The "manly art" of swimming is much neglected by the ladies of the Eastern and Middle States. A grand contest took place in the Harlem River at New York on Saturday morning last, between ten young ladies of that cities, champions in their own neighborhoods, the prize being a silk dress, valued at $100, and the distance a mile. A Miss Cotton proved the winner, and Miss Cotton second, the former reaching the stakes in forty minutes. Miss Denan led for a time, but resigned her chance for the prize to aid in the rescue of a young man who accidentally fallen in the water. The judges resolved to present Miss Denan with a gold watch, as a reward for her pluck.
