THE DAIRY.

Butmaking in Winter—The Other Side of the Question.

MR. BOLES'S EXCEPTIONAL EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Israel Boles's, Marango, Ill., dairy has stood for the great prototype of butter dairying among all its advocates these many years. But the fact is that Mr Boles was never in the true sense a dairyman at Marango, whatever he may have been since. He was more strictly a designer of a dresser in cattle. He also had a farm upon which he fed them, and finished them off for market. He was in the habit of picking up cattle, among them more or less refuse stock, and feeding them for the shambles. Among these were many cows, coming into milk at the season when the common farmers and dairymen did not wait them fresh, and cows yet in milk, rejected for some fault. These animals, brought at a discount, he put upon very high feed, and took what milk he could get, and made good butter from it; for heavy, rich feed makes good butter it is in half taken care of. He did not breed his cows, but disposed of them whenever they were fat enough, whether in milk or not. Or rather, perhaps, it should be said, he dried them off as they became fat and the flow of milk declined. The writer visited this establishment in the month of its issue, and saw enough evidence of waste in a single day to satisfy him that it was a very unsafe model for the imitation of any man who depended upon legitimate dairying for a profitable business. The amount of grain fed would ruin any eastern dairyman, if it did not his herd.

REQUISITES FOR WINTER DAIRYING.

The first requisite for successful winter dairying is a warm stable; and, as about one dance of rich feed; then, warm water; and, finally, the most scrupulous care. The cows must be fat and kept fat, or the quality of the butter will be impaired. The very best food of cold upon a cow is to reduce the proportion of olein in her butter fat. Winter butter is sometimes commended for its firmness. Firmness is a good quality, no doubt, but if it is secured by a loss of olein it is most certainly a negative virtue. Winter dairying is successfully practised to some extent in the valley of the Connecticut, very north in Vermont, and New Hampshire, because their pastures are so remote that full summer dairying is impracticable without resorting to soiling, which implies about the same extra labour and expense as the winter dairying. These dairymen have secured a good market for their products among special city customers at an extra price for fresh, new goods in the season when they are scarce and generally high.

FALL CALVES.

They raise their calves in the winter, which is good economy, because they require dry fodder and housing the first four or six months, or while drinking milk, and it is less expensive to care for them in winter than in summer when labour is more expensive. Calves dropped in the fall are less subject to disease, are not troubled by flies, and if well cared for through the winter, and turned to grass when it starts fresh in the spring, will, when two years old, be as large as those dropped the previous spring, and are generally better developed. A growing animal should never be permitted to suffer any check in its growth; but it is almost impossible to avoid it in the case of a spring calf from which the milk has been taken before going into winter quarters. This is one of the best months, half, if not the very best feature of winter dairying. But these people provide frost-proof stables, well ventilated, and spring water that never causes a chill; and some of them go so far as to warm it, and undoubtedly get more and better butter for their pains. Their fodder is the most that grows, and their feed more rich and abundant, though not excessive, or wasteful. Their cows are never permitted to stand out of doors and burrs out their butter fat, warming themselves now to stay of the Elements of Bone, Brain and Muscle are derived from the blood, which is the grand nutritional source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure, either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils in North rop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes the body promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its exclusive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and deponent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pains. Price, $1. Sample bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

SURE BRAIN OF PUBLICITY.—Merit, apparent to a cloind witnesses, upon which the popularity of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is founded. Throat and lung complaints, pain, soreness, bruises, swellings, burns and ailments of various other kinds, yield to the action of this speedy and safe remedy.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions, for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souvielle's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared and deemed incurable. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, as Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Philipe Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. Mention this paper. Sold by Druggists, Sold Agent for Kingston.

TWO HUSBANDS AT FOURTEEN

A Maryland Girl Married Her Stepfather and then Her True Lover.

A Baltimore telegram says: A wedding has just taken place in Dames Quarter District, Somerset County, Md., under circumstances which have probably never been paralleled in this country. H. E. Whyte, a boy aged 17 and of excellent character, married a pretty little brunette named Ella Shores, aged 14, thus giving to the girl a second husband within a period of few years. On January 8th, 1880, precisely two years from the date of this marriage, the residents of James's Quarter were greatly startled by learning that Sydney Shores, a farmer aged 65 years, had married Ella Shores, the 12-year-old daughter of his deceased wife by a former husband. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Zachariah Bowen, a Methodist Episcopal clergyman, who as also a witness, was desired by Shores as to the child's age as did not know that she was his stepdaughter. At that time there were threats of lynching the bridegroom, and a mob visited his house one night to hang him. Shores, however, who is an old soldier, showed light and had all the mob. After the man had lived with the child as wife for four days the county authorities took cognizance of the affair and arrested him. Shores was committed to default of bail and the girl was taken charge of by friends and removed from Shore's house. The feeling against Shores was further aggravated by the fact that his wife, who was the widow of his uncle, had only been dead a month when he married the girl. Some months later the imbecility of age man who deposed upon legitimate dairying for a profitable business. The amount of grain fed would ruin any eastern dairyman, if it did not his herd.
