THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

Chevalier Von Hone-Waring Explains the Project.

Mr Ernst Von Hone-Waring lectured last night in the hall of the Academy of Medicine under the auspices of the Academy of Sciences. His topic was "The submarine tunnel between England and France." In 1874, he said, when the project was first talked of, many objections were urged, but no one thought of any political opposition. It was simply the solving of the problem of connecting a country with thirty millions of inhabitants and nations with two hundred and fifty millions. The width to be tunnelled was twenty-two miles across the narrowest part of the channel between Dover and Calais. The geological composition was the character of the rock through which the tunnel would run. At the bottom of the channel was a bed of chalk. Not hard stone, because there were to be great fissures in it. But it was believed that these fissures had been filled up with stones, gravel and silt, and were not, therefore, depending as being great obstacles. Tunnels under the water were no new thing. Through the chalk-bed the Channel tunnel was to be driven 380 feet below high water level. It had been supposed that the water might seep through and fill the tunnel, but experiments had shown this to be an impossibility! The tunnel itself will run from the centre down towards each shore at an incline of 1 to 2,640. Four miles from each end it will begin an ascent on a grade of 1 to 80. So that a train will run down from England four miles, then up to the centre, then down again to within four miles of France, then up again to the station. Any water collecting will run down into sinks from which it may be pumped to the surface. The size of the tunnel will be 18 by 26 feet. It will be based with brick and a space left for what water does come in to run down the outside of the brick tube into a canal at the bottom. The brick tube will have two tracks. The lecturer gave an interesting description of the machine used. The shaft to be removed would make a spiral as large as the Great Pyramid in Egypt and about 3,800 working days will be required to complete the undertaking. It is estimated that the receipts will be from passengers, £880,000; from freight, £300,000; from mail, £50,000, or £1,230,000 in all. Expenses at 40 per cent, £468,000, leaving £732,000, which is equal to 7½ per cent. on £10,000,000 capital. The lecturer alluded at some length to the opposition the project had received from the people and concluded amid general applause.—New York World, April 18.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S GREAT AGE

No Sovereign Known to Have Sat on a Throne at His Years.

Long reigns are rare in history, long royal lives much rarer still. Princes occupy one of the lowest levels in the whole range of longevity. The air of courts is destructive of health, nerve and vigor. Lives which early corrupting luxurious and effeminate habits, unchecked passions and unceasing excitement do not moderate, are frequently shortened by consuming ambition or care, warlike toil and peril, or the murderous hand of conspiracy. Among the remarkably long reigns in history are those of Uzziah of Judah, 52 years; Mithridates of Pontus, 57; Sapor II. of Persia, 71; Alfonso I. of Portugal, 73; Frederick III. of Germany, 99; Christian IV. of Denmark, 60; Louis XIV. of France, 72; George III. of England, 59; Ferdinand IV. of Naples, 66, and Pedro II. of Brazil, 54 till now. But Uzziah was a youth when he was placed on the throne, Mithridates a boy, Sapor a new-born babe, Alfonso an infant, Christian 11 years old, Louis 4, Ferdinand 9 and Pedro 5, and of all the monarchs mentioned only George III. reached the age of four score. Poland had one king who reached the age of 88, Stanislas Lesnczynski, but he reigned only five years, and survived his throne fifty six years, living in quiet retirement. We must go back to the days of antiquity to find William I.'s royal peers in age, and the only ones we discover are Hiero II. of Syracuse, and Masinissa of Numidia, both of whom ended their reign at the age of 80. The reign of Ramses II., Pharaoh of Egypt—the Sesostris of the Greeks—lasted between Sparus Gppolopsis to have lasted about sixty-seven years, and his life about 100, but others reduce both his reign and his days somewhat proportions. Thus, no Emperor known to history, no reigning King or Christendom, ever reached the age of William I. On the age boasts of this extraordinary royal life, as it does of the only Pontiffs, that of Pius IX., which exceeded the term of St. Peter. And Boalin, which still often sees its emperor living on horseback, also saw in 1859 Alexander Von Humboldt give the last touches to his "Kosmos" in his 90th year; Ranmer, in 1872, officiate as professor in his 92nd; Field Marshal Wrangel, in 1877, walk in stress in his 94th, and Ranke, in 1881, round the first part of a universal history, intended to embrace eighteen volumes, in his 86th. Moltke, who is not yet 82, must thus appear to the German capital and nation as a man still available for action for many a year to come.

