[illegible] MURDER.

[illegible] inst., it became the [illegible] Inquest on view of the body [illegible] Cormier, and a [illegible] Shoemaker, Elizabeth street, [illegible] adjourned the previous evening, in [illegible] stated by the witnesses examined [illegible] Inquest, which was held in the large [illegible] Montreal Hotel, at the corner [illegible] Queen and Elizabeth streets, kept by Mr. [illegible].

The deceased, John O'Brien, was in the prime of life, under 30 years of age, and unmarried. But he lived with the woman, Ann Little, who is charged with his murder, and they appear to have been regarded as man and wife.

The substance of the evidence taken at the Inquest was as follows:—Ann Hickey, a [illegible] character, was at the house of the deceased during Saturday, having had a few words' acquaintance with Ann Little, who lived with the deceased. In the evening, witnesses of them were seen "sky-larking" or "frolicking" together, as they termed it; and it did not seem unusual for O'Brien and Ann Little to be seen sporting with one another, in or about the house. The circumstances, as related by Ann Hickey in her evidence and which were corroborated by several other witnesses in all substantial particulars, are the following:—

Between 6 and 7 o'clock, on Saturday evening, she (Ann Hickey,) was at John O'Brien's House; and he and Ann Little were sky-larking about the house. Little told O'Brien that if he was ever seen speaking to Jane Russell, (another loose character, of whom it appears Little was jealous,) she would kill him. He replied that he never wished to speak to any one but herself. They were both under the influence of liquor at the time. O'Brien went outside the house, and Little threw a cup of tea at him, at which he got vexed, and coming in, struck Little a blow on the mouth, which caused her to bleed.—O'Brien then passed out through the yard into a privy. Little, picking up a shoemaker's knife, said to the witness, (Hickey) to clear out, that "she was going to stick her husband." Witness then got her bonnet and cape and went to the privy door and looked in.—She there saw O'Brien sitting against the privy door, bleeding. She asked Ann Little what she had done? who replied she was after sticking John, and asked witness to go for a doctor. Witness answered that she did not know where one lived; and she went and informed next door what had occurred, and she then went home to March-street. The knife produced, (which was covered with blood,) was the one which Ann Little had taken out of doors with her, when she exclaimed that Hickey was going to stick her husband."—Witness was never in O'Brien's house before, and was acquainted with Ann Little about three weeks, during which time they were good friends. Ann Little only took one knife out with her, and when witness followed her out, she was inside the privy door, calling out murder and that she did not intend to kill John. It appears further, from this witness' evidence, that when they were sky-larking, O'Brien tripped Little over, but it was all in play. The party had a considerable quantity of liquor during the day—whiskey, strong beer, and ginger beer—to the free use of which and the abandoned character of the individuals, the murder of O'Brien may be attributed. Another knife was found in the privy, but in no way stained with blood.

Other witnesses deposed to having found the woman Little in the privy with O'Brien, pressing her hands against his wounds, to prevent the escape of blood, and supporting him, calling at the same time for medical aid. O'Brien never spoke, but gave a few groans, and when carried into the house, died in a few minutes.

The knife was found in the yard, between the house and the privy, as if it had been thrown there from the privy when O'Brien was stabbed; but there was no blood traced between the privy and the house. A few drops of blood on the floor of the house, were allowed to be what fell from the mouth of Little, when she was struck by O'Brien, before the parties went out into the yard, and the foul deed was committed. It was obvious from the evidence and all the circumstances, that the threat of the knife was made by the woman Little at O'Brien in the privy.

Drs. King and Hallowell were present at the Inquest, and the post mortem examination was made by Dr. Hallowell. His evidence was as follows:—

"Having examined the body of John O'Brien, found a horizontal incised wound, apparently inflicted by some sharp knife or other instrument, on the left breast, 2¼ inches below, and external to the nipple of the same side, about two-thirds of an inch in length.—On removing the integuments, a corresponding wound was found situated between the fifth and sixth ribs. On removing a section of the ribs and tracing the wound farther, the lower and inner edge of the right lobe of the lung, was found to be perforated.—The pericardium, or covering of the heart, was also laid open, and a wound was discovered on the left side or ventricle of the heart, extending into the interior of that organ. The pericardium was filled with clotted blood. The direction of the wound was inwards and rather upwards. I am of opinion that the injuries now described caused the death of John O'Brien. The knife produced was a very likely instrument to inflict the wound."

The Coroner read over the evidence to the woman Ann Little, in the presence of the jury, but she made no material statement, having been cautioned by the Coroner to say nothing that would criminate herself. The Coroner having charged the jury, and read some portions of the law relating to murder, for their guidance, they were left to their own meditations, and in the course of a few minutes returned a verdict of wilful murder against Ann Little, who was forthwith committed to Jail for trial.

The witnesses were severally bound over to appear at the next assizes; and the witness Ann Hickey, was required to find bail for her appearance when required in Court.

In a City overrun with low grog shops and lewd women, the frequent occurrence of crimes of the most heinous character need not be wondered at.—Colonist.

THE U. S. PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

From the Montreal Herald.

