MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 7, 1852.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Joseph Henry was put to the bar, charged with the Murder of James McCoy, on the night of the 26th December last. Our readers will remember the circumstances. There were four Counts in the Indictment. He sent a note to the Judge, asking that Counsel might be appointed for him. His Lordship said that in the present state of the law he could not do so, but would ask some of the gentlemen of the bar to act. Mr. O'Reilly said he had been requested to do so. The Jury panel was almost exhausted by the challenges of the prisoner's Counsel.

After the case had been opened by the Crown Counsel, Mr. Richards,

John Burnup was called.—Lives in Fredericksburgh. About three o'clock on the morning of the 27th December last, his wife awoke him and said there was some one in distress; searched the Macadamized road and could see no one; went out the second time, with the same result; could not stop long out for the severe cold. Went out a third time to the Chamberlain road, one-eighth of a mile from the Napanee River; heard a groan, and on looking over into a field found deceased standing in the snow, with his arms around a sapling; his face and clothes covered with blood, his hair standing on end, and head dreadfully swelled. Tried to remove him, but he fell; he then ran to a neighbor to get help; got assistance and took him to McVicar's house; had to drag him, as he was a heavy man, and the snow was deep; he was about 20 feet off the road; did not know him until he muttered his name; saw him on Sunday; he died about ten on Sunday night; his face was dreadfully bruised; saw a place off the track where there had been a severe struggle—it was all marked with drops of blood; it was about thirty yards from where he was found; died at McVicar's.

Cross-examined.—Knew deceased for six years, he was about the size of prisoner; was subject to intemperance, but was not an out-of-the-way drunkard; was always able to keep his feet and knew what he was about.

Dr. Carey.—Was called to deceased at McVicar's; he was quite insensible; examined his person and found a cut across his cheek-bone, which was broken; the eye-bone and nose was also broken; his hands, feet, knees, ears and nose were frozen—the wound on the eye was sufficient to have caused death; the mark was like what might be made by the heel of a boot—thinks it was the cause of death, although it might have been accelerated by freezing; the face was much swollen; the eye-bone was broken in and would cause a pressure upon the brain.

Cross-examined.—Is a surgeon, and has a diploma from Glasgow; never heard that cold applications to frozen parts are sometimes injurious if only moderate friction is used; rubbed the wound on the head himself, while others attended the limbs; used the cold applications at intervals for three or four hours; deceased had been in the house about four hours before he (Dr. C.) arrived; the temperature of the room was about 75 degrees when he entered, and had it lowered; heat is improper in such cases.

Direct resumed.—A portion of the outer eye-bone was forced into the wound.

David Baggs.—Was hostler at Carnell's at Napanee, last December; saw James McCoy on the Friday evening after Christmas; prisoner was with him—it was about eight o'clock; saw them in the Bar, and saw McCoy have money; saw them drink twice; prisoner and McCoy went out; he got McCoy's horse and cutter and came into the house; prisoner was going towards the cutter; McCoy had charge of it; heard him ask McCoy to let him ride, and he said yes; had an over-coat on; prisoner was not drunk—McCoy was a little.

Cross-examined.—Had known McCoy between six and seven years; had signs of Liquor; staid about an hour and a half; was not drinking much; was in the kitchen part of the time, and also in the yard about five minutes; might have drank then without him seeing it.

Michael Sherey, Jr.—Knew McCoy; saw him with prisoner in his tavern at Napanee the Friday after Christmas—they left about 9 o'clock, P. M.; McCoy showed a pocket-book—saw money in it—saw a ten dollar bill, and thinks a four dollar bill; thinks there was between four and five pounds; McCoy paid two dollars that he had borrowed—McCoy had a grey horse and cutter; went east when they started on the Kingston road. McCoy had on a grey over-coat of fulled cloth or satinet, (coat produced,) is not positive as to the coat, but was of same color.

Cross-examined.—(The pocket-book was produced.) Thinks that is the one McCoy had; he gave it to him himself; had two or three of the same kind, (produced one); did not see any one treat him; recollects refusing to give him more liquor; thinks there was £4 or £5 in the pocket-book; it was lying open on the counter—laid the bills on the counter; McCoy and prisoner had an altercation in the yard—were talking loud, but does not know what it was about; told the hostler to get them the horse.

