FREE MARKETS AND FREE ROADS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Sir,—The late agitation respecting free roads and markets seems to have again completely subsided; but as the question possesses so many points of importance connected with the welfare of the country in the vicinity, and even to Kingston itself, it should not be allowed to simmer down to a dead calm, lest some might be led to believe that it is the result of indifference, for such is not the case notwithstanding the facts that in November last the committee appointed by the County Council "to consider and arrange some plan by which the tolled roads in the county could be made free, in conjunction with a committee appointed by the City Council, did not come to any arrangement." It appears that the City Council's committee final proposal was of such a nature that the county committee had no power to act (as they report) "gave the matter up." I have not been informed of the terms of the proposition, beyond this, that the question should be taken up jointly with the settlement by the two municipalities of the court house and gaol expenses. So you will observe by this unhappy mixture of two distinct questions, the much-needed amendment regarding tolls was deomed to the tombs of the capulets, there to remain I suppose till such times as we can get representatives again together from both sides with intelligence and energy enough to grapple with the matter honestly, and resolutely carry it to a final and satisfactory termination.

It would appear almost unnecessary to advance arguments in favour of free roads and markets, for it is a matter most persons should well understand, being reminded so frequently by those "touching appeals" for small change from exacting collectors, these should naturally lead the most thoughtless to reflect very often over the whole matter. But if there be individuals not given to much reflection on such trivial subjects, but nevertheless, through necessity or otherwise, sometimes travel the toll roads to the east of the city, they must be unobservant indeed if they failed to notice the abominable state of repair in which they are left in many places, much to the prejudice and risk of Her Majesty's liege subjects.

To the west of us toll roads are things of the past, and the entire satisfaction they there enjoy in the freedom of travel since the abolition of tolls, should satisfy any reasonable mind that the same good results would be realized here, if we would follow their example. In fact impositions of the nature of tolls, however paltry, are always unpopular with the majority of the people, and the sooner they are abolished the better for the general interests of both the city and county.

And until some satisfactory reform takes place in this direction there will be no reconciliation of the feelings and sentiments of hundreds to the present unsatisfactory state of the whole matter.—Yours truly,

INTEGRITAS.

Pittsburgh, 20th January, 1873.

BATTERSKA PENNY READINGS.—The Readings in this enterprising village of which notice was given some time since, are carried on with great success. Three have already been held. The first was on the evening of Dec. 19th, when the readings were organized and put on a proper basis of "rules and regulations." Mr J. Lawson was elected permanent Secretary-Treasurer. The chairman is elected each right of meeting. A standing committee of seven gentlemen was formed to attend to the wants of the reading in general, as well as provide competent persons to interest the audience from time to time. An opening address, pointing out the object, mode of conducting, benefits arising from the Reading, &c., was given by the secretary. Mr T. Holder gave an original essay on "Gratitude," besides numerous selections and short speeches by several of the ladies and gentlemen present. On the 6th of Jan., the second of the series was held, when a very interesting time was spent listening to the reading of various highly interesting, and for the most part instructive extracts, by both ladies and gentlemen, and a paper by T. Holder, on "Hypocracy," and one by J. Lawson, quite elaborately written, on "Reading." He, of course, did not let the opportunity pass unimproved of giving novel reading a good overhauling. The third came off on Monday night last. Some excellent readings were given, and after them a speech or two, one of which, by Mr Holder, was replete with good sense, and was well delivered, being heartily responded to by the audience during its delivery, thus showing the great pleasure with which it was received. Mr W. Rowton very efficiently filled the chair, and at the close made some very seasonable remarks. A resolution was passed to hold the meetings once a week hereafter, instead of once in two weeks as heretofore. Next Monday night, 27th inst., instrumental and vocal music will be introduced into the programme. A full house is expected. These readings are placing the Sabbath School in a good position financially, the proceeds of them being devoted to the procuring of books, papers, tracts, &c. Would it not be well for other neighborhoods, villages, &c., to adopt the same plan to furnish their Sunday Schools with literature.

MUSICAL.—The Tandy Brothers and other amateurs of the city assist in a concert in Odessa early next month. Should the above gentlemen be sustained in the programme, we have no apprehensions of other than a happy result.

KINGSTON MARKETS.—A fair attendance, liberal supplies of provender, and moderate prices are the feature which have characterised the markets of the past week. In none of the departments has there been any speciality to note. The quotations of last week are nominally unchanged. The wood and hay markets were not so large as anticipations pointed at.

Dominion of Canada.

Alderman E. B. Charlton, was elected Mayor of Hamilton on Monday. He was Mayor once before in this city in 1867.

Messrs Shand, Mason & Co. are bringing out three fire engins different sizes, and intend having a series of competitive trials throughout Canada.

The Grit members of the Sarnia Town Council being in a minority, left the meeting on Monday with the Mayor at their head to prevent their opponents having a quorum to elect the committees. The Mayor, who was allowed to go in by acclamation, is denounced for such partizanship.

The Rev. Geo. W. C. Grout, Carleton Place, was presented, on the 4th inst., by the members of the St. James' congregation, with a very handsome sleigh and robes. Messrs Kelley and Empey made the presentation.

