Have Become Fireside Talk

WHY?

Because they soothe the troubled, comfort the distressed, give strength to those who faint by the way, help the strong, invigorate the weak, soften the pangs of sorrow, blunt the teeth of hunger, tempt none to wrong, but give the pause to evil, and are in all ways known to be the friend of man and woman.

The above are part of the virtues that are in the Teas that are sold by the

Don't Bury Me Deep.

BY WILL CARLETON.

[It is said that the following touching lines were inspired by an actual occurrence. Years ago there lived in Towanda, New York State, a beautiful girl called Mary Means. Orl. Means was her father. He was a wild rover and when his child began to gradually sink under the effect of the remorseless disease of consumption, he spent much of his time at her bedside. Her female companions made the situation comfortable. She passed away as easily as possible. She made one request, and oft repeated it to her father in the presence of friends, and in the silent watchful him whose heart was bursting with anguish. It was "Don't bury me deep pa."]

Lift me a bit in my bed, father,
Press your warm lips to my cheek;
Put your arm under my head, father—
I am so tired and weak.
I cannot stay long awake now—
Many a night I shall sleep,
Promise one thing for my sake, pa—
Don't let them bury me deep!

Cover my head with flowers, father,
Those I so well loved to see,
So, in the long lonely hours, father,
They'll be companions for me.
If I should wake in the night then
Their lips my and face would sweep,
Make my grave cheerful as'd bright, then—
Don't let them bury me deep!

When the church you all go, father,
At the sweet Sabbath bell's tone,
I shall be dreary, you know, father,
Lying out there all alone.
Hang my bird near in the tree, then—
Watch over me he will keep,
He will sing sweet hymns to me, then—
Don't let them bury me deep!

Call on me when o'er you pass, father,
Where by your side I oft tar;
Put your face down on the grass, father,
Near to my own as you can.
If I could look up and hear you,
Into your arms I would creep;
Let me somehow sanctify near you—
Don't let them bury me deep!

Look! who has come for me now, father,
Standing near to my bed?
Some one is kissing my brow, father—
Mamma, I thought you were dead!
See! she is smiling so bright to you,
Beckons for you not to weep,
The next good-bye, but good night, to you—
They cannot bury me deep!

Leaving for China.

Mr Arthur Nicol, who has been connected with the Agricultural College, here, for five years, has entered into an engagement, through Dr. Kellog, of Hartford, Connecticut, with Tong King Sing, a high Mandarin of China, and Director of the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company, and manager of the Chinese Merchants Navigation Company, and R. M. Brown, son of an early Presbyterian Missionary to China, to manage a large sheep ranche and farm consisting of one hundred thousand acres, a large portion of which is to be planted with forest trees, Mr Nichol will leave with his young wife in a few days, proceeding by San Francisco. The engagement is for four years, and may be extended, and the salary is very liberal, and to increase yearly. Dr. Kellogg, as agent in America for Tong King Sing, is sending out stock, implements and seed for the farm. It is not once in ten years that we have to record the opening up of a new country, and particularly one of such a conservative stamp as China. Some few years ago Professor Brown, of the Ontario Agricultural College, was applied to by Dr. Kellog, of Connecticut, for a competent man to inaugurate some extensive improvements on his ranche, and the engagement referred to above is the result. Mr Nichol has for four years been Professor Brown's assistant in the Experimental Department. He is particularly fitted for the position to which he has been appointed, having had a practical training in forestry under his father at Kingston, as well as extensive experience in his present position. This appointment is a compliment to Ontario and the Agricultural College.—Guelph Mercury.

A Scotch Watchmaker.

A correspondent of the Perth Courier writes from Fraserburg, Aberdeenshire, Scotland:—The first watchmaker's shop your correspondent ever was in Fraserburg. That's of no moment, but who do your readers think was the watchmaker? Many of them know the late Mr Hardy, watchmaker, of Kingston, father-in-law to Professor Fenwick—that was the man. He was a little old-fashioned shop he made a fortune, went out to Canada and set up business in Kingston. He was a member of the Congregational Church. He bequeathed the sum of £40,000 sterling to bring out and support young ministers of the Congregational church in Canada. Mr Hardy's name is still in those days was the Rev. Mr Begg. Of him we will say, the time will come when thousands will rise up and bless him blessed. The name of the parish minister was Rev. Mr Cumming, a south country man—an evangelical preacher, but a short-tempered, delicate man.

It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves properly fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years' standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness.

A Public Meeting

should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning grey and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural colour, and prevents its falling out. For sale at WADE'S DRUG STORE, at 50 cents per bottle.

Nursery Medicines.