Direct resumed.—Thinks they were quite sensible; prisoner was to go home with McCoy and stay till Monday, and then they were to go to a shanty.

John Files.—Keeps the first Toll Gate on the Kingston side of Napanee; between two and half-past two on the morning of the Saturday after Christmas, prisoner came through the gate; stayed half an hour; had a pocket-book such as the one produced; examined the contents at prisoner's request—took it out and found a ten dollar bill—changed it for him; gave him silver and bills; the pocket-book had more silver in it; wanted the prisoner to give him the small change; but he insisted on getting it changed; said his name was Peter Henry. Read a receipt from Donald McPherson to James McCoy for rye; the prisoner said he was a neighbor who had taken the rye, and had got a receipt in his own name. The Toll Gate is about a mile from the place where the murder was committed; had an overcoat and under coat; took the horse and cutter with him.

Matthew McCoy.—Keeps the second Toll Gate on the Kingston road; prisoner came through the gate with a horse and cutter about 4 o'clock, and stayed about three quarters of an hour; knew the horse and cutter; it was Anderson's cutter and McCoy's horse; came on towards Kingston.

By the Court.—Knew the cutter; it was Joshua Anderson's; staid about three quarters of an hour; went away between four and five on the morning of Friday, 27th; came and went alone.

Joshua Anderson.—Knew deceased; lent him a cutter on Friday 27th December. Heard of the murder on Saturday.

John McCoy.—Is a brother of deceased; he left home on Friday—did not hear of him till Saturday, heard of prisoner; traced him to Kingston; went to the Police, and Constable Byrnes went with him to the French Village where they found him on Saturday evening; had a horse cutter and buffalo; was in the sleigh alone as if preparing for a start; knew the cutter when he saw it to be Anderson's, the horse and harness belonged to the deceased; found a coat on him; knew it at the Station House; it was his father's coat, but deceased borrowed it when he went out. Mr. Byrnes searched the prisoner and found the pocket book; knew it to be his brothers and found the receipt from McPherson in it; tried to hide it between his two pairs of trowsers.

Cross-Examined.—When he came to search for prisoner stopped at all the toll gates and taverns till they came to Waterloo, and heard of him at all the places.

Jonathan Putman.—Went with John Burnup about 4 o'clock on the morning of the 27th Dec., and found deceased on his knees; he could not move; assisted in taking him to McVicars and attended him till he died about a quarter past 10 P. M., on 28th, about four on Saturday afternoon he began to recover his senses; he was quite sensible; said he would never get over it; said it was the man who left the village with him; said they had a few words at the village, said that on the road, he tried to take his money from him; that he took hold of him by the throat and threw him out of the sleigh, and jumped on him, and kicked him in the face with the heel of his boot and demanded his money, the place was very much trampled down, like as if there had been a great struggle, the deceased was perfectly insensible when found; it was a very severe night.

John Chamberlain.—Is a Magistrate of Napanee, heard of the murder on Saturday evening,—went to see him about nine o'clock on Sunday morning; deceased was sensible and knew him, appeared to know that he was dying, and made the declaration shewn, to the effect that prisoner was the person who had injured and robbed him, this closed the prosecution.

Mr. O'Reilly for the defence that it had not been proved that the crime had been committed with malice aforethought which was necessary to constitute the crime of murder, on the contrary as they had been quarrelling before leaving the Village, the probability was that it was in the sudden ebullition of passion that the injuries had been inflicted; he would not attempt to deny that they had been caused by the prisoner, neither that the prisoner had committed a desperate robbery, but if the Jury had a doubt to the premediation, they ought to acquit the prisoner of the greater crime, when the Crown Officer could proceed against him for the robbery which would probably immure him for life in the Penitentiary.

His Lordship in charging the Jurors briefly explained the difference between murder and manslaughter, and after recapitulating the evidence and informing the Jury that they could if they saw fit bring in a verdict of Manslaughter, left the case in their hands. The Jury after a brief absence from Court returned with a verdict of GUILTY!

His Lordship immediately proceeded to pronounce sentence of death in the usual form, to be to execution on Monday the 28th instant.

