MURDERED FOR HER JEWELS.

How a Former Woman Slave Trader Met Her Death.

St. John, Me., Feb. 9.—Mrs Sarah H. Dorrin, who was strangled to death in her home Saturday night, by her grandson, Daniel Brown, was, it is said, the only woman in this country who ever made slave trading a business. She made a large fortune before the war broke out and subsequently she has been estimated to be worth half a million dollars. Her grandson, who has confessed that he had murdered her in getting her jewels is the son of Prosecuting Attorney Dorrin, and of a daughter of Mrs Dorrin, the oldest son of deceased parents, and although now but twenty years of age, has led a desperate life since he was thirteen years old, when he ran away, saying that he had enough enough. Mrs Dorrin, who was 69 years old, and wife of the famous slave trader, General George F. Dorrin, who was once a candidate for United States Senator from Missouri, lived in a costly house amid spacious grounds on the King's highway. She retained an affection for her grandson, when others cast him off, and when her husband was away she received the youth and gave him money and clothing. Nevertheless she used to say: "That boy will murder me and rob me some of these days. I know it. He watches me like a cat watches a mouse." He was continually threatening her life, and was about the house. At the time the man-slayer Kotzebody's picture was printed she showed the picture to Mr. J. A. Balderman, her daughter, who is the wife of the Consul to Bangkok, Siam, and asked: "Does it resemble any one you know?"

"Russell Brown," said Mrs Balderman.

"Yes, that's the one," said Mrs Dorrin. "His neck is fitted for the noose. I want you to look at it and see if there isn't something peculiar in its shape."

Mrs Dorrin was found dead on Sunday morning upon the bed in the room of her grandson. She was in her night dress, and where her head had been torn from her by strangulation was broken. Upon her right temple there was a scratch about two inches long, shaped like a crescent. The fingerprints of her murderer were upon the throat. Russel Brown, who was the youth in the house the night before, was missing. The police found his asleep in the corner of a street car. When indeed up he confessed that he and Patrick McGlew, a bar-keeper, who formerly lived in Chicago, hired a buggy, drove out to the Dorrin mansion and made their plans for robbing his grandmother in a saloon near by. When he was admitted to the house he let in his accomplice, who was concealed in the summer house. During the night he visited his grandmother's room, told her that his uncle, Tom Dorrin, was sick in his (the prisoner's) room. Without striking a light she went to the room, felt her way to the bed, and, as she leaned over, she was seized at once by a rough hand from a man beneath the bedclothes. She tried to scream, and his grandson choked her while McGlew took the jewels. When she was stripped of her rings and was thrown upon the bed life was extinct. McGlew then went to Mrs Dorrin's room, got her watch and went away. McGlew was arrested in Chicago. Mrs Dorrin made a will some time ago, by which, it is believed, she leaves a legacy to her grandson.

General Dorrin was one of the largest negro traders in this country. Negro women with nursing infants used to command a low price, because they could sell the babies as children about, but he bought all such babies, and gave the babies to his wife to raise by bottle, while he sold the mother at a large profit. Mrs Dorrin kept the money her grown-up babies sold for. He laviated wealth upon his family. At a ball given in 1855 his daughter was so resplendent with diamonds that it was said that she had the price of a negro on every finger. It is said that Gen. Dorrin, who was fond of women, was the cause of Mrs Dorrin's death. Her husband was found murdered in the woods of his plantation in Texas, in 1862, and worked hard to have Illinois made a slave State. When Louis V. Bogy was elected United State Senator, Mr Dorrin spent money freely to try to get the place though 72 years old, he still believes he has a political future.

Mrs Dorrin kept a separate purse, and was a bold speculator. She was a daring, strong-minded woman, and it was said that she could drink more whisky than any man in Missouri. She smoked her pipe every night, and was fabulously stingy with her cook. When she found that her husband had made up big sum of money, she always obtained her share of it for her own bank account. She owned the house where she was killed. It has a row of fluted Doric columns in front, stained glass windows of arabesque pattern, spacious veranda, and is luxuriously furnished. A statue of Flora ornaments the lawn.

