SAMARITAN NERVINE.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Spasmodic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Epilepsy, Hysteria, Neuralgia, Sleeplessness, Paralysis, Impotence, Nervous Headache and Nervous Prostration. This medicine is not a sedative, but a nutritive, and is entirely free from all opiates. It produces healthful sleep, and cures the worst cases from whatever cause, never to return again. It is entirely vegetable, and cures all diseases by neutralizing the poisonous matter in poisons in the system, and thoroughly establishes the disease, and utterly destroys the cause.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Female Weakness, General Debility, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Falling and Displacements of the Womb, Irregularity, Sterility, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, For Wakefulness of Infants, Sleep is the great restorer. During the change of life no Female should be without it. It quiets the Nervous System and gives rest, comfort and return's sweet sleep.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures' Alcoholism, Drunkenness and the habit of Opium Eating. These deprivations has led one to the worst evils that have ever been inflicting humanity. Thousands die annually from morphine dodge. The morphine habit fools not understand the effects of Opium Eating, Morphine and breaking the chains, little thinking that he is on his road to ruin. Like the Opium Eater, he first uses the drug in small quantities as a harmless anodyne. The soothing influence of the drug takes strong hold upon its victim, leading him on to his own destruction. The habits of Opium Eating and Liquor Drinking are precisely what a drug to the stimulant-drunk, as poor-eating fast influence into stimulants, which extension of nervous recoil of lowering of nervous tone, and the prostration of the system, or desire of some or opium, instead of satisfying only adds to the desire for more, and it commences the vital force and thus itself. Like the gluttonous tapeworm, it could "cries, give, give" for more, nourishing until the core equally devours itself. SAMARITAN NERVINE gives immediate relief, and in most cases, produces sleep, quiets the nerves, builds up the nervous system, and restores body and mind to a healthy condition.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Nervous Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sciatica, Syphilis, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all diseases of the urinary organs, Nervous debility, caused by the indiscretions of youth, permanently cured by the use of this invaluable remedy. KODERICK MACLEAN.

The Would-be Assassin of the Queen.

As he stood there, with his hands rattling on the rail, it was impossible not to be struck by an overwhelming sense of contrast between the magnitude of the attempted crime and the insignificance of its would-be perpetrator. This was attested by the surroundings. On the bench, resplendent in gold and ermine, are two of the highest judges in the land. Below them was gathered an array of forensic talent that might fairly be styled overwhelming, including as it did the Attorney General, the Solicitor General, Mr Pywell, Q.C., Mr Poland, and Mr A. L. Smyth. All around, several hundred spectators, most of them of high local standing, and their eyes riveted with one common accord on the absorbing object of interest, the prisoner in the dock. And the very dock itself helped to maintain this impression. It ran right across the Court, and could easily have accommodated half a score of prisoners and their attendant guardians. And now it seemed absurdly spacious to hold the one slender, shambling figure, clad in a dirty, dingy overcoat the original hue of which was problematic, but which time and dirt had turned to what may be best described as a muddy greenish grey. Above the stained and worn velvet collar of this garment with no intervening trace of linen rose a thin neck, surmounted by a haggard-looking head covered with a badly-cut crop of coarse black hair. The facial angle announced a creature of the lowest type of intelligence. The hard grey eyes down in a point in the centre of the narrow retreating forehead, with its pent-house brows, from beneath which two restless, shifty eyes rolled continually in their cavernous sockets. The cheek bones were high, the complexion unhealthy and sallow. A scanty stubby beard clothed the cheeks, the chin and lips, but failed to hide the weakness of the mouth. All through the day nervous twitches continued to course across the prisoner's countenance, now distorting the upper and anon the lower part of his features and some of those who had witnessed him undergoing the preliminary examination at Windsor declared that he looked weaker, both physically and mentally, than on that occasion.—London Standard.

Siberia Overrun With Mice.

After all, the Czar's not to have it all his own way in Asia. While a dell world has been imagining that the Russian Government was taking no steps to prevent that commotion, the whole office of the Russian Empire is, it appears, on the point of collapse. With an amount of astuteness that does him every credit, Lord Ripon has kept silent on the matter, but the Calcutta Englishman at last lets the cat—or rather the mice—out of the bag. These are English allies in the grand work of staying the course of Russian aggression. Afghan tulip might be preachers, and to mention its continuous Persian and does not want for much, the Chinese would probably not appear in the field until a few years after the struggle had terminated. As for the Turkomans, what tribe have we to offer those predacious people compared to that blissful loathing of Islam which Russia could dangle before their eyes? An ally had plainly to be looked for in some new quarter, and, almost without the looking this kind friend has already appeared. Our Calcutta contemporary reports that countless myriads of Indian mice have made their way to South Eastern Siberia, plundering granaries and destroying crops wherever they go. On they march, relentless, remorseless, through Fergana, through Semirechinsk, and right up to the shores of Lake Baikal. The affrighted people know not what to do to stem the devastating deluge, and even the dauntless Russian warriors turn pale when the cry goes forth, "The mice are coming." Some was saved by genes, perhaps history will hereafter relate how the English Empire, after being very nearly lost by human geese, was saved by mice.—London Globe.

