The Daily News.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCT. 8.

"WHAT WILL HE DO WITH IT?"—Mr Huntington has certainly succeeded beyond his hopes and expectations in placing his accusation against Ministers before the public. When he published the documents surreptitiously obtained at a high price, he expected that their perusal would create so strong and general a feeling of indignation that the ministry of Sir John A Macdonald and his colleagues would fall at once before it like the walls of Jericho at the trumpets of Joshua, or that an inquiry would be instituted before a committee of the House of Commons, when the evidence could be commented upon day by day in flaming speeches, and all the thunders of Grit oratory, and Globe editorials could be employed to excite the passions of the people and their representatives, until either the resignation of Ministers was forced, or a rebellion excited, it mattered to them but little which, so long as the self-dubbed Reform Party obtained the direction of public affairs, and the control of the public purse. He little expected, and as little did he desire that the matter should be calmly and judicially investigated before a tribunal composed of men accustomed to take evidence, to discriminate between the true and the false, and to assign to the depositions of witnesses their true value. It has, however, been so investigated, and the result is the complete vindication of the accused parties from his accusation, which, be it remembered, was that Ministers had sold the charter, and consequently the control of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the greatest of our public works, on which depends the consolidation and permanent existence of the Dominion, to foreigners, the promoters of a rival and competing line for the purpose of preventing the completion of the work.

The evidence taken before the Commission so completely contradicts this assertion that it seems to be tacitly abandoned by all but the most rabid and [illegible] section of the Grit papers, while the [illegible] respectable ones such as the Globe and Times, a paper by no means friendly to the government, distinctly say that this charge must be abandoned, as the whole of the evidence entirely disproves the accusation.

Well, Mr Huntington has heaved his accusation fairly (or unfairly) before the public—and now that he has got it there, "What will he do with it?" Will he, and the motley crew of Grits, rouges, parti-nationales, annexationists, anti-confederates, and sedition-mongers, who constitute "Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition," go fairly and squarely before Parliament and the country upon this, his original issue? We vow not. Their own journals are foreshadowing their course of action. First, they will raise the question of "privilege," and endeavour to snatch a vote of censure on the prorogation, or on the appointment of the Commission. If defeated on these issues, they will fall back on the charge of bribery trusting that their own criminal proceedings in that line are so well concealed that no compromising revelations can be made, as they well know that with the Conservative party the Post office is sacred, and private correspondence strictly respected.

That this is the course they intend to take is evident from the tone of their organs in all parts of the Dominion. They challenged their opponents to bring forward proof of their complicity in any unlawful practices, and loudly proclaim their absolute freedom from any such improper behaviour, while at the same time they practise in secret every species of corruption, from the bribing of voters, and the intimidation of Crown Land settlers, to the subornation of felony in private secretaries, confidential clerks, and post office officials, tempting them, as Satan tempted our first ancestor, to betray their masters' secrets, to copy their private correspondence, and even to steal documents from the files of the telegraph operators, or the shelves of the post office. They parade their purity, and boast of their efforts to preserve "the freedom of election," save the mark, and they used the most barefaced corruption to defeat the honest and economical John Sandfield Macdonald, and then passed a stringent bribery law to secure their ill gotten position.

But secret as they have been, the truth will leak out at times, and they now and then in the heat of an argument let slip an admission that lets the world know what they have been about. Thus the Belleville Ontario, in its issue of the 3rd inst., says. "There is no doubt Reformers throughout the country expended unjustifiably certain sums of mony," and then tells us that "what was spent was the free gift of private parties;" but it does not tell us what reasons these private parties had for making these free gifts. It says "They" (the Reformers) "had no public funds to draw upon, no secret service money at their disposal, no charter or other Government interest to sell!" What! had they no Ontario surplus to distribute, no timber limits to dispose of; no mineral lands to grant; no Silver Islet to sell over again? Had they no arrears upon Proton lands to remit, no model farm to remove from Toronto to Guelph, no Mimico lots to auction off; no charitable institutions to locate? Fie! fie! Mr Ontario so to belittle the resources of your party, while all the time you know that they were, as Sir John truly said, spending two dollars to their opponents one; and this not by individual action here and there, but as the uniform and predetermined policy of the party, [illegible] by its a priori, [illegible] editorial article, as [illegible] when he refused Mr [illegible] expect to see Reformers [illegible] inactive, while he unfettered by law, and unrestrained by morality, bought the country east and west to sustain his position? Such an expectation he had no right to indulge." If this is not a direct admission that the Grits were deliberately into bribery, we do not understand the English language. How then can they go into Parliament and impeach Sir John A. Macdonald, "or any other man" of corrupt practices, with these facts and admissions staring them in the face.

The Ontario affects to have been astonished at the result of the contest in West Hastings, that is a mere pretence. The Ontario people well know that none of their stripe could defeat Lt.-Col. Brown, but they found a candidate with a thousand dollars to spare—and bled him accordingly. It was in North Hastings that they were both astonished and disappointed to find that the blue blood, the big beasts and the money bags and family influence of the Grit candidate were powerless against the tried loyalty, the sterling integrity, and the consistent independence of Mackenzie Bowell, the present respected member. East Hastings, too, nobly vindicated the claim of the county to electoral purity by returning Mr John White as its representative, in the face of both Grit and Government influence. He, at least, had neither Ontario nor Dominion surplus to expend, and we do not believe that he will feel offended with us for saying that he had none of his own. All honour then to Hastings, East; West and North, and we trust that Kingston and a few neighbouring constituencies will on the earliest opportunity follow so good an example.

SIGNS.—Some of the Aldermen are reluctant to bring down their signs notwithstanding the by-law and the proclamation. This is scarcely fair. Law-makers should not be law-breakers.

FURS.—Mr Groh advertises all manner of furs of the latest patterns and styles for both ladies and gentlemen. Parties requiring furs should by all means call at the sign of the "Red, White and Blue."

O. K. CIGARS.—There is a change of proprietors at the O. K. Cigar Store, King street, and the new proprietor is selling off all the old stock.

LIFE INSURANCE.—The Globe: Montreal Life Insurance Company of New York is not a new company by any means, although it is comparatively unknown around Kingston. However, as Mr B. C. BOARD OF TRADE.—A quarterly meeting of the Board of Trade was held at the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening. Present: Harty, Esq., President, in the chair, his Worship the Mayor, Henry Cunningham, and Messrs. John Carruthers, Wm. Power, John Muckleston, W. R. McRae, R. Carson, Geo. Robertson, Geo. Morton, and James Shannon, Secretary. The Secretary read the minutes of two previous meetings, which were approved, after which a discussion arose relative to the assessment law, and particularly as to bank stock. It was stated that a public meeting had been called by the Board of Toronto, to be held in that city on [illegible] for the purpose of discussing the subject, and the President was requested to call a meeting of the Board after that date in order that the matter may be thoroughly discussed. A conversation arose relative to the delay in erecting the letter boxes promised some time ago by the Post Office authorities, and the Secretary was directed to communicate with Mr Barker on the subject. The Board adjourned at 9 o'clock.

A [illegible] favourable to the formation [illegible] rink is to be held at the [illegible] Thursday evening, when [illegible] is invited to be present.
