Swenbock has computed that 100 single webs of a full grown spider do not equal the diameter of the hair of the beard; and when the young spiders begin to spin, 400 of them are not equal to one of a full growth; consequently 40,000 of a young spider's threads are about the size of a single hair of a man's beard.

It is said that smoky chimneys may be cured by using a fine wire gauze from 30 to 40 threads to the inch as a screen placed before the grate, or in the stove. With a downward current the smoke will be prevented from passing back through the meshes of the gauze, while the pro ward draught will not be interfered with.

It is well known that a large amount of the rum sold as rum, arrack, &c., are made by the addition of certain essential oils, and other ingredients, to deodorized whiskey, or di alcohol. If, however, concentrated sul acid be added to a small quantity of the oil and allowed to stand until the mixture has cooled, all the aroma will be found to have disappeared from the fabricated article, to be decomposed by the acid or driven off by the heat of combination, while in the genuine oil the original flavour still remains palpable.

Grain Markets.—A considerable quantity of barley has been sold here during the past week. A report on Friday that prices were tending downwards brought a rush, and many had to be refused $1 in silver were forced to ac a lower figure. The farmers generally seem anxious to dispose of their barley at present prices, and are doing so as fast as they can get it threshed. Barley is now selling at from 90 to $1, rye 75 cts; wheat $1.35; Peas 75 to 78; oats 45 to 50 cts.—Standard.

The Fair at Napanee.—The fair on Tuesday last, as we anticipated, largely attended. There was a larger number of cattle sold than at any previous fair held in this town for some years. The prices obtained were very remunerative to the seller. Fat cattle brought from $100 to $125 per yoke, and cows from $18 to $25 per head. A considerable quantity of grain was sold, $1 per bushel being paid for barley. Although there was the usual amount of drinking on the occasion, the constables had little difficulty in preserving order until evening, when a row was started in that delectable place, the "hotel de mort." On public days of this kind there is as much "forty rod" dealt out there is at the licensed establishment in the town, and the people complain that nearly all the rows originate there. The establishment should long ago have been treated as were the barracks.—Stan-

HOW WOODEN PAPER IS MADE.

The Lee (Mass.) Gleaner thus describes the process of making paper pulp from poplar wood, at Curtisville, in that town: "The pulp is made directly from second growth poplar wood, which is gathered in large quantities from the forests in that vicinity. It is first sawed into blocks about ten inches in length, the bark shaved off, the blocks halved, all knots cut out, and the wood is then thrown into a vat of clear water to soak. The machine used to reduce the wood to pulp is a common grindstone, erected at a high point in the room, and the blocks are placed in four or five boxes, one in each, and pressed crosswise upon the surface of the stone, water running constantly upon it. This powdered wood, as it mingles with the water in its downward course, passes several screens, which separates all slivers, grit, and refuse matter from the material, which is finally deposited in a vat upon the floor, from which the water drains off. The material is then put into cloths, and placed under a screw press to remove the water. The flat cakes (resembling a cheese curd, which dairy women 'run up' and press without a hoop) are then packed in barrels and sent to market. Loads of the material are daily brought to the mills to be mixed (twenty five or thirty per cent) with rags in making printing paper. The entire process is very simple, no chemicals or bleaches are used, and wood may be carried into the mill and shipped the same day as a beautiful white pulp.

Toothache, according to the London Lancet can be cured by the following preparation of carbolic acid. To one drachm of collodium add two drachms of Calvert's carbolic acid. A gelatinous mass is precipitated, a small portion of which, inserted in the cavity of an aching tooth, invariably gives immediate relief.

Colonel Gowan, the American gentleman who raised the Russian vessels sunk in the harbour of Sebastopol, is about to be intrusted with the work of searching Vigo Bay for the Spanish galleons, loaded with ingots, which were sunk by the Dutch and English fleet about the year 1702.

Some forty Norwegian and Swedish families of immigrants have gone into Compton county, under the auspices of Mr Pope, M.P., with a view to the settlement of the lands in Ditton and neighbourhood.

The trial of Madame Rachel commenced at the old Bailey on the 20th ult. Shortly after ten o'clock the defendant was placed at the bar. She was described in the calendar as Sarah Rachel Leverson, and was stated to be 43 years of age.