We regret to learn that the Hon. John Young is confined to his bed from a severe cold, which he caught last week during his attendance on the meetings of the Dominion Board of Trade. Mr Patterson, the Secretary of the Board, is also, we regret to learn, confined to his bed from injuries received in the railway accident on his return home. We hope both gentlemen will soon be restored to perfect health.—Herald.

The Ottawa Citizen states that the Pacific Railway contract has been signed, sealed and delieved, and the company are already making preliminary arrangements for the commencement of the work.

It is reported that Mr Archibald is about to follow the example set him by Sir George E. Cartier and Sir Alex. Galt, and ask permission to decline the C.M.G. No reason is assigned for this step.

We understand that Alfred Patrick, Esq., Clerk Assistant of the House of Commons, has been appointed Clerk of the House, in the place of the late William Burns, Lindsay, Esq., who so long filled the office with credit to himself, and satisfaction to the members of the House. Mr Patrick's promotion will be generally regarded as being well deserved. He has been a long time in the service of Parliament, and has enjoyed that degree of confidence, which faithful attention to duty seldom fails to inspire.—Ottawa Times.

The Globe's Quebec telegram, 17th inst., says heavy actions for damages have been brought against the Grand Trunk Railway Company by the relatives of the late William Petry, merchant, who was killed recently by a train while passing an unguarded crossing at Hadlow. The carter who drove him, and who miraculously escaped with some slight personal injuries and the loss of his horse and sleigh, has also brought a suit against the company.

A SERIES OF DISTRESSING EVENTS.—Mr McKenzie, in the employ of the G.T.R., at Point Edward, has had of late his share of this world's afflictions. A few years ago he lost a son, occasioned by a railroad accident. A few days ago another son, whilst coupling cars at Ailsa Craig, had his wrist badly jammed. At first the physicians, at that urgent request of the father, faithfully endeavored to save the hand, but all efforts, however, proved futile. Mortification made its appearance, and instead of one, two amputations had to be performed. The youth, now lying at Mr John McNaughton's, is in a most critical state. Last Friday the mother of the young man got on a freight train which was being made up at the Point. Her intention was to bring down some necessities to her son at Ailsa Craig. Whilst standing on the platform of the car she received a sudden shock, and the old lady was thrown beneath the wheels which passed over her, cutting off both her legs and one arm. After lying for a short time she died. When the husband, who was at Ailsa Craig attending his boy, received the sad news he completely broke down; his lamentations were fairly heartrending, and the stoutest heart on the platform could not restrain the tear of sympathy. Owing to the low state of the son the physicians deem it advisable to keep him in ignorance of the dreadful calamity, and the youth still imagines his fond mother is alive and well.—London Advertiser.

The Irish Church, it is said, about to lose one of its foremost advocates—the Dean of Cashel. The Bishop of Peterborough, who formerly was Dean of Cork, has, in token of his old friendship for Dr. Macdonnell, offered him one of the most valuable livings in his diocese, and it is believed that the Dean will accept the presentation.

A public grammar school is about to be established at Lurgan County Armagh, in accordance with the requirements of a will made by a local merchant named Watts, who died twenty years ago, leaving a sum of money, the interest of which (now amounting to £4,000) was to be applied for the above object.

A handsome young gentleman walked into the express office the other day and wished to express a package of letters to a lady to whom he desired to return them. "What are they worth?" asked the clerk, who in making out his account begged to know what was the risk. The young man hesitated a moment, then clearing his throat from a certain huskiness, replied: "Well, I can't tell exactly, but a few weeks ago I thought they were worth about four hundred thousand dollars."

One of the saddest instances of woman's faithlessness with which we have ever met was that of the wife of a man in Syracuse. It seems that the couple had arranged that for six months the husband was to get up and make the kitchen fire, and that the wife was to perform the task for the succeeding six months. The man's half-year expired on the 2nd, and on the morning of the 3rd she was suddenly died. He is nearly broken-hearted over his affliction. He says if he could only have foreseen this bereavement he would have shuffled her out of bed at daylight every morning since May.

The religious taking of the Catholic Weekly narrates the fact that "the noble young lady, Marie Pia Mastai Ferretti, niece of His Holiness the Pope, recently took the veil in Rome, with the following millinery: The gentle sister wore a plain white muslin dress and natural flowers as her bridal costume, and only select and exceedingly limited company assisted at the most interesting prise de voile." Did Cardinal Cullen, asks the Independent, say that the scene at the Vatican, when the Pope delivered his late allocution, was worthy of a London tavern? To know that an orthodox company of cardinals, bishops, priests and faithful laymen resolved themselves for a while into a howling and hurrahing mob, is sad enough, but to have Cardinal Cullen say so is positively dreadful.

THE CHRONICLE AND NEWS of the present week contains the very latest news by telegraph from all parts of the World up to the hour of publication. Funeral of Napoleon III.; Anecdotes of the late Emperor; Robbery at Richmond, P.Q.; Confession of Lydia Sherman, the Modern Borgia; Legislature of Ontario; Frontenac Agricultural Association; Electoral Division Society; City Council—Election of Mayor; St. Paul's Church Bazaar; London, New York, and Montreal Markets; Political, Literary, Artistic, Religious, Police and Sporting Intelligence, Obituary Notices, Financial and Commercial Intelligence, and accounts of all the important and interesting local and district events of the week. The CHRONICLE, can be procured at the office, done up in a wrapper, every Thursday. Price 5 cents.
