16 pages WEEKLY for $2 per annum.

THE "FAVORITE" PLAN.—We have planned out a paper which gives more reading for less money than any paper in America. We propose to furnish a better, fuller, more interesting, more carefully edited paper, at $2 per annum, than any imported paper which costs you $3. While giving the preference to Canadian productions, we will give, from advance sheets, the best stories published in England and the United States. We will have the latest and most interesting items relative to the Farm, the Garden, the Household, Scientific and Literary intelligence, a column of Wit and Humour, &c. Get a sample number at the News-dealers, or write for one. It will be sent free.

"THE FAVORITE" SHAPE.—The elegant 16-page quarto form we have adopted, while more convenient for reading in sheets, is also better adapted for binding, and contains fifty per cent more reading matter than the unwieldy 8-page folios heretofore in vogue. At the year's end, each subscriber will have a volume of 832 pages, containing the equivalent of at least 30 fifty-cent volumes at a cost of

ONLY TWO DOLLARS.

"THE FAVORITE" ISSUE.—"The Favorite" will be issued:—

The Daily News.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 8.

Manitoban Affairs.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Dear Sir,—As several of my Kingston friends exacted from me a promise, previous to my departure on this expedition, to drop them a line giving some news of the country and success of the commission, I feel it too arduous a task to comply with the requests of so many, especially when taking into consideration that paper here is worth one dollar per quire, and envelopes five cents each. Why it would take one-half my salary to support such a correspondence. And then again imagine (if you can) the thermometer at 45° below zero, and my consuming Government fuel at late hours to maintain only a moderate supply of heat, as above that standard it would employ all hands in cutting firewood. After taking these troubles into consideration, I have concluded to scribble you a few lines that you may make them known to my old acquaintances individually, or through the columns of the NEWS, to them collectively.

Although some of our party have returned Kingston, and the interest in our expedition may have somewhat abated, an epitome of its progress and some details respecting the country may yet be interesting to some of my friends.

Our journeyings and doings since our departure from Kingston until subsequent to our arrival in camp, have appeared, I believe, in the NEWS. The commission has been busily employed taking astronomical observations, surveying and exploring in the vicinity of the 49th parallel between the Custom House here and the Lake of the Woods, pursuing the work with indefatigable exertion and perseverance, and has made considerable progress.

Captain Anderson, R.E., astronomer, and a party of twenty-five, sappers and civilians, left here on October 1st for the northwest angle of the Lake of the Woods, proceeding via Fort Garry, and from thence by the Dawson road to the angle, a party of the American Commission, under Col. Farquhar, preceding us by one day. We there met Colonel Forrest and party, a branch of our commission, who had come through by the Dawson route from Thunder Bay. The northwest angle is a point fixed somewhere about the year 1829, from which the Ashburton Treaty ran a line due south for about twenty-five miles until intercepting the 49th parallel. The locating of this line by the commission places a heretofore questionable piece of land, upon which had been erected a few huts and a Hudson Bay Company's store, in the U.S. Territory.

The greater portion of the road from the northwest angle to Winnipeg passes through a tamarack swamp, interspersed with cedar, spruce and firs, for about seventy miles west from the angle, necessitating, with few exceptions, the construction of corduroy over the entire route. The soil then becomes more sandy and gravelly for eight or ten miles, covered with scrubby oaks, poplar and a few conifers until within thirty miles of Fort Garry, when the open prairie is met, extending westward to the Rocky Mountains. Here the soil changes into a black loam, deep and rich, covered with prairie grass and small groves of young poplars. Ten or twelve miles east of Fort Garry, six or eight families from Ontario have located homesteads. They are perfectly contented with the soil and climate, but complain of petty persecutions by the French half-breeds, who are jealous of encroachments by Canadians upon what they consider their just prerogative. No doubt that feeling will die out, or at least not be made so manifest, as the immigration to this country from the eastern provinces will have so increased the Anglo-Saxon population, that their majority will give them a voice in the governing and framing laws for the welfare of the country, and their power for the maintenance of equal rights to all.

The Government has, with a wise forethought for the comfort of emigrants and passing troops, established along the Dawson road depots or stations at intervals where rivers or creeks intersect or approximate the road. The station-keepers are generally married men, their wives acting as cooks; and are provided with a neat log hut, commodious stables and supplies of flour, pork, hard biscuit, tea, sugar, potatoes, molasses, dried apples, &c., of good quality. They are very kind and attentive to all persons, and are not allowed to receive payment from emigrants or persons in Government employ. To prevent imposition, the former have their tickets, and the latter are supplied with passes from some of the Governments agents on the road.

The volunteers on their return home, and the relief for Fort Garry, passed the angle during the stay of the Commission. They all looked weary, many were foot sore, but all evidently determined to brave it through. Among the relief were several from Kingston.

The colonization of the Red River country was first projected by the Earl of Selkirk about the year 1810, by purchase from the Hudson Bay Company, who had proprietary rights to the soil, granted by charter from King Charles the Second in the year 1670. Under the patronage of Lord Selkirk a number of inhabitants from the north of Scotland reached this territory with the object of forming settlements. Their privations and misery, with obstacles to be met with on every hand, not easily surmounted; drove the wanderers from place to place seeking refuge but finding it not. Persecuted by the Indians and equally so by the X. Y. and North West fur trading companies, who were jealous of their hunting grounds, rendered their existence a condition of perpetual martyrdom.

