had positively refused to take part in the war. More authentic and probable news however, had been received from which it appeared that a treaty has been concluded between Denmark, Sweden, and Russia, by which in the event of an entry by German troops on Danish soil, the two latter powers are bound to take part for the defence of their ally. The Danes were blockading the Prussian coasts of the Baltic.

POLAND.

Poland is still in a state of frightful disorder, and attacks on Germans and Jews are the order of the day. Three hundred Jewish families have been forced to leave Breslaugh to escape the cruelties practised upon them.

GERMANY.

Austria has declared she cannot accept as obligatory the conclusion of the forthcoming Parliament at Frankfort. In Baden the republicans having attempted to revenge themselves, crossed the Rhine to the number of about a thousand men. After two actions these marauders again fled into Alsace, and have been dispersed by the French Government. Some Cologne communists held a meeting to the number of three thousand in the city; but the greater part were there to refute the opinions of those social fanatics. The Austrian Government has refused to allow the diplomatic representatives of Tuscany and Sardinia to remain longer at Vienna.

RUSSIA.

It is said that the Emperor contemplates a union of the whole Sclavonic populations of Europe, with which he would be able to open the great scheme of German nationality, and to rule Europe. He has addressed the Poles declaring that if they would wait but a short time, they would find the Czar loved them better than the Russians loved them, and would have cause to thank, and bless him. The Cologne Journal says that Stuve who has been one of the republican leaders on the Rhine is a Russian, and has been acting on behalf of that government—exciting troubles in Southern Germany to distract attention from what the great Eastern power was meditating against the German nationality.

ITALY.

We have many details from the country; but few of them are interesting at this distance, or even comprehensible without a map. What is important is that the Italians seem to be making no progress against the Austrians,—who is said to be in an impregnable position; that the Tyrol is manifesting its ancient affection for the House of Austria; that the Southern States of Italy are aiding the movement in Italy; that the Austrian Government has appealed to the Lombards to return to their allegiance, not the old but the new and liberal Austria, which promises them an Italian Administration; and that the Lombards have refused to accept any terms but those of independence.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times however says, that the dispute is in course of adjustment. Were it not for this, French troops would be already entering Italy. 32,000,000 of francs had been voted for war purposes.

☞ EARTHQUAKE.—A distinct shock of an earthquake was felt in different parts of the Island on Tuesday last. We are informed by a gentleman who was in the vicinity of Monklands at the time, that the shock was slight and of short duration in that vicinity. This is the third time within the last four years that we have been visited with the like shocks.—Montreal Herald.

☞ The money article of the New York Courier & Enquirer estimates the amount of Specie exported thence, since 1st January to 15th May, at Five and a-half millions of Dollars. So large a withdrawal of coin has inspired, if not alarm, at all events caution, in commercial circles—while the all but stagnation of other exports to Europe has tendered general business very dull.

An American paper has the following account of a fire at Chelsea, Boston, by which all the linen and bedding of the Royal Mail Steamship Britannia, and of three American ships of war, was destroyed:—

"A large building in Chelsea, used as a laundry by Mr. Stephen Sibley, and as a paper hanging manufactory by Merriam & Co. was destroyed by fire on Thursday morning. Mr. Sibley's loss was $15,000, insured for $13,000. Merriam & Co's loss was $7,000, insured for $4,000. The laundry contained the entire linen and bedding of the steamers Britannia and Mississippi, and of the U. S. ships Portsmouth and John Adams, which was all destroyed. The linen, together with some belonging to private individuals, which was also burnt, was valued at $10,000. The Hartford Insurance office covers a portion of Mr. Sibley's loss."

☞ There are four candidates for the representation of Quebec—Messrs. Ross, Legare, T. H. Methot, and E. Glackemeyer.

CASUALTY.—We regret to learn that Dr. Lee, a young gentleman who recently graduated at Montreal, and a son of the late Dr. Lee, of London, C. W., was accidentally drowned at York, Grand River, on Saturday morning last. The particulars of the accident we have not learned. Dr. Lee was a young gentleman of much promise, and his loss will be severely felt by his family and friends.—Hamilton Spectator.

☞ Washington papers notice that Mr. Conrad, Jr., and Mr. Hamilton Merritt are in that City, in an unofficial capacity to be sure, but nevertheless, engaged in endeavoring to effect the basis of a satisfactory postal arrangement between the United States and Canada, and also a more liberal system as regards the exchange of the produce of the two countries.

☞ Many of our readers will probably remember a middle aged person of the name of Scougall, whose lucubrations in prose, but more frequently in verse, have appeared in the Canadian newspapers. Mr. Scougall was also addicted to the fancy of locomoting on Emigration. We learn that, in the early part of the week before last, as he was crossing Mud Creek—River Auxsable—between Goderich and Port Sarnia, in a canoe, the boat upset and he was drowned. It is believed that no person was in the boat but himself.

Toronto Herald.

☞ THE TWO DROMIOS.—Barnum, the proprietor of one of the Tom Thumbs, has caused it to be announced that the Tom Thumb now exhibiting at New York is not the Tom Thumb in Cleveland, Ohio. Who ever thought that Dromio at Ephesus was the same as the Dromio at Syracuse? And yet the one is as good as the other till both are brought into the same room together. Why should not one humbug succeed as well as another? We should like to know the reason.

GOVERNOR:

THE RT. HON. THE EARL OF ELGIN AND KINCARDINE,

Governor General of Canada.

THE Directors solicit attention to the following advantages offered by the Colonial Life Assurance Company:—

I.—SECURITY.

The Company possesses a very large subscribed Capital, divided among a numerous and influential body of Proprietors,—and the absolute security so essential to a Life Assurance Society is afforded in its most substantial form.

II.—PREMIUMS.

The Premiums, which are very moderate, may be made payable yearly, half-yearly, or quarterly.

III.—DESPATCH OF BUSINESS.

The Board in Montreal being invested with full powers to examine into, and accept of Proposals, without communicating with the parent Board, a party has it in his power to effect an Assurance on his life immediately, without incurring the delay to which Life Assurers in this Country have hitherto been subjected, from the sanction of the Head Board being required to complete the transaction, the deliverance of the Board at Montreal being final and irrevocable.

This arrangement gives to the Colonial all the facilities of a Company essentially local. The Board meets weekly for the despatch of Business.

IV.—TRAVELLING LICENSE.

The Assured are at liberty to cross from any North American port to any European port, at any time of the year, without extra charge or without being required to give any intimation (as in other Offices) of their intention to cross the Atlantic.

V.—HALF CREDIT SYSTEM.

According to this arrangement, parties can pay HALF of the Annual premium for the first Five or Seven Years, the remaining half with interest to remain as a debt on the Policy, and paid off when convenient, or, at the option of the Assured, to be deducted at settlement of the claim: or, the Company will grant Assurances on the following plan: ONE-THIRD of the Annual Premium to remain for life in the hands of the Policy-holder, the proportion of premiums thus reserved to be deducted with Interest, when the sum assured becomes a claim upon the Company.

The Company pays its own Medical Officer, and no expense whatever is incurred by parties effecting Assurances.

By order of the Directors.