The prisoner who is a hardened looking villain who has already served two terms in the Provincial Penitentiary, left the dock apparently quite unmoved.

WONDERFUL ADVICES FROM THE AUSTRALIA GOLD MINES—THE DUST SHIPPED BY THE TON.

The following is an extract from a letter dated Melbourne, Jan. 17.

Long ere this you will have learnt the opening of the Victoria mines of Bathurst and Mount Alexander. To these must now be added apparently inexhaustible regions all around the mount. In point of fact, the yield is actually incredible, and daily increasing. The pursuit of gold digging absorbs all other vocations; nothing is thought of spoken of, or written about, except gold. Business contracts of all kinds—the social compact, domestic content, the relation of master and servant, and all other ties, either civil or religious—are in a state of disruption beyond the power of language to describe. Six weeks, a month, a fortnight—nay, even a week's labor, produces occasionally prodigious sums. I saw four men lifting a seaman's chest into a dray half an hour ago, almost too heavy for their united strength. This chest contained the product of six weeks' labor, and contained at least 200 lbs of gold. The banks and the post office are working double hours; all other public departments are crippled for want of hands; male servants are not to be had, even at extravagant rates; women are not much better. Marriages are now in high favor; almost all the single men arrive from the mines with gold enough to maintain a wife. So far the abstraction of young women from service is desirable, be the inconvenience what it may; but there are other channels for expenditure where profligacy and licentiousness are exhibited on a fearful scale, amid the riot of waste and reckless prodigality. Enormous sums are squandered by the diggers and their families. Every Jack has his Gill, and Jack has more money besides, than his master of the proceeding month.

I asked the waiter, and then the chambermaid of the inn where I stop, to send me out a small bundle of linen to the laundress; they, however, stated that they could not find any person willing to wash. Under these circumstances I went to the haberdasher for a supply. I notice this as an instance of the state of things here, which are fast assuming a Californian character with respect to the rates of high prices, equally for the necessaries and luxuries of life. Do you want a pair of boots, the price is £2 10s, a pair of strong shoes 20s. Then the consumption of bottled beer, champagne, and other wine, spirits and tobacco, as would astonish a new comer. An order came to town yesterday from a publican on the Mount Alexander road, for 1,200 dozens of bottled beer. This man, I am told, actually sold seventy dozen in one day to the coming and going diggers, hundreds of whom call at his house every day.

The total quantity of gold shipped to this date from Victoria, is 162,479 oz. since the 24th ult., and preceeding 117,825 oz. or, in round numbers, 220,300 oz., which, taken at £3 per oz. only, gives £660,900, or fully as much as the Sydney people have shipped since the discovery in May last. The effect of such an immense addition of exportable commodity to the customary transport of wool and tallow has been a most extensive or extended issue of bank notes, far beyond the ordinary regulations of banking principles, for which indeed, their was no help. In fact, the whole circulation of the three banks may be said to be out, in proof of which I obtained with some difficulty £400 on Wednesday last from one of the Anglo banks, and on another occasion I have known a bank in Sydney quite cleared out. All our banks stand so high in the public estimation, that little can be apprehended from their expanded circulation; still large addition to their coin is necessary in the absence of an assay office, making our gold in bars a legal tender under a government stamp, or a branch mint, which would be still better, though I forsee a difficulty in obtaining from the home government a branch mint. An assay office, however, in the hands of government, issuing gold bars of certain fineness and weight, will I think be necessary. Under such an arrangement, our gold would speedily assume a convertable form for remittance to any part of the world.

You will doubtless have noticed the separation of the colonies. One of the first fruits has been the establishment of differential duties. In some cases almost prohibitory, again, each other—a most unnatural project, realizing the fable of "the members warring against the belly." Only conceive the goals and cedar of New South Wales, maize, &c., (only produced there,) being saddled with duty here; and wheat, the product of Victoria or Van Dieman's Land, similarly charged in reciprocation at Sydney! Such is the effect of petty colonial jealousy or rather discord, among those whom, as I presume no one will deny nature and Providence intended us to be one family.

