basis for County industrial film Halton County Council, through its industrial committee, has commissioned Robert J. Meyer Productions of Dundas to write and produce a motion picture to promote area development of the County of Halton. Area development, the committee points out, should be taken to imply the development of residential, commercial, agricultural and recreational and cultural as well as manfacturing potentials of the county.

The theme of the motion picture centres around a graduate point of decision concerning his future, choosing his career of furthering education and a place for settling down, illustrating the range of choice that is open to him in the area. The student is a native of Halton, taking a second look about him through his memories, his thoughts, and his ambitions and assessing all that he sees of the assets in both towns and
