WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION.

The nominations throughout the country yesterday afford indications of the disaster which is coming upon the Reform party. Blake directed his followers not to allow any Conservative to be returned un-opposed. Nevertheless,as men do not care to enter a hopeless struggle, no less than seventeen Conservatives have been elected by acclamation, namely Kirkpatrick in Frontenac, Haggart in South Lanark, Wright in Ottawa county, Longe in Dorchester, Abbott in Argenteuil, Grandbois in Temiscouata, Mousseau in Bagot, Bergeron in Beauharnois, Riopel in Bonaventure, Tupper in Cumberland, Guimet in Laval, Metetit in Nicolet, Mitchell in Northumberland, Ives in Richmond, Q., Hall in Sherbrooke, Daoust in Two Mountains, and Costigan in Victoria, N.B., while a single Liberal, Bechard in Iberville, has been allowed such an easy triumph. All the Liberal leaders will be strenuously opposed, and there is a fair chance that several of them will be defeated. The Conservative ministers, on the other hand, are sure of an easy election.

POLITICAL SUBSERVIENCY.

Mr McKelvey was a Protectionist in 1878, and left his former friends and supported Sir John. The N. P. was carried out. Mr McKelvey says he is still a Protectionist, but, mirable dictu! he now opposes the party who gave the country this protective policy and has renewed his allegiance to the party who then did all they could to defeat it. He supports Mr Mackenzie, who declares the N. P. to be a "crime," and, by consequence, Mr McKelvey a "national criminal." He supports Sir Richard Cartwright, who brands the N. P. as "legalized robbery," and its supporters, including Mr McKelvey, as "legalized robbers." The servile character of such allegiance is worthy only of the spaniel that licks the rod that whips it. Perhaps he thinks that the N. P. is so solidly established that it is impossible to be shaken, and that the corporal's guard of Grits that will go to Ottawa will be helpless to assail it. But suppose all the friends of the N. P. were to do as Mr McKelvey is doing, it might well cry "save me from my friends."

GANANOQUE MANUFACTURERS.

The Whig of last evening charged us with misrepresentation in announcing that Messrs Brough and Byers, two prominent manufacturers of Gananoque had seceded from the Grit ranks and would support the National policy. Once more our contemporary is little too fast and rushes at conclusions without sufficient grounds on which to base those conclusions. Because Mr William Brough informs it that he is still opposed to the N. P., and has not seceded from the Grit ranks, it immediately brands our statement as a misrepresentation, unawares, apparently, that Gananoque contains several gentlemen bearing the name "Brough." The facts are that Mr Robert Brough approves of the N. P., and the Government's position on the Boundary Award and Streams Bill. He says that Mowat's Streams Bill is the most injurious piece of legislation ever attempted to be enacted. Mr Wm. Byers, of Gananoque, is a prominent Conservative manufacturer, his brother Robert, who is his partner and has been a life long Grit, now abandons the Grit party and supports the N. P. candidate in South Leeds.

Will the Whig inform us if Mr K. C. Cook, of Gananoque, woollen manufacturer, has not abandoned the Grit party?

ACCEPTING THE VERDICT.