It is wonderful to reflect upon the facts included in the gold discovery, and apparently disclosed in the benevolent intentions of Providence. Had our auriferous wealth been discovered fifteen years ago, when these colonies were one vast prison house and fifteen twentieths of the people were felons or emancipists, what would have been our condition?

I fear South Australia, once the most promising of the Australian group, is on of the eve of great suffering and disaster. The accounts are alarming; land has ceased almost to posses a value.—The people are coming thither in hosands.—Without gold fields she will be lost. Even Sydney begins to feel the emigration of her population for the superior diggings of Victoria. No person can however, tell how long it may be before the tables turn. The free population of Van Dieman's Land are fast coming over to Melbourne. All the Sydney people are returning from California and the polynesian group of islands; but I trust we may not be favored with any of the Yankee race, or at least of that portion rejoicing in the establishment of vigilance committees, six shooters and bowie knives.

It will be the ruin of Adelaide. Twelve thousand people arrived here on Saturday and Sunday from that place; eight ship loads were on their way, and twelve more loading at the port. Sydney people are coming in shoals, and I suppose Americans will be sending Yankees, revolvers, bowieknives, and Lynch law. However I do not bear that these latter gentlemen will meet with much sympathy here, for I believe, upon the whole the diggers are well conducted.

☞ COTTON MANUFACTORIES.—It has long been a settled fact that the Americans can and do supply Canada with a better and cheaper article of Domestic Cottons, than the Manchester Men. More coarse Cottons are now imported from the New England States into this Province than from home. This being the case, what reason exists that the immense Water Power of Upper Canada, now running to waste, should not be profitably employed in manufacturing these said Domestic Cottons, thereby saving a weighty duty, large commission and heavy freight, instead of importing them? So ask some people and one person in particular. Mr. Andrew Anderson, a Cotton Manufacturer of Watertown, N. Y. well known to the Trade in this Province, has seriously entertained the intention of removing his Machinery to Kingston, or its vicinity, and erecting a Cotton Mill at once. He only needs the cordial co-operation of the leading men of this City, and the thing will be done and ended, sooner than we could write about it. Mr. Anderson's Cotton Mill may be the first in Upper Canada; but most assuredly it will not be the last.

THE ASSIZES.

The Assizes closed on Saturday at 2 o'clock, P. M. The following is a list of the sentences:—

Ann Harrison, Larceny, (2nd conviction)	6 years	Penitentiary.
Aaron Martindale, Horse Stealing,	3 years	do.
Henry Clentock, Larceny,	6	months	Gaol.
Emily Claxton,	do.	6	do. do.
Edward Kelly,	do.	3	do. do.
Joshua Rockey,	do.	3	do. do.
Joseph Perry,	do.	3	do. do.

Dr. John Stewart was convicted of a Libel on Kenneth McKenzie, Esq., and fined £25.

At least one third of the cases placed on the Docket remain untried.

MISS CATHERINE HAYES.—The third and last Concert of this Lady and her assistants was given in the St. Lawrence Hall on Friday evening last. The House was well filled, and the whole performance received with the greatest enthusiasm. Several of her songs were followed by a general encore, which was responded to in a cheerful manner. Miss H., assisted by Herr Mengis, sang "God Save the Queen" in excellent style. It is only just to say that Miss Hayes' Concerts in Toronto have given pretty general satisfaction.

We regret to state that on Saturday morning, as Miss Hayes was riding along Church Street, she was thrown from her horse, and brought to the ground; fortunately she was not severely injured. At noon, she took her departure for Montreal by the steamer Passport. When going on board, she was evidently suffering from the effects of the accident referred to. A large number of respectable citizens assembled on the wharf to witness her departure, and they heartily cheered her on leaving.—Patriot.

St. Johns, New Brunswick papers of the 25th May contain accounts of a collision on St. Johns River, between the steamer Anne Augustus and the steam tug Transit. The boiler of the Anne Augustus exploded, scalding ten persons, two of whom, firemen of the boat, have since died, and another is believed to be fatally injured.

DESTRUCTION OF MR. R. STEPHENSON'S YACHT.—We regret to state that Mr. Robert Stephenson's yacht, the Titania, was consumed by fire last Wednesday night, while lying at anchor off Cowes. The Titania was an iron schooner yacht of about 100 tons, and sailed a match with the American clipper last Autumn, in which she was defeated by that celebrated craft.

