The Daily News.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 14.

Attention is being called to the fact that Mr Mowat allows members of the legislature to handle the money appropriated to colonisation roads without keeping a strict account of the expenditure. If this course were pursued by Conservatives it would be highly reprehensible; but probably Reform politicians have none of the weaknesses of ordinary humanity.

Mr Charlton said in his speech that Conservatives have to gaffle his '78 speech in order to make him out inconsistent. No, they have not though. He declared 17½ to be sufficient, but that that explain away his declaration that no state had reached greatness without commercial restrictions, that the United States was a tribute to the benefits of protection, and that England had only adopted free trade after having built herself up by something else? Not altogether.

The sentence of dishonorable discharge from the army and eight years imprisonment with hard labour pronounced upon Sergeant Mason for his attempt to shoot Guiteau, reflects credit upon the court martial which tried him. The high and wild current of public feeling running against Guiteau when the act was committed might have been thought to palliate the offence, had not Mason declared recently that he regretted only his failure to accomplish the murder. In such cases as his it is especially necessary to show that no exigency of supposed public or patriotic feeling will excuse violation of the law, breach of duty, and murderous intent.

The Rev. Hugh Pedley, B.A., in a recent address advised young men to read both sides of political questions before coming to conclusions, and acting upon them. This merely means that they should make section the result of serious and calmness of mind before judgment they should be reasonable partisans. Mr Pedley was right, and strange to say a similar sentiment was uttered by Archbishop Lynch last Sunday evening, though only in a one-sided way, when he said that Protestants might profitably peruse Catholic history at times. Those who read but one side of a question do not think; they have their thinking done for them, as a rule. But those who read both sides must either think or remain undecided. Where however, a man has not time to read both sides, he should undoubtedly get as near the truth of the matter by taking his information from the frank and straightforward pages of Conservative journals.

There is a considerable degree of bashfulness among Grit candidates in western constituencies, a characteristic that will no doubt be dignified by the title of "independence." Mr David Glass declines with thanks to face the music in East Middlesex, Mr Armstrong refuses to be bound by the wishes of the Reform convention, and Mr H.S. Hoaland has also been seen and heard in West York. When we remember that Mr Mackenzie all out of Lambton and sought a refuge in East York, where he will probably be beaten, it is quite evident that the approach of a general election is fluttering the dove-cots. The opposition need not be alarmed that any germander-ing will be done to alter the composition of East York. The ex-Premier's defeat is not sincerely desired, and gerrymandering is not required.

The Chairman of Naval Affairs at Washington has presented a bill for the construction of new war vessels to Congress. He asks for the present only ten vessels, of which, but no doubt there will be sufficient jobbery to plunder the amount to fifteen or twenty millions. The step, if taken, will be attended with dire results not dreamed of probably by the majority of those who will applaud it. The United States requires no defences; their position and resources are their best security. No nation has designs upon their freedom or their territory; they can have no cause of quarrel with other people; and they intend embarking upon the mad-cap career chalked out by Blaine. On the other hand the possession of a weapon begets a desire to use it, and should our American friends construct a navy they will feel as itching to dabble in international disputes which may cost them dearly both in blood and money before it is soothed. Peace is such a priceless treasure, and its attending prosperity so much to be desired, that it is almost incredible that a country actually enjoying these blessings could deliberately choose to relinquish them. It is to be hoped that the people of the United States will have too much good sense to add to the enormous waste now caused by warlike armaments.

Mr Gladstone is ever performing some surprising manœuvre, some political coup d'etat, either affecting a breach in the structure of the British constitution, or completely subversal of his own record and declared opinions. On Thursday last he carried a measure which exhibited both these features, and demonstrated how little store the Premier sets by any institution, however august or venerable, that obstructs the objects he has in view. This was, in fact, a resolution pronouncing the House of Lords' inquiry into the working of the Land Act unwarranted by facts and detrimental to the public interests, and such resolution was carried by a majority of 68. The cause of this bold and extraordinary movement seems to have been a desire on the part of the Prime Minister to affront the Upper Chamber and discredit it, because in its character as a court of appeal it decided in favour of the landlords on appeal from the Land Commission. This appeal is the result of a Conservative amendment to the Land Act accepted by the Government last session, and is now the case of ministerial mortification and chagrin. Yet the Peers were exercising an undoubted right in making the enquiry for which ostensibly they have been snubbed, they having coordinate jurisdiction with the Commons in everything save fiscal legislation. Mr Gladstone has laid his axe to the root of the constitution as composed of three independent estates, but he has done so under the unworthy pressure of political pique.