Russell Brown's father and mother have been divorced fourteen years, and Consul Baldemans does not live with his wife. Mrs Dorrin's daughters are all attractive in appearance, and they always wear silks and diamonds. The family, with the exception of Mrs Mattie Walker, his mother, whom present husband is a minor out West, are bitter in their feelings towards the prisoner. "He is a born murderer," said Mrs Balderman, "and if I was a man I would kill him. He will be hanged if the money of the Dorrin family can hang him." During the inquest the prisoner took out a cigar, lighted it, and blew the smoke of smoke into the face of his grandfather, who was testifying against him. The coroner, turning to him, said, "Young man, you possess more assurance than anybody I ever saw. Throw away that cigar and turn to the jury. You are charged with a serious offence."

"I know it. Go ahead," said the prisoner, as he hung the cigar in the grate.

Brown was the nearest man at the inquest, and he said that he was confident that he would not be hanged. Mrs Dorrin's body was buried in Belefontaine Cemetery on Wednesday. The hearse was almost filled with flowers. Mr Consul Baldeman says that the night of the murder she dreamed that her mother had been found dead in her N. Y. Sun.

SINGING AFTER TAKING POISON.

The Suicide of a Young Brooklyn Girl Who Was a Tireless Royal Reader.

Miss Bella Louisa Gruishank, aged 18 died in her home in Brooklyn on Monday from the effects of Paris green. Twelve years ago she received a blow upon the head, which caused an illness of seven weeks. She often since that time expressed a wish to die. Her mother intensely at night laid her in her arms for her left she would do violence to herself. She made several attempts to jump out of the window, and she threatened two years ago to drown herself in a pond in Rochester avenue. On Friday last the mother missed the lives of the other children, and desired to insure her life, but she refused to have it done, saying that she won't not live long. In the evening of that day she got permission to go to a circulating library to exchange a book. Her sister went with her, but she got her sister to carry the book into the library, while she hurried to a paint store and bought Paris green. On Sunday evening she went out of the room after supper. When she returned to the parlor she sat down at the piano and sang the song, "I'm so lonely." Suddenly turning around she said "Mamma I may as well tell you I have taken Paris green. I have done what I said I would do. I to go one to save my life, as I will kill myself some other time." Dr. Bird gave her antidotes, but without success. Mrs Gruishank says that her daughter was an untiring reader of novels, and that her appetite for this style of literature grew until she would read a novel every day.

From Hamilton.

A gentleman writes: "I have suffered for over four years with night losses and general weakness, caused by abuse. I had tried all the advertised medicines, and a number of eminent doctors, and found no relief or benefit. I have used twelve boxes of Mack's Magnetic Medicine, and am entirely restored." See advertisement in another column.

Two Organs.

Regulate first the stomach, second the liver, especially the first, so as to perform their functions perfectly, and you will remove at least nine-tenths (seventeen-twentieths) of all the ills that mankind is her to, in this or any other climate. Hop Bitters is the only tonic that will give perfectly healthy natural action to these two organs.—Maine Farmer.

Monesty.

The People's World Wide Verdict

BURNETT'S COCOAINE has been sold in every civilized country, and the public have rendered the verdict that it is the cheapest and best Hair Dressing in the world.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE are derived from the blood, which is the grand national source of vital energy, the motor of the healthy organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion, the nervous and sanguinary fluid of the food, which should enrich it, every body feels the ill effects. Sags and the system grows feeble and disorganized. When the blood becomes impure, either from the effects of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is North-rop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and depurant properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pains. Price, $1. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, and throat disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Pull directions, for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. J. George King, Chemist and Druggist, Sold Agent for Kingston.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Coughs, Influenza.—The soothing properties of these medicaments render them well worthy of trial in all diseases of the respiratory organs. In common colds and influenza the Pills, taken internally, and the Ointment rubbed over the chest and throat, are exceedingly efficacious. When influenza is epidemic, this treatment is the easiest, safest, and surest. Holloway's Pills purify the blood, remove all obstacles to its free circulation through the lungs, relieve the over-gorged air tubes, and render respiration free, without reducing the strength, irritating the nerves, or depressing the spirits, which are the ready means of saving suffering when anyone is afflicted with colds, coughs, bronchitis, and other chest complaints, by which so many persons are seriously and prematurely afflicted in most climates.

Its Whooping Cough and Croup, therefore there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and healing.

Low prices are indicators to try some of the many excellent remedies now offered, and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as the common sense of mankind, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to be worse than nothing in the future. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand universal and effective treatment, and it is dangerous experiment to trust with unknown and cheap medicines from the great liability that the disease will be neglected until it has become deeply seated or incurable. Use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard compound, composed of known and acknowledged curative power, and is so long as its peculiar preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its authority, certainly to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