GOLD DISCOVERED IN ENGLAND.—The Mining Journal tells us, that gold, apparently in great abundance, has been discovered at South Moulton, in Devonshire, on the property of Lord Poltimore, as rich indeed as in either California or Australia. The Britannia Mine will probably, be the pioneer of the discovery of other deposits of auriferous ores in the United Kingdom, by drawing attention to the subject, which is unquestionably one of national interest and importance. That the more valuable gold-bearing stones are rich to an extraordinary degree, is placed beyond question by the reports of practical assayists and the examination of nearly all the great geologists and mineralogists of the day; while that the bulk is also commercially valuable, is evidenced by the fact that a London bullion dealer has offered £5 per ton at the mine for the whole of what has hitherto been considered as mere refuse (about 300 tons,) and used for mending the roads.

THE IRISH IN A BLAZE.—The arrival of the Irish patriot, Meagher, from Van Dieman's Land, has set the whole Irish portion of our community in a perfect blaze. They have not been in such a state of exitement since the announcement was made in Vauxhall, a few years ago, of the, great battle of Sauxhill, out of which the Directory managed to get thirty five thousand dollars from the pockets of the hard working Irish in this country. Mr. Meagher will be received by the Irish in and by many ether classes, with as great an excitement as that which characterized the reception of Emmet in his day. It will be more lasting than that of Kossuth, because the Irish patriot wants no material aid—means no humbug—but intends to settle down, a plain republican, in this land of freedom and equality —[New York Herald.

SUICIDE.—On Monday afternoon, Mr. E Hull a respectable citizen, and of sober habits, aged 72 years of age, cut his own throat with a razor, having seated himself opposite a mirror and made other arrangements, which it is unnecessary to state. He was discovered sitting before the glass, the deed being accomplished. Medical attendance was promptly obtained. Dr. Russell soon arrived and did everything possible to arrest death, but the old man expired in two hours afterwards. Yesterday morning an inquest was held by the Coroner, and a verdict of "temporary insanity" returned. The deceased was the father of the late Mr. Edwin Hull, watchmaker of this city. —[Quebec Gazette.

The Ottawa Circuit Court has just terminated its sittings, having been presided over by the newly appointed Judge, William King McCord, Esq. The appointment of this gentleman reflects great credit upon the Government, from his thorough knowledge of the Ottawa, and from his urbanity and suavity.—The sittings of the Court were held in the new Court House, an elegant and substantial building, and one that reflects the highest credit upon Mr Kenedy, the builder.—Ottawa Ottawa Packet.

DIED.

At Scotch Line, Bathurst, on the 24th ult., in the 87th year of his age, Mr. Wm. Adams, Sen.

On the 26th May, at Cobourg, in the 75th year of her age, Anna Maria, relict of the late John Lodge Wilcocks, Esq., of Dove Dale, Township of Hamilton.

CENSUS OF THE COUNTY OF YORK.

We have been favored by the Census Commissioner with an inspection of the Official Returns for this County, and from them we compile the following interesting result. The total population of the United Counties is:—

	Males.	Females.	Total.
York,			48,808
Ontario,	16,044	14,532	30,576
Peel,	13,120	11,696	24,816
County population,			104,963
City of Toronto,			30,763
Total population,			134,963

In 1850, the population of the County was 87,750, and of the city 25,166, together 112,916.—The present return shows the normous increase of 21,947, or nearly 20 per cent., an enlargement of population almost unprecedented in any country. —[Globe.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—On Sunday the 16th inst., three men and two boys went into a boat near the Government dam, Crook's Rapids, River Trent, with the intention of proceeding up the river, but being unacquainted with the management of a boat, the current turned the bow down the stream, which carried them in a few moments over the dam; and sad to relate, two of the men, and one of the boys were drowned. The persons saved were Mr. Crocker, and a boy of the name Connoly, who was rescued from a watery grave by a young man named Armstrong who nobly risked his own life to save the boy. Mr. Crocker was saved by a person reaching out a fishing spear, which he took hold of and extraordinarily escaped with his life. James McDonald, a clerk in the employment of Mr. Fowlds, a young man from Lower Canada, and the third a boy of the name of Coughan, were the three unfortunate persons that lost their lives by this melancholy event. We understand that their bodies have not yet been found.—Port Hope Watchman, May 26.