It does not require a great deal of ingenuity to slander an opponent after the delectable manner of the Globe, as any of our readers can see by reading an article in yesterday's issue on Mr Charlton's speech. "Proceeding," it says, "he congratulates that the astounding difference between the statements of the American trade returns and those of Canada concerning the quantity of American cottons brought in here. The Americans say we purchased 20,000,000 yards of their cottons. Our returns show less than 5,000,000 imported. We have before alluded to the discrepancy in these reports. There are but two explanations possible. Either the 15,000,000 yards of cotton are smuggled or our trade returns are tampered with in order to cover up some failure of Sir Leonard Tilley's. The antecedents of the Finance Minister are such as fully to justify a suspicion that the latter is the case." Now here is a charge of the most serious and damaging nature against a statesman universally esteemed for his integrity, and on the ground of a most illogical and preposterous inference. There is a disagreement between the trade returns of the two countries, therefore our returns must be wrong. Such is the argument, but it is quite plain that the only conclusion to be drawn from the fact is that either one or the other must be wrong. Then, assuming that the error has occurred in the Canadian statistics, it is highly probable, according to the Globe, that the Finance Minister has falsified the figures so as to reduce them by three fourths. Surely, the unblushing impudence of a slanderous pen can no further go, than to found base detraction upon a chain of arguments furnished by the gratuitous suspicions of an unscrupulous journal.

Jones, Loyd & Co.

The firm of Jones, Loyd & Co., has a very romantic history. They took in now amalgamated with the London and Westminster. It may be said to have commenced in a love affair between a young Dissenting minister of Manchester and the daughter of a leading member of his congregation. Mr James Loyd preached so eloquently in his Welsh chapel, that Mary Jones fell in love with him. Her father was a great man at the Welsh chapel, being both banker and manufacturer. On one occasion he, remote other merchant, was so pleased with the young preacher, that he presented him with a five-pound note; and the minister, in thanking him, said he would be happy to pray for him on the same terms every Sunday morning. The young people, fearing that the father's consent could not be secured, were secretly married. The father-in-law was reconciled to them; but he thought that he could do a better thing for his new son-in-law than let him continue in the preaching business. Nonconformist ministers have a great prejudice against the Americans, and that they may go in trade or business, or sit in Parliament if elected. Mr Loyd became his father-in-law's partner, and went to London to open a metropolitan branch of the business. He proved to be the very man for the banker—eminently sagacious, clear-headed, and honourable. The Manchester firm regularly drew on the London firm; and for some years "Jones up-on Jones" was a well-known commercial phrase. For many years he was the head of the business, which was conducted in Lombard Street, the wealthy bank in the country—the London and Westminster—that led the way in those joint stock enterprises which Sir Robert Peel declared formed one of the greatest discoveries of modern times. In 1844 with Lord Lyd purchased Overstone Park, four miles north east of Northampton—a thousand or fifteen hundred acres—where he resided until 1858. He begeathed three millions of money, the wealth of banking and of successful speculations in Government stock. He left an only son, Samuel Jones Loyd, who was two years afterwards made Lord Overstone. This nobleman is the greatest living authority upon the subject of banking.—London Society.

A New Submarine Boat.

