London, Nov 19—The Times this morning states that 170 members of the new House of Commons have been chosen so far, and that the Liberal majority is 118.

London, Nov. 19.—The right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli made a speech today to his constituents Aylesbury. After returning his acknowledgements for their unanimity in returning him to the House of Commons, he proceeded to review and justify the action of the Conservative party on the Reform question. He then defended the Government from a charge of extravagance. The expenditure was very large; the Government could not be conducted cheaply; but he maintained that the financial management had been in every sense economical. He advocated the extension of education, and favoured the creation of a department of Public Instruction with a Cabinet Minister at its head, but insisted that neither a compulsory educational system nor the imposition of a new tax for educational purposes were in accordance with the opinion of the country. He then contrasted the foreign policy of the preceding with that of the present Ministry. The relations which now existed with foreign powers were those of confidence and sympathy, and all the disagreements with the United States have now been removed. He concluded with a discussion of the Irish question. The resolutions for the disestablishment of the Irish Church, introduced by the leader of the Opposition, could not mitigate the evils of Fenianism. The troubles of Ireland were greatly exaggerated. Ireland had really progressed, within the last 20 years, more than England. Disestablishment was dangerous to the rights of property. It would only serve to increase the discontent of the Irish people; while at the same time it would be sure to sever the connection between the State and religious principle.

Mr Reverdy Johnson the American Minister has accepted an invitation to dine with the London Working-men's Society on the 28th inst.

Naples, Nov. 19.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius is increasing in viloence and grandeur.

Madrid, Nov. 20.—It is rumoured that General Prim is communicating with the Prince of the Asturids, with the intention of making the Prince King of Spain and himself Regent.

London, Nov. 19, 10 p.m.—According to returns to this hour 437 members of the House of Commons have been elected, of whom 287 are Liberals and 150 Conservatives. Edward Horsman, Liberal, is returned for Stroud: John Francis Maguire, Liberal, for Cork city: William Monsell, Liberal, for Limerick county: Sir Stafford Henry Northcote, present Secretary of State for India, Conservative, for North Devonshire: and John A. Blake, Liberal, for Waterford city. The city of Limerick returns her former members, George Gavin, Francis W. Russell, both Liberals. John Innis, Conservative, has carried Athlone, which was represented by a Liberal in the last Parliament.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Herald's Havana special says: From revolutionary sources we learn that Col. Cespedes is acting as Provisional President in the absence of Col. Ascilore. A movement is in progress, having for its object the holding of a National Convention of Union men, to meet in Washington city December 9th, then and there to consider what legislative or other action is needed to protect the lives, liberty, and property of loyal citizens in the late rebel States.

A singular case of restoring conscience money has occurred in New York. A conductor on a horse railroad gave up his position two or three years ago and went to Ireland. On Thursday last a Catholic priest, who recently arrived, called on the President of the road, and handed him a $28 draft, drawn to the order of the company, which he stated he was directed by the late conductor to hand over to the officers of that company, with the statement that he had retained that much from the fares collected.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.—This institution has commenced its winter campaign with, it is said, marked success. Already three meetings have been held. The first was held on the 24th September, in Red Lion-square, Holborn, when 89 attended, and 16 were rescued; the second on the 15th of October, in Philpot-street, Commercial-road, when 65 were present, and 10 rescued; and the third on the 29th of October, at Knightsbridge, when 65 attended, and 9 were rescued. In addition to this four cases have been placed in homes, from the weekly meetings held by ladies, three from other means used, making 45 in all in three months. During this month it is intended to hold meetings at Westminster and the Edgware-road. After eight years' labour the committee have had abundant evidence of good effected: many girls who were formerly in a sad condition, pursuing their sinful course in the streets, are now restored, filling respectable positions in society.—London paper.

The Court of Rome was in the habit of presenting Queen Isabella, in return for the costly presents of jewels and money she was continually sending to the Holy Pontiff, the skeletons of saints taken out of the Roman catacombs. The Spanish Railway warehouse master has announced the detention of a box directed to the Queen, and containing the relics of St. Fortuna, a saint whose skeleton has been venerated for ages past at Tortosa, where it still remains. The Nuncio gets out of the dilemma in this way—whenever his Holiness wishes to present the body of a saint to any ancient Roman Catholic who has rendered important services to the Holy See, a body is taken out of the catacombs and the name of the saint on whose day it was extracted is given it, and there is as much probability of there being many saints of the same name as there are of people that are not saints. When things are settled down there will be no difficulty in allowing the clergy to take the new-comer, with proper processional respect, to some proper ecclesiastical deposit.

Ex-Queen Isabella was expected in Paris yesterday. She has taken two houses, communicating with each other in the Champs Elysees. They are finely situated, and have the advantage of being near the handsome residence built by her mother Maria Christina, three or four houses only intervening. They have not, however, been occupied for a long time, and are in want of repair. Furniture to the amount of 400,000f. (£16,000) has been ordered, but the Queen will not instal herself in her new residence before the middle of December. She will in the meantime take up her residence in the Pavilion Rohan, Rue de Rivoli, opposite the Palace of the Tuileries; not far from the site of the old Hotel de Nantes, now long pulled down.—Paris letter.

One of the most remarkable relics of Jacobin London is in course of demolition. This is the chapel in Duke street, Westminster, a quaint part of the large mansion which was built on that side of the Park for Judge Jeffreys. This chapel was originally the great hall of the house to which it is attached. Here the Judge often transacted business when out of Term. James the Second, by way of showing, as is seems, his affection for Lord Jeffreys, permitted him to build a flight of steps leading to the lower level of the Park. Part of this house, near Storey's Gate, was formerly the Admiralty Office. The hall was adapted as a chapel, with daily service, exactly a hundred years ago, with Dr. Pettingale, the antiquary, as incumbent. Prior lived in the house facing King street, in Duke sreet; in the same street lived Stillingfleet, Hutton the archbishop, and Arnold the composer.