Mr C. F. Gildersleve in his speech at the nomination yesterday gave away the whole case when he said that his party had decided to accept the verdict of the people given in 1878 in favour of protection. Mr Gildersleve in effect admits that his party were wrong then when they bitterly opposed and derided the N. P. Why then does he not give his support now to the other party which most consequently have been in the right? But no, he proposes to purloin Sir John's policy in the mean and after putting on a little patch here and clipping off a corner there, to trick it out as a "true National Policy." He believes with one of Shakespeare's characters that "Every true man's apparel fits your thief." But let us remind him that the donkey who donned the lion's skin still remained the donkey that he was and his long ears and unmusical voice soon betrayed him. He is but a dim sighted and purblind elector who cannot see through the trick of the Grits in Kingston and other manufacturing places pretending to support the N. P. But suppose Mr Gunn did go to Ottawa yesterday in his newly appropriated clothes, forsooth, how would he look standing beside Mr Alexander McKenzie clad in his original uncompromising anti-policy garb and with Mr Blake with two sides to his coat, one for Ontario of an N.P. hue and the other for the Maritime Provinces of a most decided free trade colours. Shakespeare's clown looking at them might well cry "Motley's all they wear." Mr McKenzie has the credit of being straightforward at least and saying squarely the thing he means, and he denounces the N. P. as "a national folly and a national crime. Mr Blake tells the people down by the sea that their natural market is the United States. In Ontario he is in favour of a home market. What monstrous material of which to form a Government. It was said of old "a house divided against itself cannot stand." What hope then would there be in the stability of the Grit structure if they really were in earnest in their several expressed doctrines? We think the electors will see that these professions of friendship for the N. P. are insincere and only for election purposes, and that once reinstated in office the other would be like the dancing master's, "round corners and back to place." There is a little fable told of a wolf that had long been anxious to enter a well protected sheepfold but unsuccessful, owing to the vigilance of the faithful watch-dogs, until he hit on the device of pretending to be a true friend of his woolly neighbors, and having thus won their easy confidence induced them to dismiss the dogs. The poor sheep had soon bitter cause to regret their action, for before their bleating could reunionm their guardians many of them were devoured by their false friend. Electors beware.

THOSE MARINE INTERESTS.

"Your vessels, and your spoils, provide, Your charms, and everything beside.

"Shall raise such artificial spirits, As, by the strength of their illusion, Shall draw him on to his destruction."

Our local contemporary has abandoned the ten per cent interest. The truth is too much for him. Why then, access as of "calling bad names." It still persists in calling Mr Gunn the owner of the vessels in question, and does so to carry his point that he is rolling in riches and Dr. Sullivan is not. At the same time he knows that Mr W. Fraser is the registered owner of the Singapore, Bangalore and Hyderabad, and that they are mortgaged to A. Gunn & Co. for about $40,000, with interest at the trifling rate of 10 p.c. It is well known that A. Gunn & Co. do not assume ownership of those vessels, because it relieves them of all responsibility in cases of losses to, or actions against, the vessels, and so they allow Mr Fraser to register them as his property. Our contemporary knows all this, and yet persists in calling Mr Gunn the owner and asks that people suffer Mr. Fraser to be called the merchant, sailor and boarder should do all they can to increase the majority of the people's candidate by voting for Dr. Sullivan is not. CAMPAIGN NOTES

What has Mr William Irving to say to Mr McKelvey's N P proclivities. Mr Irving as an uncompromising and advanced Free Trader. How can he now work in harness with a mate who is pulling in the opposite direction? The electors should ask themselves if in the face of the enemy the Grit forces are divided against each other what confusion of dissension may be expected to result when the now partially smothered fires of conflicting theories are allowed full sway?

It is urged that the protection cotton and woollen goods are dearer than they would be without the N P. Is it a fact? It matters not what, according to certain theories, it should be, "facts are" in the question. The answer is "No." Mr Mair, of the Colonial woollen mills, says in his evidence "The prices of all woollen goods will were such that he could say they were never cheaper. The tariff had no increase of prices."

As to cottons, Senator McInnes, a competent authority, stated "I think the consumer is getting cotton goods cheaper than he would without the N P, and the time is coming when we will secure these goods still cheaper."

Mr Joseph Tweed, of the Stormont Cotton Mills, says "There was a better demand for cotton goods for which the manufacturer got the same prices as before the tariff, notwithstanding that cotton and wages had increased."

And of not this the experience of house-keepers in Kingston. A city goods merchant in that city states that customers are getting cottons cheaper than they would but for the tariff.

Take shoetings for example. They were quoted in Boston last week at 30c cents. Add 17c per cent (the old tariff) and the price land down here, without adding any thing for freight or profit to dealers, would be 35 1-2c. Our own mills are holding raising the same article at 29c cents, or 5 1-2c cents cheaper than they would have been under the old tariff.

It is said that Mr Allison the tariff monster in Lennox, cannot easily forget the taste of the oath of allegiance to the United States.