Nature says: "A Roumanian engineer, M. Theodorescu, has invented a submarine ship before which all similar inventions are said to pale. This ship according to the statement of the inventor, can be guided twelve hours completely under water, the depth of immersion varying between 100 and 300 feet at the option of the commander. Upon the surface the wonderful ship can be managed like any other vessel, its rate of speed being less, however, than that of ordinary steamers. The diving is done by means of screws vertically, and can be accomplished suddenly or gradually. In the same manner the ship can be made emerge from the water. When the vessel is under water enough light is supplied to enable those on board to see any obstacle 120 feet ahead, and to regulate the ship's motion accordingly. The air supplied to the vessel is said to suffice for the whole crew for about twelve or fourteen hours. In case of need the air reservoir can be filled again, even under water, by means of telescopic tubes sent up to the surface. The progress of the vessel, as well as the diving, is said to be absolutely noiseless." These details the Nature gives with due reserve from the inventor's statements; but it adds that should they prove true the invention would likely turn out to be a highly valuable one, even for peaceable objects, apart from its great utility in naval warfare.

Evangelistic Singing.

To the Editor of THE DAILY NEWS:

MR. EDITOR,—Permit me to write a few lines on the singing in connection with the evangelistic services in the City Hall. I may say that I have attended dozens of similar services in small villages, and have never seen such an attempt at the service of praise as I have with "pain" witnessed in the City Hall in the city of Kingston. Considering that these meetings are carried on with the full approval of the "Alliance" to which the Protestant clergy belong, and also that each congregation has a splendid "organ" and choir, I consider it a "disgrace" to the chosen music. The operations appointed by the hon. a "united" choir while these services last, seem to be, there is a committee on music, if so, they have not evidently done their duty. As it is, of course, these meetings are very interesting, but in their singing good. I am sure you it would be an improvement. As it is, the whole weight of the meeting rests on Mr Owers, whereas if there was a proper choir formed which could sing anthems or hymns, it would greatly assist him. Where are the "leaders" of our city choirs? Where are our fine singers? Surely at a time when they are needed they will not be absent. Praise is as much a part of our service as prayer. It is unfortunate for us that such a state of affairs should exist. Let the city choirs take the hint, and let the committee for the next week we have good singing—Yours truly,

The Evangelical Alliance and Mr Owers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Sir,—Permit me to call attention to two wrong impressions which I think might be conveyed, of course unintentionally, by the statement made by the Evangelical Alliance concerning Mr Owers. One of these wrong impressions might arise from the expression that the clergyman who made pulpit reference to Mr Owers's doctrine on the Lord's Prayer was "not in sympathy with the movement." Now all who know that earnest and devoted clergyman must feel that his warm sympathy would be with any movement for arousing sinners and kindling in them such a love to God Almighty, that he might have cogent reasons for not personally taking part in the same. The other wrong impression which I think might be conveyed in this connexion, is that the clergyman referred to was the only one who differed from Mr Owers on the point in question, whereas the teaching of Mr Owers on that point is distinctly opposed to that of the great majority of evangelical Christians. I trust that the attention which has been called to the Lord's Prayer will have a good effect in leading people generally to think more of the meaning of this grand and comprehensive form of prayer. And I fully appreciate Mr Owers' sincerity and earnestness, and hope that his ministrations may be the effect of quickening spiritual life among us. But to common with many others who are in sympathy with the movement," I think it is to be regretted that, coming under the auspices of our Evangelical Alliance, he should have excited controversy by going beyond the main points which all evangelical Christians are agreed.

Yours, &c.,

CHRISTIAN UNION.

The Street Nuisance.

To the Editor of THE DAILY NEWS:—

DEAR SIR,—Allow me, through the column of your valuable paper, to say a word or two on the condition of the streets now held in control by the City Railway Company, the state of which is a disgrace to the corporation of this city. It is to be hoped that the gentlemen who compose the Kingston Railway will be the means of having them placed in proper repair. The Manager proposes to run a car every hour, but the people of Williamsville have had quite enough of him. We are not so blind that we cannot see a hole through a fence, and we hope the Council will not allow him to do any such a thing. We quite understand Mr Oliver's desire in running a car every hour, but the residents of Williamsville do not want that. What we want is nothing but what we have a right to, and that is for every half hour according to charter, or pull the track up, and let us have a good street once more. Thanking you for the space you have given this, I remain,

Yours truly,

A RESIDENT.

Kingston, March 14.