In 1836, the Hudson Bay Company re-purchased from the heirs of the Earl of Selkirk, these lands ceded to his Lordship in 1810.

The native population of this Province consist of English, Scotch and French Half-breeds, Swamp-breeds (across between the Half-breeds and Indians) and Indians. The former (English and Scotch) comprise the more intelligent class; but the latter (French, Swamps and Indians) might better for the country, or prosperity of the Province and benefit to mankind, emigrate to some of the South Pacific Islands, where nature supplies the ordinary wants of man, and places no obstacle to his revelling in indolency and filthiness.

Capt. Featherstonehaugh, R.E., astronomer and chief surveyor, and party, left camp, immediately after the departure of Capt. Anderson, for Lake Rosseau; to where Lieut. Green of the American commission had been running a transit line from the Red River. Capt. Featherstonehaugh is pushing his work with energy and a determination to accomplish, if possible, the completion of the work this season. Mr A. L. Russell, surveyor, and party, have been exploring and surveying in the vicinity of Lake Rosseau, but are now continuing the same work at Rosseau River. Sergeant Ray, R.E., is also in charge of a party surveying a belt of country six miles north of the transit line, and about thirty-three miles from here, near Point d'Orme. Lieut. Galwey and party proceeded from the N. W. angle to about eighty miles east on the Lake of the Woods, and after taking astronomical observations in that locality, returned to camp, and has been taking observations about thirty miles east from here.

Capt. Andersen, with the remainder of the party, have returned from the Lake of the Woods, after completing a cutting of about seventeen miles due south from the northwest angle. And has been engaged in organizing and making arrangements, so that the object of the commission may be carried out as far as practicable in this region previous to the spring thaws. Our commissioner, Capt. Cameron, R.A., has an able coadjutor in Capt. Anderson; his energy and zeal combined with four years practical experience on Her Majesty's boundary survey across the Rocky Mountains, enables him to grapple with the difficulties attending an expedition of this nature in a severe climate, while his gentle manners, affability and justness command respect and obedience. Our Commissioner has creditably completed, commodious and comfortable buildings for our quarters. They are erected about two and one-half miles down the river the Hudson Bay Company's post, and protected from the bleak winds off the prairie by a thick growth of poplars and young oaks. They consist of a large two story building, with kitchen attached for the officers. Three large double buildings for the Non-Commissioned officers, sappers and civilians, kitchen and wash house. A substantial stable, with hay loft, for thirty-six horses. A capacious store with a well built cellar, bake house, blacksmith shop, and a large building for workshops of carpenters, harness makers, tailors, shoemakers, photographic rooms, secretary's office, etc., also other out buildings. Capt. Cameron has also erected a neat little cottage for his private residence about half a mile below here on the bank of the river. Although our new quarters have not yet passed before the baptismal font, our commissioner has for the present named it "Dufferin," and I have no doubt but you will before long see it gazetted as such, if that be the orthodox custom.

There has been a depot for supplies established at Point d'Orme, and another is about to be fixed at Lake Rosseau; they are for the convenience of parties working in these localities.

A party of axe men went to Point d'Orme lately, and I understand that a contract is to be given for the clearing of the whole line, some thirty or forty feet wide, from the Lake of the Woods to the Red River. A great portion of it is prairie, the remainder tamarack and other of the pine family with poplars and scattering oaks; in the spring of the year direct route is impassable except by canoes. There will also, very probably be depots fixed at intervals, to the west, during the present season, for the supplies of parties going that direction in the spring. It is impossible to transport over some parts of this country during the thaws; miles of the prairies are inundated by the melting of the snow and travel rendered extremely difficult.

The soil of this Province appears to be well adapted for agricultural pursuits; it is rich, deep, and loamy, and the result of the first agricultural exhibition held in this Province at Fort Garry, last October, was very creditable to the exhibitors. It was considered a perfect success, and quite satisfactory in the quantity and quality of the yield of the soil. No doubt that this country has not the advantage of long practical experience by expert agriculturists, of the knowledge of the best kind of cereal grain suited to the soil and climate. They have instituted means of trying samples, especially of wheat, from several States of the Union and different parts of Canada, and from the interest displayed, will undoubtedly succeed in importing into the country the different classes of each cereal best adapted to this region. Although the farmer here meets with apparently no obstacle to his sure success, there are yet other difficulties than pine stumps and stones, winter and summer have each their grievances, as they have in every country; but the winters here are unusually long and severe, building material for housing cattle very scarce, and firewood dear; the summers are not oppressively warm but bring the pests of pests, the fly and mosquito; the latter may appear but a slight obstacle to those unacquainted with this country; they have been the means of suspending works, cattle and horses have perished from their persistent attacks; the air, houses, eyes and pots are filled with them; no numerical calculation can approach their numbers; fire stops them not, for their end is not until their season is over; they are worse than the locusts of Egypt, as a farthing rushlight is to the orb of day for an illumination; their ravages upon all animated nature is a source of many lamentations among the native population. Yet withal, they have their seasons and change of locality and residence. I pity the poor landlord who holds them as tenants. The inclemency of the winter is more than I anticipated. I was led to believe that the light atmosphere, &c., made 35° below zero here to equal about 15° below zero in Kingston. Don't believe them, it is not so; let them try it, who think so, and they will soon be undeceived. Last week in