Our readers will have seen by the intelligent letters of our New York Correspondent that the present, and still more certainly the next, Presidential election in the United State, must turn on the great question of Slavery. This subject has been forced on the attention of our readers by the results of the late Mexican war. The world was loudly assured, that the hostilities in the country were to extend the area of freedom over thousands of acres inhabited by a benighted and slavish race.—The war is now over, the territory ceded, and the only area extended is likly to be that of the peculiar institutions of the South,—Negro Slavery, and the Inland Slave Trade. In advance of the great struggle at the Presidential elections, the Senate has been debating this business, of so great importance to humanity, on bills for establishing the territorial Government of the United States in Oregon, and the newly acquired lands of California and New Mexico. This debate has ended in the passage through the Senate of the Compromise Bill, introduced by Mr. Clayton. This measure is of an extraordinary character, and it largely affects the interests of humanity, so largely that we think some brief account of it will not be uninteresting to our readers. The Oregon Territory lies entirely to the Northward of the 42° of North Latitude, and is therefore quite unfitted for the peculiar kinds of cultivation to which slave labour is applied. The Southerners, therefore, propose to permit Oregon to remain as a Free State, especially as the people who inhabit it have already decreed that it should be so. This is the great concession they propose to make to the free soil principles of the North. But New Mexico and California have long been looked on as proper fields for speculation of flesh and blood merchants. To secure this field, Taxas has been annexed, war has been made on Mexico, and this new territory has been added to the United States as the price of a treaty of peace. It is now proposed to make no special law for this territory on the subject of slavery; but to leave the question to the decision of the Law Courts, subject to the revision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

But instead of the officers being elected by the people as in the Oregon territory, New Mexico and California are to be governed respectively by a Governor, and two or three Judges, to be appointed—what will Mr. Paincuan say to this—to be appointed by Mr. Polk. This will neutralize the wishes of the people, who are known to be opposed to slavery, and will throw the decision of the question entirely into the hands of these authorities, who will, of course, be slave-holders, or, at least, favourable to slavery. The only means of redress will be by an application, on the part of the injured negro, to these persons predisposed against him, and then an appeal to the Supreme Court, which it is easy to see he will not be in a condition to make. Thus the peculiar institution will be established until the period when American slave-holders can command the majority of the votes over the conquered race. Then a constitution more in accordance with the pledges given the people by the generals who invaded them, will probably be granted; but it will be to perpetuate bondage on what has long been free soil. Who does not see in this beginning all the evil and injustice, which has hitherto distinguished foreign conquests in their most atrocious form. The Mexican inhabitants of the new territory are to be deprived, in the name of a republic, boasting its freedom, of their liberties conquered from Spain. They are to be subjected to a despotic government, under foreign rulers. This is to be done, lest their hatred of the most hateful of all tyrannies, negro slavery, should prevent their soil from being covered with that plague spot. And this is to be the upshot of a war, which we were told was intended to give freedom and happiness to entire nations.

Some of our exchanges express a confident belief, that the bill which has gone through the Senate, will not pass the House of Representatives. We hope not.

THE NEW DEBENTURES.

The Globe has fairly expressed the position of the Government in regard to these Debentures in the first part of the following sentence:—

"The Government is just in the situation of a mercantile house with ample property, which from some cause or other, has not funds to meet all immediate demands. They give out their promissory notes to their creditors, which are known to be beyond all challenge, and the creditors convert them into cash."

As long as the issue is small they may, to a certain degree, be converted into cash, as they will be received at the Custom House and in payment of various dues to Government. Should they be extensively issued they will not be in much favor, because the Chartered Banks will not take them. Their convertibility into cash is diminished by their value—ten and twenty dollars, and they will not be available for investments until they have been issued for a certain time and approach towards the term of their maturity. We do not see that under the present impossibility of raising money on any security, any blame can attach to the Government for their issue, provided that issue be small and not kept up. If it be large and frequently renewed they must ex-necessitate fall in value—and our present ministers are, we suppose, fully alive to the necessity of avoiding a depreciated paper currency.

DEATH OF JUDGE JONES.

Died, at Toronto, on Sunday the 31st day of July, in the 58th year of his age, the Hon Jonas Jones, one of the Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench in Upper Canada. On the previous day this much lamented gentleman was in his usual good health, but was suddenly seized with apoplexy in the evening, and continued unconscious till his death, which occurred about 9 o'clock, p. m., on Sunday. The calamity, unlooked for at this moment, is not only an irreparable misfortune to a numerous family and a large circle of relatives, with whom the whole community deeply sympathises, but it will be long and universally lamented throughout the province, where Mr. Justice Jones was every where known and respected. No one indeed could know him well, who did not value him, as a sound hearted, energetic and amiable man, true to his friends and generous to his opponents; and as an able upright and most efficient Judge, whose masculine understanding, and clear and quick perceptions, aided by an extensive knowledge and ready application of legal principles—by unusual sagacity, and by a thorough knowledge of the business and transactions of the country, enabled him correctly to appreciate the evidence brought before him, and to estimate justly the intention and conduct of parties.

