BY TELEGRAPH.

CABLE NEWS.

Athens, Dec. 23.—The Ministry are still engaged in the discussion of the means of defence of the country, but no formal steps have yet been taken in that direction.

London, Dec. 23.—The Morning Telegraph to-day prints a telegram from Berlin, announcing that Prussia has called a conference of the Great Powers of Europe to settle peaceably the questions at issue between Turkey and Greece.

London, Dec. 23.—The report of the proposed conference on the Eastern question is not confirmed. The Vienna Presse, the Government organ, says, semi-officially, that the plan originated with Russia, backed by Prussia, and that the scheme is favored by Austria and Italy. The effort to settle the question without bloodshed will undoubtedly be successful.

Athens, Dec. 22.—The Government has asked of the Chambers a credit of one hundred millions of drachmas. The ports of Volo and Patros are to be fortified.

Madrid, Dec. 23.—The country is entirely quiet, and the Government proposes to make material changes in the colonial monopoly.

Paris, Dec. 23.—Senor Olozaga was to-day officially received by the Emperor as Ambassador from Spain. Carlist disturbances have occurred in Navarre, and four persons have been arrested for participating in them.*

Paris, Dec 23.—The Moniteur of to-day, in a leading editorial, says the active movements of the great powers give the hope of diplomacy, by the exercise of moderation, will allay the Eastern troubles. The Paris newspapers say that Russia supports the proposition of Prussia to invite England, France and Austria to a conference on the Turco-Greek difficulty.

New York, Dec 24.—The Herald's Athens letter says the Greek Government has made a demand on the Chambers for the approval of an extraordinary credit to the amount of one million of drachmas. An extraordinary levy of troops has also been made. The National Guard has been mobilized throughout the country, and the seaport town of Volo and the island of Poros are being strongly fortified.

London, Dec 23.—Messrs. Leo Hadfield, M.P. for Sheffield, and Thomas Bagley, M.P. for Manchester, have presented a memorial to Reverdy Johnson, requesting him to urge the American Government to adopt a system of penny postage between the United States and Great Britain. The memorial is signed by hundreds of members of Parliament. The London Times prints the memorial this morning, and comments favorably thereon. It says if time had allowed, all the members of Parliament would have signed the petition.

The Provincial Correspondenz, semi-official newspaper, says the Great Powers have failed in an effort to dissuade the Sublime Porte from expelling the Greeks from Turkey. The intended expulsion includes those in Servia and Roumania.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The Moniteur has late Paraguayan advices, which say the position of the Emperor is critical, in consequence of the differences with the United States, and that he will probably seek a reconciliation with the American Government. The Moniteur states that Paraguay continues to make energetic resistance to the movements of the allied army.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

London, Dec. 24, p.m.—Consols 92⅞ to 92¾ for money and account; Bonds 74¼; Erie 26¼; Illinois Central 95¼.

Liverpool, Dec. 24, 11 a.m.—Cotton quiet; Uplands 26s 6d; Red wheat 9s 10d to 10s; White 10s 11d; Corn 38s 9d; Barley 5s; Oats 3s; Pork 87s 8d; Lard 67s.

Liverpool, Dec. 24, 1,20 p.m.—Lard 66s 6d.

New York Press Despatches.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—McDevitt, last night beat Goldthwaite in the Billiard match for the Championship of the United States, 17 balls in the game of 1,500

New York, Dec. 24.—The ship Electric, from Hamburg, with 315 emigrants, which put ashore a few days since at Egg Harbor, has been got afloat and her passengers will reach here to-day.

The steamship City of London from Europe has arrived

The Herald's Rio Janeiro correspondence says the Brazilian Ministry had urged measures looking towards peace with Paraguay upon the Emperor, but he refused to acquiesce in them. A financial crisis was considered inevitable if he remained obstinate.

The Herald's Buenos Ayres letter says the American squadron was about to move up the Paraguay River. It was the intention to demand the surrender of Bloss and Masterman. All the Paraguayan prisoners held at Buenos Ayres had been released. General Ogando's revolution in St. Domingo was progressing.