A contest is going on in Louisville, Kentucky between a physician named McKinley and the Superior of the Ursuline Academy in New Albany, Indiana, for the possession of a girl, fifteen years of age. The Doctor alleges that the child is his daughter; the Superior of the Academy that she is not. What gives point to the controversy is the fact that the girl is admitted to be heiress to a fortune of a million of dollars.

An apparatus for rescuing persons from drowning is described as a "long, tough ash pole, with hooks of galvanized iron that can be inserted in the mouth, nose, or eyes." Who wouldn't be rescued?

A surgical journal speaks of a man who lived five years with a ball in his head. A waggish friend of ours says he has known ladies to live twice as long with nothing but balls in their heads.

Syracuse has just opened a new skating rink, which cost, with the land, $32,500. It is to be used as a public hall during the summer months, and has been constructed with a view to acoustic properties. It can seat 5,000 persons.

Louis Chevalier de la Durantaye, a veteran of 1812, was buried at Quebec on Friday last. The deceased was a Sergeant in the celebrated "Voltigeurs," at that time under the command of Col. DeSalaberry. His remains were followed to their last resting place by four of his old comrades. At the time of his death, the old soldier had attained the ripe age of 78.

The lower gates of lock No. 20 of the Erie Canal, eight miles east of Albany, gave way on Sunday night while the lock was full of water and a canal boat with 100 tons of freight belonging to the Western Transportation Co. was being locked through.

An anecdote is told of a German student in theology, who, after waiting an unconscionable time for admission, appeared before the examiner, "bearded like a pard." The learned examiner fell back, astonished, exclaiming, "A student in theology with a beard!" "A beard!" cried the student, with an air of equal astonishment, and putting his hand up to his face,—"bless me, why it must have grown while I have been waiting in the ante-room."

A tie maliciously fastened across the railway track about four miles west of Freeport, Ill., one night lately resulted in a serious accident. An eastward bound freight train, loaded with grain and stock, was thrown from the track. The engineer, John Wood, was so badly injured that he died on Tuesday. The fireman had his arm broken in several places, and nine cars were completely wrecked, killing a great many hogs and scattering grain in abundance. No clue to the perpetrator of the outrage has been discovered.

Considerable offence has been given to the people of the Lower Provinces by the publication of the "table of precedence" by the Ottawa Government. The preference shown on this list to the dignitaries of the Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches, and the setting up of these clergymen over all others by the omission of any mention of Dissenting Ministers, are now another cause of discontent added to the already long list compiled by the people of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The Inflexible, a paper so infamous that at last no printer in Paris would publish it, took refuge in Brussels, and continued to libel M. Henri Rochefort and M. Albert Wolff. The latter gentleman brought an action against the paper in the Belgian capital, and the court gave him 10,000 francs damages. M. Albert Wolff now asserts in the Figaro that the printer, when condemned, said he did not care, as the amount would be paid by the French Minister of the Interior. In the eleventh number of La Lanterne M. Rochefort declares that the writers in the Inflexible belong to the police, and wrote to order. Very few copies of the twelfth number of La Lanterne, printed in Brussels, have reached Paris, and these are anxiously sought by the police, even in private houses.

A return presented to the Parliament in 1866 shows that the average cost of a county seat in England is £2,041, and of a borough seat £950. This is inclusive of uncontested returns, and exclusive of all irregular—we do not mean illicit—expenses. Counting these as an addition of 50 per cent in the counties and 100 per cent in the boroughs, the fine levied on a successful candidate ranges from £2,000 to £3,000, in addition to annual subscriptions, which are as obligatory as the expenses. In other words, as Parliaments last about four years—a moderately successful professional man must sacrifice one year's income in every three for the privilege of representing his countrymen in Parliament, and then we complain that the duty is too exclusively monopolised by the rich. If we do not alter this, we deserve a Cæsar, who would at least respect efficiency as much as cash. —London Spectator.

Mother—"Now, George, you must divide the cake honourably with brother Charles."

George—"What is 'honourably,' mother?"

Mother—"It means that you must give him the largest piece."

George—"I would rather that Charles be 'honourable.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors looking into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.

I ADMIRE EVERYTHING

THAT DESERVES ADMIRATION,

AND I really admire those HAMS that have arrived to-day. I will venture to say that a better lot of Sugar-cured Hams were never before offered in this city.

N.B.—I could only secure 52 of them. Send in your orders early, they won't last long.