Burke, late Under Secretary.

Thomas H. Burke, late Under Secretary, has long been a marked man, and was perhaps the most unpopular official in Ireland. He was a Roman Catholic, of the County Galway, aged 52, and heir to the Barcooty of Burke of Gipock. He was a grandnephew of the late Cardinal Wiseman and was educated at the Roman Catholic College of Oscott, of which that eminent divine was for some time President. On leaving Oscott in 1847, he was appointed, at the age of eighteen, to a clerkship in the Chief Secretary's office, by his country man, Sir Thomas Redington, the then Under Secretary, and commenced his career of unpopularity by being the boy who opened Sergeant O'Hime's portmanteau in 1848 and ransacked his private letters. He continued to improve on this auspicious beginning, and made himself so generally and unscrupulously useful that on the retirement of Capt. Larcom he was appointed Under Secretary, a position he has since filled. Of course, the succeeding Chief Secretaries being almost entirely dependent on the permanent Secretary for coaching in their duties, at all events at the start, as the Foreign and Colonial Secretaries are on the permanent Secretaries in their departments, Mr Burke was in a large measure the controlling power in the government of Ireland. He it was who directed all the Fenian prosecutions in 1866-67, and compelled the temporary retirement of that movement. He had been during the last two years the adviser and chief executive officer of Mr Forster, had received repeated warnings and threatenings, and had been under the close protection of the police. Probably the belief that the release of the suspects and the opening of a more conciliatory course would bring him personal safety tempted him to take that fatal unprotected evening walk. Doubtless the men who murdered him had contemplated the assassination of Mr Forster, but finding that he had unexpectedly eluded their knife, they turned it against his favourite and most obnoxious opponent. Brilliant Scientific Triumph.

ST JEANNE AND ENGLAND

It is now recognized by the leading medical man that Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer is the most wonderful invention of the age for the cure of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all lung diseases. After lasting from mid to the leading hospitals, it was proved that 75 per cent. of these diseases, by many called incurable, can be cured by the Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts effected. This discovery is proving a blessing to humankind and a credit to his name. Many persons in the city of Montreal, and all over the Dominion, have been cured of the above diseases. Below are a few of the many hundreds—

Ms. C. Hill, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis.

Ms. D. DeBoucherville, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured.

Ms. Geo. Auer, Ottawa, catarrh and lung diseases; cured.

Mas Smith, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh.

Geo. Maurice, Toronto, 482 Adelaide street West, daughter cured of asthma.

Robert Gayet, of Gault Bros., Montreal, cured of a bad case of bronchitis.

Geo. Willis, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis.

John Dunn, 8 Robert street, Toronto, bronchitis.

J. D. Armstrong, 186 Yonge street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness.

Thomas Tellier, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma.

Ms Benj. A. Drake, St. Urbain street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Ms Hunter, a student of McGill College, who suffered from chest disease, is now cured. Also the case of Ms Ms Brazo, 114 Cathedral street, daughter of Mr David Perrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

Thousands more could be given, but the above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. Call or write, inclosing stamp, to M. Souvielle, Aide-Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Philips Square Montreal. Physicians and sufferers can try it free.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Enfeebled Existence. This medicine embraces every attribute required in a general and domestic medicine. It overturns the foundations of disease laid by defective food and impure air. In obstructions or congestions of the liver, lungs, stomach, or any other organs, these Pills are especially service-able and eminently successful. They should be kept in readiness in every family, as they are a medicine without a fault for young persons and those of feeble constitutions. They never cause pain, or irritate the most sensitive nerves, or make tender bowels. Holloway's Pills are the best known purifiers of the blood, and the best promoters of absorption and secretion, and remove all poisonous and obnoxious particles from both solids and fluids.

Jos Beaudie, M.D., Hull, P.Q., writes: Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil commands a large and increasing sale, which it richly merits. I have always found it exceedingly helpful. I use it in all cases of rheumatism, as well as fractures and dislocations. I make use of it myself to calm the pain and to hasten healing with dislocation of the foot, and in two days I was entirely relieved from pain.