The Tribune's special says it is rumoured that the President will on Christmas Day issue a final proclamation of amnesty to all persons who were in any way engaged in the late slaveholders' rebellion, and who were excluded in the amnesty of the last 4th of July. It will include Jefferson Davis, Breckenridge, Slidell, Mason, and all of a similar skin.

St. Louis, Dec. 23.—An rencontre took place at St. Joseph to-day between Hon. J. S. Early, a prominent lawyer, and Colonel J. Greene, also a lawyer, in which Mr Greene was shot and killed.

COTTON-GROWING ABROAD.

There seems to be no abatement of energy on the part of the government and capitalists of England to extend the area of cotton cultivation in other countries. Wherever, on the face of the globe, cotton can be raised, the English are always ready and willing to furnish capital for the purpose of stimulating its culture. Their object, evidently, is to emancipate themselves from dependence upon American cotton, and to prevent the restoration of the former supremacy of the United States in the production of this great staple. Among the potent means employed in the promotion of this object is the Manchester Cotton Supply Association, which commands the services of English officials, consular agents and private individuals in every part of the world, and is backed by the immense political influence of the government. That these efforts have been attended with a large measure of success during the past few years is undeniable, and the latest information relative to the culture of cotton in other countries besides the United States during the year 1868 are reassuring. A company has been formed in Melbourne for the cultivation of cotton and sugar in the Feejee Islands, the soil and climate of which are said to be favourable for the growth of these products. In the cotton province of San Paulo, Brazil, the products is increased from 7,027 arrobas in 1864–5 to 690,000 arrobas in 1867–8. For the year 1868–9 a yield of no less than 900,000 arrobas is anticipated. The British consular agents in the United States of Columbia report that notwithstanding the admirable capabilities of soil and climate, no cotton is grown in the interior, owing to the indolence of the natives, and also owing to the unsettled political condition of the country. But from the consular district of Magdalena a small supply will be obtained. The cotton tree is indigenous and perennial in this region, and offers almost boundless returns. When the crop is picked, the tree is cut down, and sprouts up again for next season. The tree bears cotton for twenty years. With a settled form of government offering security to labour and capital, it is estimated that immense returns could be procured from this region. From India the exports for 1867–8 show a decrease of 56,000 bales as compared with the season of last year. This falling off is attributed partly to the setting in of the rainy season in the Central Provinces, and partly to large supplies sent to the Northwestern provinces and to Bengal for native consumption. The area cultivated is larger, however, than last year, and it is anticipated that later accounts may show an undiminished supply for exportation later in the season. Lord Mayo, the new Governor-General of India, in response to a committee of the Cotton Association, promised to promote and extend the cultivation of cotton in India, and facilitate its speedy conveyance to Great Britain.

This state of things ought certainly to arouse the jealousy of our people and stimulate competition with those new cotton producing countries. The English are labouring assiduously in this direction, and their efforts promise important results in the future. America has still a deep interest in this staple, and can illy afford to remain indifferent to the advancing strides of other nations. It is not to be expected that in this country, as in England, government will unite with capital in promoting the work, but it can at least so far co-operate with the capitalists as to remove all existing impediments to the culture of cotton in the Southern States. This done, individual enterprise will recover its elasticity and possibly regain for the nation its former cotton ascendancy. Unless the demands of wise statesmanship are acceded to in this matter, our situation cannot be materially changed; and not to advance is to go backward.—Rochester Union.

If you shut a woman up within four walls and make the pleasing of man the only object of her life, she will, of course, says Elizabeth Cady Stanton in the Revolution, become narrow, foolish, and frivolous; to be otherwise she must have all the variety, discipline, and expanse of thought and training that a man has. You can make women wise only by changing the conditions of their lives. Give them something better to do and think about, and they will abandon the Grecian bend and the Italian wriggle; but if you make it the business of their lives to attract men, this can only be done by a succession of new modes and manners. So long as there is a demand for weak-minded women, there will be a plentiful supply. And so long as the mass of men are the unthinking, unreasoning crowd they are to-day, the demand for fools and finery will continue. The present type of woman is formed wholly in the man idea. Sensible women, here and there, all through the generations, have protested against the condition of toy or drudge, and have fought their way, inch by inch, toward social and political equality now soon to be realised.