Mr. Jones was the son of the late Ephraim Jones, Esq. an U. E. Loyalist, who settled in the District of Johnstown, after the American revolution, and who was of a large family distinguished by its firm adherence to the Crown throughout that contest, in which several of them gallantly fell on the field. He was educated at Cornwall by the present Venerable Bishop of this Diocese, to whose training his moral and intellectual character equally did honor. Remarkable for a steady resolution and decision of character, he was on all occasion, regardless of danger, of difficulty, and forward and zealous in the discharge of every public and social duty. As representative of the county of Grenville, he was for many years a prominent and very useful member of the Legislature.

It may truly be said of him, as a native of this country, that, though Upper Canada may, in her future history, number among her sons individuals more richly endowed by nature with the gifts of genius, many years will pass before she will produce a man combining more of those sterling qualities which give worth and weight to private character, and which are essential to the just and efficient discharge of public duty. He was a pious, warm-hearted, and pre-eminently honest man.

This is not the partial testimony of a relative, nor the lightly weighed estimate of a casual acquaintance possessing inadequate means of information. It is a tribute of praise known to be well deserved, paid by one intimately associated with the deceased, in private friendship, and in public duties through five and forty years, and who feels while he is writing it, that the Queen has lost a subject as true hearted as any that now lives in her dominions; the seat of justice, a Judge every way worthy of public confidence and respect; and a large circle of relatives and friends, a member of their society whose personal character did himself and them more honor, than even the high station which he so worthily filled.—Patriot.

TESTIMONY OF THE DOCTORS IN FAVOR OF WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

Exeter, Maine, Sept. 30, 1845.

This certifies that I have recommended the use of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for diseases of the Lungs, for two years past, and many bottles to my knowledge have been used by my patients, all with beneficial results. In two cases, where it was thought confirmed consumption had taken place, the Wild Cherry effected a cure.

E. BEYDEN, Physician at Exeter Corner.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, of Crown Point N. Y., in a letter dated August 24, 1845, says: "In the course of my practice in this vicinity, I have tested in some good degree the good qualities of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in Pulmonary Complaints, and I now wish to procure a supply of the medicine.

Dr A. H. Macnair, of Tarboro, North Carolina writes us under date of Feb. 14, 1847, that he has used Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in his practice the last eighteen months, and considers it the best preparation of the kind he ever saw, and knows of none so deserving the public patronage.

Dr. Wm. A. Shaw, of Washington, N. C., writes, under date of May 1, 1846, as follows:

"I have heard of many cases of decided beneficial effects from its use, especially in Asthma and chronic cough of spasmodic character. I have used the Wild Cherry a great deal in practice, and with marked good results in those cases of great nervous mobility and irritability, to which phthisical patients are subject. The combination of these principles in Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is ingenious and judicious.

Medical men are justly distrustful of Patent Medicines in general, but candor must discriminate between outrageous humbugs and nostrums and those medicines which have proved salutary, and in many well attested cases curative.

Dr. Hoffman, Huntingdon, Pa., cured a child of Asthma with it, after he declared he could do no more with his medicine, and the child must die.

Dr. Fitch, of Sangerfoss, N. Y., says he cured Liver Complaint of four years standing that would not yield to the usual remedies.

Abraham Skillman M. D., of Bombay, N. J. says it is the best medicine for consumption, in every stage, he has ever known. We might refer you to hundreds of cases, had we room, that would convince all of its great virtue.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.—The Crops.—The Wheat harvest in this township is now nearly completed, and the harvest-men are travelling westward where the crops are yet only in pennys. We had several heavy showers in the early part of the week, in which a large quantity of oat wheat was spoiled; but the weather being warm, and sharp breezes drying up the moisture as rapidly as it fell, very little injury has been suffered by the grain.—Globe.

HOWARD HOTEL,
NEW YORK,
Corner of Broadway & Maiden Lane.

DEEPLY appreciating the very liberal patronage bestowed on them since purchasing from the Messrs. HOWARD, at a high cost, their interest in the above well known Hotel, the Subscribers most respectfully ask from their friends and customers a continuance of their kind remembrance when visiting New York, and from the public generally the favor of their patronage.

The HOWARD HOTEL is an establishment of the first class, both with regard to its business and its ample means of securing the approbation of its customers, being fully equal to the comfortable accommodation of from 200 to 250 persons.

Gentlemen or families can be served in their private parlors, on moderate terms, in any style they may desire, or at the Table d'Hote, at their option.

The central situation of the House also decidedly one of the best in New York) being close to the public offices and places of business, thus rendering a long, irksome, and fatiguing walk to and from your Hotel unnecessary, whilst all the advantages of a residence in the best part of Broadway are enjoyed, is in itself a matter of great convenience; added to which, in all the materials or true comfort, in its general arrangements and management, and whatever can be done by the most minute attention to make it truly desirable as a residence and "home" for its inmates during their sojourn in New York, the Proprietors most emphatically assure the public that their Hotel shall yield to none whatever.

The long experience of Mr. JOHN THOMAS, and the extensive favor enjoyed by him for so many years whilst engaged in the business of Albany, and in the United States Hotel at Saratoga Springs, are a guarantee that these pledges will be fully redeemed.