Fire at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, March 13.—Shortly after midnight a fire was discovered in McKenny & Curran's grocery store, Main street. The flames were heard by a stiff breeze, and the space between the Sun newspaper office and the Bank of Montreal was soon in a blaze. Main street was completely littered with goods. From $90,000 to $75,000 worth of property was destroyed. The Bank of Montreal and the Canada Pacific Railway offices were gutted, and the brick wall alone saved the buildings from complete destruction. The principal sufferers are: Messrs McKenny & Curran, grocers; M. H. Hall, confectioner; A. S. Empey, gents' furnishings; J. Harper, grocer; Nixon & Best, photographers; E. Taffs, dry goods; Geo. Frankfurter, dry goods; Isenbaum & Co., boots and shoes. Among others burnt out are A. McFarlane, W. Hunter, J. Adams & Son, Mrs Wolf, the Messrs Laurie (printers), and Mrs Whitmore.

Killed by a Train.

Moncton, N.B., March 14.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon at Gibson Crossing, about three miles from Moncton, by which a man named Arthur Graham, a brakeman on the Pacific Railway company was his wife and two children, Graham was returning from a funeral, and on reaching Gibson's Crossing the horse took fright at an approaching freight train. Graham's wife and children jumped out of the sleigh, and requested him to do the same. He neglected doing so, however, and was struck by the train and carried over one hundred feet, the whole train passing over his body, which was frightfully mangled.

Young Men suffering from early indiscretions lack brain and nerve force. Mack's Magnetic Medicine, advertised in another column, supplies this want, and does cures when all other preparations fail.

SITTER RECRIMINATION.

Diagnostic Utterances in the Imperial Parliament.

New York, March 13.—The following incident of debate in the House of Commons is furnished in the letters of the Herald from Dublin:—During the debate on the vote for military and police expenditure in Ireland, an English member, Colonel Sarse, said in his speech that he had heard some persons suggest that the outrages in Irelaud might be stopped by hanging the three priests nearest to where the outrage was committed. He did not himself advocate that system, although he was of opinion it would stop outrages, but he thought that the residents in the district where the outrage might occur should be made to pay for the cost of the presence of the military, on the same system as had been tried and found quite successful in India.

A SPIRITED REPLY.

Mr O'Donnell was on his feet as soon as the author of this disgraceful speech had resumed his seat, and said that a short time ago the Pioneer, a leading newspaper of North-Western India, expressed its great regret that among a very large portion of the population of India there existed a feeling of absolute loathing against English schools. "It is very probable," continued Mr O'Donnell, "that if the hon. and gallant member who has just spoken was an English official in India we have some clue to the cause of the feeling I have mentioned. But I do not think it would exalt the dignity of this House, or of the country, to devote much time attention to the operations of the hon. and gallant member."

"ASSANTE SBULATITIS."

Mr T. D. Sullivan did not let the colonel off quite so easily. The Ashantee speech to which we have listened, he said, is not likely to receive any attention from the Government. The operations suggested by the hon. and gallant member had been already tried in Ireland and failed. The hanging and banishment of priests had been tried, and out of that long struggle the priests had emerged victorious. He (Mr Sullivan) and gallant hangman that his proposition was a sign of brutality and not of the spirit of the age, and that the day is passed when such an idea could be revived in Ireland.—Subsequently Mr Sullivan withdrew the expression "hangman."

THE GENERAL PERLING.

The above is one only of several bitter passages lately between the Irish and English members, and, in fact, the whole tone of debates on the Irish question is becoming more and more violent and personal. Things are such, which, on the old Irish Party days would have been settled outside with the pistol, and last session would have led to expulsion on the several members. But, in this session passion and recrimination are the whole tone of debate, and even hatred and contempt, are allowed free scope. The irritation conflict between Ireland and England rages with greater violence than ever wherever the two races are in contact.

OYSTER SUPPER.

Last evening a very pleasant time was spent at Mrs Temple's boarding house. Mr J. Corbett, who has been employed in the establishment of Messrs. W. & J. Crothers for some time, is about to leave for his home in Belleville, and in consequence of this a number of his companions thought they would honour their friend by an oyster supper. After "getting away" with the bivalves in good style, the members of the company began to deliver speeches, each speech being followed by a song. It was Mr Covert property, and hope that wherever he may cast his lot it may be fraught with good fortune.