On the 13th May, at the drawing-room held by her Majesty the Queen, the Hobbles. Francis Hinks and E. B. Chandler were presented to Her Majesty by Sir John Pakington, Secretary for the Colonies.

N.B. Parties in England will bear in mind that timber in the Raft subjects the purchaser to great expense in dressing, butting, and at times heavy loss for culls—if sold in shipping order, the expense of shipping only to be added.

REMARKS.

Since our last Circular was issued we have no very great change to note, few Rafts having come down and the arrivals from sea having been limited until within the last few days. The wind is now easterly and a good number of ships are dropping in.

IN WHITE PINE there is great scarcity of really good timber, but several rafts of ordinary and inferior quality are for sale, but do not command that prompt attention that was anticipated.

RED PINE is not in active demand, but there are some enquiries for 40 feet in shipping order and for large girthy timber.

We hear of no transactions in ELM, but mostly all the OAK in first hands has been sold.

TAMARAC is enquired for by parties in the U. States, and it is more than probable that a good deal will be purchased by the Americans who appreciate this fine woold the more they use it.

STANDARD STAVES are in good demand, and so are Puncheon, which are beginning to be scarce, as the lateness of the season has been felt on the Lakes as much as in the other sections of the Province, and Oak and Stave rafts are a good deal behind their usual time of starting.

DEALS are very scarce and readily command our quotations.

In Freights little or nothing is doing.

☞ SIGNOR BLITZ.—The renowned Conjuror gave Two Entertainments on Saturday. He is unquestionably the most facetious gentleman that ever entertained an audience; he keeps them amused from the moment he begins until he concludes, and one continued roar of laughter prevails. He has lost nothing of his early dexterity, and his slight of Hand is still the best extant.—The Tricks with Canary Birds are clever, and show that the Signor must have spent much time in their education. His performance, as of old, concludes with his far-famed Witch Dance of Dinner Plates. This Afternoon and this Evening will end his Exhibitions in Kingston.

☞ THE COUNTY COUNCIL.—This Municipal Body adjourned on Saturday noon, until to-morrow, (Tuesday,) not having got through their business. The whole Body proceeded on Thursday last to Watertown, per invitation of the Railroad Authorities, to inspect the Road and the Site of the proposed Wolfe Island Canal, preparatory to passing the By-Law sanctioning the issue of One Thousand Pounds Debentures.

BY TELEGRAPH.

(REPORTED FOR THE BRITISH WHIG.)

MARKETS.

New York, 5th, 1852.

Flour. Supply of low grade state and Western hardly up to the demand, and prices a shade better; but at the close there was less buoyancy, the demand steady for the local trade; little doing for export. The inferior and better grades quiet, but prices unchanged. Canadian quiet, 4,06¼ a 4,12½. Sales domestic 9000 bbls, 4,06 a 4,12 for common to Straight State, 4,12 a 4,25 for common to good Ohio, 4,18¾ a 4,25 for favourite State and round hoop Ohio, 4,12 a 4,31¼ for mixed to fancy Michigan and Indianna.

GRAIN.—Holders of wheat steady, demand fair for milling, and some inquiry for export, Western wheat not plenty, and in request. Sales 5000 bush. white Michigan at 1,01, 25,00 bushel fair white Genesee, and 6000 bushel white Canadian reported, but we could not trade the sales. Corn abundant, and prices of unsound lower, and there is less buoyancy in merchantable. Export demand limited There is a fair eastern and local enquiry. NOTICE.

HAVING Resigned the Hotel Business, I beg to return my best thanks to the various Presses whom I have patronized for the punctuality with which I have received their Papers, and to the Mail Contractors, and request they will send in any accounts for arrears, which I will be most happy to cancel; further numbers need not be sent to me without a new order. Mr Manuel Northrup is my successor whom I think will do the Press and guests every justice in his new occupation.

I doubly thank those whom have been my constant Patrons for the last 24 years during which time I have been in Business in this Town.
