Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic properties in medicine, in proportions not established to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They have the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual, yet not discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are especially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive organs, initiate processes, and restore a healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and throughout nations in our proofs of their value as a safe, sure and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an efficient cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Erysipelas and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these Pills are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed. Cases have given pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs, thereby enabling to purify and enrich the blood and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Richard Wagner's Success.

When he was a boy he resolved to write poetry like Shakespeare's and marry it to music like Beethoven's. Of all the composers since Beethoven the two who have made the deepest impression upon the art of their time are Wagner and Berlioz, and it is a curious fact that both trace to Shakespeare their earliest directing impulse. Both appeared at a time when a sudden ardor for the English poet blazed in France and Germany. It was the era of revolt against pseudo-classic and red heels, when Dumas and Victor Hugo were disturbing Paris with the first dramas of the romantic school, and the plays of Shakspeare were acted and transported in a flood-light before the audiences of the Boulevards. Berlioz fasting has in an access, wrote his "Romeo and Juliet," and married an Irish Hyhelia. Wagner bought an English dictionary, and falling fortunately upon "Lear and Hamlet," compounded a trilogy in which Lear's two pet ways were sharpened and made to them had become back and hate become Hamlet's. Everything that was most characteristic in Shakspeare's genius was grafted upon Hoffmann's fairy romance, and the result was a music-drama of Berlioz's precisely what he says that he has aimed at in his musical theory.

But he succeeds. He has compelled people to come to his opera and to be interested in it. He has made the Shakspeare idea, which is so deeply affected by his criticism of Mendelssohn, and at last he is forcing his way into the central position in business and politics he now holds. Coming to a personal matter, we should mention that Mr Metcalfe was formerly subject to extreme soreness of the chest, for which, as he himself says, "I had no remedy but Dr. Jacobs Oil, the great German Remedy." In the following letter Mr Metcalfe gives evidence of his appreciation. "I take great pleasure in stating that I used St. Jacobs Oil for extreme soreness of the chest, and found it to be an excellent remedy. I would ask for whatever I can for Sinus its safety, price, as a family remedy it certainly has no equal."

Midshipman DeChair

The Canadian boy now in prison at Cairo comes of a good Canadian stock, with which all who know the eastern townships are well acquainted. His father, Captain DeChair, was one of the most popular officers of the Sherbrooke regiment of militia. His mother was a daughter of the hospitable family of Hawson, well known and loved by all, whose fat has been cast in the miniature Oxford of Lennoville. Entering the British navy as, of course, a superior career to anything that Canada could afford, young DeChair has been captured and, in the not unnatural exasperation of feeling in Egypt, runs some risk of his life.—World.

An Ethereal Mammock

Once upon a time Sarah Bernhardt, while travelling, arrived at a hotel which was so poor that the manager declared himself unable to give her sleeping accommodation. Only one room was left, and that, too, was a small one, and the sofa, photographically, that hammock will do.

The hammock was "hung in chains" with a hammock in the house. Oh, that's that's a Jewish Figure.

How to Get Along

Pay as you go
Never fool in business matters
Learn to think and act for yourself.
Do not think everyone is your pay.
Do not stop to tell stories during business hours.
Keep ahead of rather than behind the times.
Always use your brains rather than those of others.
A man of honour respects his word as he does his bond.
Do not meddle in business of which you know nothing.
No man can get rich by sitting around stores and saloons.
If you have a place of business be found there when wanted.
Have habits of order, system, regularity, and work, and do it.
Move in one line—that is, mind your own business.
Be civil to everybody.
Be honest and honest.
Be sure you are right, then go ahead.
Be what you appear to be.

A White Man Slashed and Cut by a Coloured Barber

A message to Lake St. Anthony at murder was made this afternoon. A coloured barber named Edward Stubbs employed on the railroad from and Sioux City, engaged a white waiting for the barber shop, and while waiting for that purpose stepped into one of the many saloons at the place, and there noticed a friend of the white man playing cards with a coloured barber named Edward McGubbins passed some remarks to the effect that he had better stop playing cards with the negro. This led to words, and the white man, fearing a death, ran from the saloon to the barber shop, near at hand, and, seizing a razor, cut the coloured man in the face. He was standing on the front platform, and jumping upon him commenced to cut and slash his victim in a terrible manner. McGubbins fell to the platform, and the enraged barber bending over seized him by the hair, and, pulling his victim's head back, was about to cut his throat from ear to ear, when his hand was stayed by a bystander.

The would be murderer wrenched himself from the grasp of the bystander and fled down the track. Officer Newland, who was close at hand, leaped into the road and pursued him a few distance, and at length effected his capture, and conveyed him to the South Chicago jail, where he is now confined.

McGubbins, who is a young unmarried man, was overtaken by the station-house, and there attended by Dr. Otis. He is terribly cut, slashed and covered with blood, and one of the razor gashes extended some 15 inches. It is thought that he will die.