We sat on the steps, for the evening was warm;

We spoke very softly, and—as to his arm,
It was just Cousin Jack, and so, what was the harm?

The scent of the bay-leafs crept up from the farm
We were quite in the dark, save the fire-fly swarm.
(It was just Cousin Jack, so—what was the harm?)
A bird from the hedge whirring up, broke the charm;
He went, as I started in foolish alarm.
And—was just Cousin Jack, and so—what was the harm?

THE MART — BY J. E. HUTCHESON.

SALE OF CLEARWATER!

THE BRANDON OF SOUTH-WEST MANITOBA.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAS RECEIVED INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE OWNERS TO SELL BY AUCTION AT THE MART ON FRIDAY and SATURDAY, 17th and 18th of MARCH.

Single Lots and Blocks of Lots in Clearwater

CLEARWATER IS THE CENTRE OF PERHAPS THE FINEST AGRICULTURAL LANDS IN THE NORTH WEST, AND NOT ONLY SO, BUT IT IS THE COUNTY TOWN ELECT OF ROCK LAKE COUNTY.

For an Order in Council was recently passed that on the completion of one of the two projected railways the Registry Office should be removed to Clearwater. The Registry Office is always in connection with the County Town. Lots in it, therefore, must in the near future have a higher intrinsic value than in most places outside of Winnipeg. It is as clear, therefore, as the surface of Clearwater itself, that those who buy on the ground floor, or at the present auction, must of necessity double or even quadruple their purchase money. Over and above these substantial considerations, it is

WITHIN THREE MILES OF THE BEAUTIFUL ROCK LAKE,

Which, teeming with fish and covered with water fowl, offers an inducement and a charm to the sportsman and the tourist which the most favoured spot in the North West cannot surpass. Already the advantages of the situation have impressed a discerning public, and a number of an important city has been formed there; for it only are two stores, a hotel, a shipping place, a great mill with two run of stones, an implement warehouse, a grain warehouse, a blacksmith's shop and a school house,

IN ACTUAL EXISTENCE AND IN ACTUAL USE,

But there are in course of erection, and will soon be ready for occupation, the Registry Office for Rock Lake County, a real estate office, a store, a shoe shop, and a livery stable, to say nothing of a large number of private residences.

So far as these statements from being fancies of the romancer, that their literal truth is hereby vouched for, and the closest investigation of their accuracy is invited. The public may, therefore, feel perfect confidence when they invest their money in Clearwater lots, and entertain a well founded hope of so making an early and material addition to their fortunes.

Plans of the property can be had on application to the undersigned on and after the 14th instant.

TAKE 5 CHOICE LOTS IN THE THRIVING AND

RAPIDLY RISING TOWN OF SELKIRK!

A REAL TOWN WITH WHICH ALL ARE WELL ACQUAINTED—Its importance was only recently recognized by the Canadian Pacific Railway Syndicate, which has decided to build a branch of their line from Winnipeg to Selkirk, on the east side of the river, in order to connect with navigation. For this the town has granted a bonus of $70,000, and the road will be in operation by the 1st of August of this year, and arrangements are now being made to vote a bonus for a bridge across the Red River at this point, to make a direct line for through traffic to the west and east. It is the County Town of the County of Lisgar, in the heart of the finest prairie country, well supplied with fine timber, and immediately to the east are the great forests from which a great portion of Manitoba must for years obtain its supplies.

SELKIRK IS BEAUTIFULLY SITUATED on a high eminence, on the west bank of the Red River, 22 miles north of the City of Winnipeg, and 20 miles south of Lake Winnipeg. It has at present a population of 700 inhabitants, and its growth is very rapid. It is the chief point of navigation in Manitoba, being the head of deep water navigation on Lake Winnipeg, and its importance in this respect must continue on account of the rapids in the Red River, between Selkirk and Winnipeg.

THE HUDSON BAY CO. ARE BUILDING EXTENSIVE DOCKS AT SELKIRK, it being their distributing point for the whole of the North-West. It is also the terminus of the proposed Hudson Bay Railway and the Hudson Bay Transportation Co., for which the stock has all been subscribed, and which is building a number of the finest boats yet floated in the North-West.
