VOLUME XVII. KINGSTON, (CANADA). WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 23, 1868. NUMBER 297.

GREAT EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTH AMERICA

The terrible earthquake which has just devastated Southern Peru, and a large part of the State of Ecuador must be classed among the most terrible convulsions of the kind ever on record, and the destruction of life and property attending it is not exceeded by that of any similar calamity on the American continent—at least since the period of the discovery of America—with the exception of the ruin which was wrought in February, 1797, when the whole country between Santa Fe and Panama was covered by an earthquake, and 40,000 people perished in an instant. Of modern earthquakes, at present one is surpassed in its destructive effects by only two besides that just mentioned—the earthquake of Lisbon, in 1755, when 60,000 persons are believed to have perished in the space of six minutes—and that of Calabria, at the end of the last century, when 40,000 were destroyed. The earthquake in the kingdom of Quito, in 1857, was attended with the loss, it is estimated, of fully 20,000 lives. In the number of towns which have ceased to exist, both in Peru and Ecuador, we are reminded of the earthquake in the island of Java, in 1772, when villages, with all their inhabitants, were ingulfed in one common ruin; and the startling fact that in Ecuador, where the town of Ibarcha stood previous to the earthquake, there is now a lake, brings to recollection the destruction by an earthquake in the city of Port Royal, Jamaica, which instantaneously sunk, with the greater part of the buildings, beneath the waves.

Earthquakes of tremendous violence, working such destruction, have been of frequent occurrence in South and Central America. In October, 1746, Lima and Callao were demolished by it, and 18,000 persons buried in the ruins; in 1755, the city of Quito was destroyed; in 1773, Guatemala with 9,000 of its inhabitants was swallowed up; in February, 1797, the terrible earthquake above alluded to; in March, 1812, the city of Carraccas, the capital of Venezuela, was reduced, with all its splendid churches, to a heap of ruins, beneath which 12,000 of the inhabitants were crushed to death; on the 2nd April, 1831, Valparaiso was overthrown by a violent shaking and more than 400 houses destroyed; in April, 1834, St Salvador was destroyed; in June, 1838, the Valley of Mexico was convulsed, and property to the value of several millions of dollars destroyed; in March, 1859, Quito in Equador suffered terribly, about 50 persons having been killed, and an immense amount of property destroyed; in March, 1861, the greater part of the city of Mendoza, in the Argentine Republic, was overthrown, and many lives lost, and in December, 1862, 150 towns and 14 churches were destroyed in Venezuela. Towards the end of last year several severe shocks were experienced in Central America, but they were unattended with any great or a serious character.

The West Indies have also from time to time suffered terribly from these awful visitations. Who was the earthquake in Jamaica, in 1862, which destroyed Port Royal; that at Martinique in January, 1839, by which nearly 700 persons were killed, nearly half the capital of the island destroyed, and the whole island damaged; that of May, 1842, at Cape Haytien, in Hayti, which destroyed nearly two-thirds of the town with from 4,000 to 5,000 of its inhabitants; that of Guadaloupe in February, 1843, resulting in the entire destruction of Point-a-Pitre; and a few beside several inferior ones, that with which the island of St. Thomas and other parts of the West Indies were visited in October of last year, causing the loss of property at several millions of dollars. The St. Thomas catastrophe was followed, in the early part of this year, by an earthquake in the Sandwich Islands, the details of which, given at the time by the News, are still fresh in the recollection of our readers.

Earthquakes are not peculiar to any particular portion of the earth. In Asia, they have been frequent and terribly destructive, especially in Japan. In Africa many have occurred, Algeria being the only country on that continent that has not been several times visited by them. They have been felt in France, England, Germany, Holland, and Hungary, and in the southern portion of Europe, they have been both numerous and terribly destructive. Their frequency and violence in such countries as Italy, Sicily, and Greece, are attributed to volcanic action in those parts; and, indeed, "observers of seismic phenomena have noticed that every eruption, in whatever part of the world observed, and whether from a volcanic vent on land or beneath the ocean, is accompanied by earthquake shocks of greater or less violence and duration; while on the other hand those observing earthquakes speak of them as accompanied by volcanic eruptions, and of them often being stopped by the opening of volcanic vents." From the facts above given, it will be seen that the American continent, except in the northern latitudes, is quite as subject to earthquakes of a severe kind as the regions of Northern Asia. In this country, the only earthquake of severity of which we have any record is that which took place at New Madrid, below St. Louis, on the Mississippi, in 1811. The phenomena attending it were of a very remarkable character. Over an extent of country 300 miles long, from the mouth of the Ohio to that of the St. Francis, the ground rose and sunk in undulations, and lakes were formed and suddenly drained, the surface burst open in fissures from which mud and water were thrown up to the tops of the trees, and the quaking of the ground continued for several successive days.

The shock felt on the occasion of this last visitation in South America, it will be seen by a glance at the map, was an extensive one; but not near so extensive as that affected by the great Lisbon earthquake, in which instance the shock was felt on the one side as far as the shores of Finland, and on the other side beyond the St. Lawrence in Canada, and felt in some of the West India islands within a space of no less than 7,500,000 square miles. An earthquake in Chili in 1835 was felt in places between the island of Chiloe, 40 degrees south latitude, and Coplapo, 27 degrees latitude, consequently over 13 degrees of latitude, and extended from the island of Juan Fernandez to the town of Mendoza on the east side of the Andes, over 10 degrees of longitude. It is estimated that 12 or 13 earthquakes, more or less destructive of life and property, occur every year, and that as many as 50,000 of the human race have perished from these awful visitations.

The King of Greece has chosen for his heir the name of Constantinos, which, no doubt, in compliment to his father, the Grand Duke Constantine Nicolaievitch, but partly, also, because the Prince has a chance of becoming one of the aspirants to the throne of Constantinople.

Karanowich, the father of the four assassins of Prince Michael, being expelled from the communes of Servia, went into Hungary. In this last named country twenty-four families offered him shelter, and in some place he was unable to procure food, although willing to pay for it. Now, finding himself an object of horror to every one in this country and in Hungary, he has received passports for Roumania.

ADDRESS TO THE NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED, whose sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable. If you are suffering, or have suffered from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky, or ropy, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick scum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling upon this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver-complaint?

Now, reader, self abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business-men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly-cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the great Diuretic, and is a certain cure for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Organic Weakness, Female Complaints, General Debility, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing.

If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or Insanity may ensue. Our flesh and blood are supported from these sources, and the health and happiness, and that of Posterity, depends upon prompt use of a reliable remedy.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu, established upward of 18 years, prepared by H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist, 494, New York, and 104, South 10th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Price—$1,25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6 50, delivered to any address. Sold by all Druggists everywhere.

None are genuine unless done up in steel-engraved wrapper, with fac simile of my Chemical Warehouse, and signed