Child Christened on a Man of War.

A novel christening ceremony took place on the receiving ship Wabash, at the Charlestown Navy Yard, on Thursday afternoon. The little one was Helen Josephine, daughter of Captain J. R. Miller, commander of the Wabash. The ship was decorated with flags and bunting, and all the officers and their families were present, as was also the crew of the ship. A shield, composed of navy revolvers fantastically arranged, appeared in an appropriate place, with the initials, "H. J. M." The captain of the vessel was used as a stand for the baptismal font, and was elegantly decorated with flowers. The water in the font was from the River of Jordan, Holy Land. The Rev. Dr. Lamson, of St. John's Church, Charlestown, conducted the services, and Mr and Mrs James B. Tabs, of Baltimore acted as sponsors. After the ceremony the child's feet were placed in earth brought from Maryland, the birthplace of the mother. Mrs Miller was in mourning for her mother. The child was born on the ship and has never been off it. Captain Miller leaves soon to take charge of the Tennessee.

The Sadiest of Sad Sights.

The saddest of sad sights—the grey hairs of age being brought with sorrow to the grave is now, we are glad to think, becoming rarer every year as the use of Cingalese Hair Restorer becomes more general. By its use the scanty locks of age once more restore their former colour and the hair becomes thick and luxuriant as ever; with its aid we can now defy the change of years, trusting assured that no grey hair at any rate will come to sadden us. Sold at Wade's Drug Store at 50 cents per bottle.

CLEANING HORSES BY STEAM.

A Whirling Brush that Does its Work Swiftly.

A curious machine, which cleans horses by steam, is in daily use at the Third avenue railroad stables, replacing the curry comb. Its standard rate is 100 horses in ten hours, but yesterday it cleaned 122 between 7:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.; with an hour's intermission for dinner. To test it, extra speed was put on, and one horse was cleaned in 1m. 15s., and more thoroughly than by the ordinary process. The horse is led under a "bay," built which depends on each side of him arch with universal joints. Twining on the arch are brushes in the form of curry combs. These are revolved by steam through the arch and cross bar at the ordinary rate of 800 revolutions a minute, which can be increased to 1,000. A man on each side takes hold of the arm close to the brush and applies the brush to the horse. The steam that whirls the brush makes a noise a good deal like the blowing of an hostler. The universal joints allow the arms and brushes to be moved in any direction. Beginning at the head, the men move the brush along the sides, back and belly, and down the legs of the horse to the feet. A shower of dust arises in the air, and in two minutes the horse looks like a different creature. The horses were a little nervous a first, but after a few seconds all appeared to be pleased with the operation. At the Third Avenue Railroad stables it takes six men 134 hours to clean or half clean 120 horses by the ordinary process. If the steam brush is passed over the horse at a moderate speed once, each square inch is actually brushed more than if an ordinary brush had been passed over it 400 times. The dust settles on the floor, accumulates rapidly and is shovelled into a wheelbarrow and carried away.—N.Y. Sun.

Heroic Treatment of a Snake Bite

Joe Ludlum, the idiot confined in the county manual labor poor house, was bitten by a rattlesnake last Saturday on the forefinger of the left hand, the fangs penetrating both sides of the finger. Almost three minutes after the bite was inflicted Mr Symington, wife of the superintendent, split the finger on both sides with a razor, poured a small quantity of powder into the wound and set fire to it. She then applied ammonia, and also gave ammonia and whiskey internally until the man became drunk. This was a very brave act for a lady to do, and it saved the poor man's life. On Sunday the arm and hand were swollen three times the natural size, but yesterday the swelling had all gone down and Ludlum is now all right again. The snake was killed and four rattles were taken off.—San Antonio (Texas) Express, April 13.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets and Tins (½lb and lb.), labelled—"James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng." Also makers of Epps's Chocolate Essence for afternoon use.

Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Kidney, Liver or Urinary Diseases.

Have no fear of any of these diseases if you use Hop Bitters, as they will prevent and cure the worst cases, even when you have been made worse by some great puffed up pretended cures.

Testimony of an Eminent Physician

The proofs which authenticated the claims of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites to be regarded as the finest pulmonic in use, emanate in many instances from physicians of eminence. Dr. J. Cutlis, of St. Thomas, writes as follows

"During ten years of active practice, I have had occasion to prescribe Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Since your preparation came under my notice, I have tried it, and take great pleasure in saying that it has given great satisfaction and it is to be preferred to any I have ever used or recommended. I have used it in my own family during heavy colds, and in every instance a happy result has followed. I cheerfully recommend its use in all cases of debility arising from weakness of the muscular or nervous system."

What can be more convincing than this. Here is a professional man of long practice and high reputation bearing direct and positive testimony to the value of a remedy which he has thoroughly tested. Who can res I and doubt? Assuredly no one of common sense.

This matchless specific for throat and lung diseases is also most serviceable in scrofulous cases. Purchasers should be careful to observe that each wrapper has a fac-similie of the firm's signature upon it. Prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Canada.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you distressed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the agonizing pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once to a druggist and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, reduces all inflammation, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. DEAD AT LAST.

Demise of the Oldest Man in the United States.

[El Paso (Texas) Times.]

Last Monday Santiago Ortiz, of Yeleta, perhaps the oldest man in the United States, was called to his eternal home. He was called the "Toonman," and his death is worthy of more than a passing notice. He was thought to be one hundred and thirteen years old, and up to the time of his death was remarkably strong and active. As an evidence of sprightliness and vigor it is told of him that one occasion last year he dashed to cross the river. For fear his "horse" might be swept to the bank of swimming the river and bearing him as a burden on his back, the old gentleman boldly plunged into the stream, and, holding on to his halter rope, led his "burro," followed by his wife, and both of them swam the river, each "on his own hook." Don Santiago Ortiz was a guide for the king of Spain prior to 1820, and before Mexico had gained her independence and shaken off Spanish rule. He was familiar with the country from the Missouri river to the Alps of Mexico, and was well known by all Americans who have lived on the frontier for the past fifty years. He was one of the original tribe of Pueblo Indians, and was only a son to mourn his death. The old gentleman was a devout Catholic, and a few days before his death he visited the priest at his residence and told him that he felt that God was near at hand. He wished to make his peace with his God and die. He received the sacraments, and was buried according to the rites of the church. "Toonman" was possessed of great strength and agility, and even after he had passed the centennial milestone would climb among his friends by exhibitions most astonishing for one of his years.

Gen. Orrin L. Mann, Sheriff of Chicago, writes—"Some time ago I was troubled with rheumatism. Every one was free with his sympathy and suggestions, but nothing relieved me of the severe pain. I had read the testimonials of people I knew, and was cured by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, and I thought I would test it. The first application worked wonders, and I was not long a sufferer. I am free to say that what little show that malady has been brought into contact with the great Pain Panacea."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Health or Wealth.—No same person would hesitate an instant in the choice between these two conditions. Now is the season to secure the former either by restoring or confirming it. Many of the spurious imperfectly from the system which lags, foul vapours, and variable temperatures engender during winter. This medicine also acts most wholesomely upon the skin by disgorging the liver of its accumulated bile, and by exciting the kidneys to more energetic action; it increases the appetite for food and strengthens the digestive process. The stomach and liver, with which most disorders originate, are fully under the control of these regenerative Pills, which act very kindly, yet most efficiently, on the tenderest bowels.

* * *

There is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonic of acknowledged efficacy. It cures lameness and soreness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses the most substantial claims to public confidence.

John Hays, Credit P.O., says: "His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and, although three months have elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."
