The press of London generally approve of the treaty between China and England, recently concluded by Lord Clarendon and Prince Kungame.

London, Jan. 4.—A writer in the London Times of to-day discusses the present situation of France. He says the year ends with a most precarious peace the world ever knew, pronounces M. Rouher a Maire du Palais, notices the growth of democratic sentiment in France, and declares that the Emperor must either check the press or abandon personal government.

Chicago, January 4.—John McDevitt on Christmas day wrote to Phelan and Callender of New York, surrendering to them the champion billiard cue of America, in order that it may henceforth be competed for with the pool shot barred. McDevitt now challenges any player in the world to compete for the golden cue at $5,000 a side—game, 15,000 or 20,000 points, and winner of four pocket standard table—balk line balk. Challenge remains open 30 days.

Savannah, Jan. 4.—The trouble on the Georgia railroad growed on the military taking hold.

Over a hundred newsboys of Montreal were treated to an excellent supper on New Year's day in Union Hall, Craig Street. The boys themselves paid five cents each to pay for their supper. A number of friends who are desirous of establishing a Newsboys' Home were present, and some smart exertions were required to keep order. A table was spread with cakes, sandwiches, and fruit, and each boy was served with coffee. For an hour or two afterwards, they were entertained with songs, recitations, and music. Between the various exercises, a newsboy would get up, and give a song or dance, which in every case was uproariously received, and upon his song of "King Theodore" creating a sensation.

The rabbit has multiplied so rapidly in Australia that he disputes the herbage with the great landed owners or squatters as they are called—what concerns them is the extermination of the intruder. They see their sheep runs devoured by millions of rabbits, who baffle the attempts to destroy them. The best proof of the magnitude of the evil may be gathered from a statement of one stock owner—that he had already expended £5,000 stg. in his efforts to eradicate the pests, and that he must incur the expenditure of another £5,000 before he will be able to overcome them.

The liability of express companies has recently been considered in the supreme court of England—the case being one in which an action of the Adams Express company agreed to convey a certain amount of money from Baltimore to California. During the transfer $600 were lost, and suit was brought to recover it from the carriers. The receipt given by the express company contained the usual printed condition seeking to limit their liability, but it did not be shown that the attention of the shipper had been called to it, or that he agreed to be bound by such notice. On the contrary it was proved that the company agreed to carry the money "through to destination," and the court held that this imposed the necessity of delivering the money at the risk of the carriers.

The Rev. W. K. Macrorie, Bishop-designate of Grahamstown, has left England for South Africa. The consecration of Mr Macrorie will take place in Cape Town by the Bishop of that diocese, at which the newly consecrated bishop will proceed in the same as that of Natal, the new name having been given in order to obviate collision with the title of Dr. Colenso bears by authority from the Crown. There will thus be presented the strange and discreditable sight of two rival bishops within the same diocese, each claiming the submission of the clergy and laity of the Anglican communion within its limits. The one, Dr. Colenso, relying upon the Royal Letters Patent which he holds, and whose legal validity are admitted by the English and Colonial courts; the other sustained by the commission he will receive from the Metropolitan of South Africa. There is too much reason to fear that under these circumstances the strife and divisions already existing in Natal will be perpetuated and intensified.

DEATH OF THE REV. Dr. COOKE OF BELFAST.

The Rev. Dr. Cooke, the great Presbyterian divine and Conservative leader, died on Sunday—as we learn from the Northern Whig—at the patriarchal age of 83 years. He was one of the ablest and most popular men in the Presbyterian Church, and up to the last hour of his life exercised great personal influence. At one period he was a formidable political power in Ulster. He was an eloquent and impressive speaker when in the full enjoyment of his faculties, and vindicated his principles with indomitable resolution. The Established Church has lost in him a generous ally, who, under all circumstances, made common cause with her, and by his unremitting efforts mitigated the jealousies with which his brother ministers were disposed to regard a dominant Church, and promoted a cordial sympathy on the part of the laity. He took a prominent part in some of the most remarkable demonstrations on behalf of the Church Establishment, and at the great Hillsborough meeting, in 1834, he was one of the principal speakers. At the Hillsborough meeting last year he was induced to come forward, but was the merest shadow of his former self, the fire of his oratory having burnt out, and the once erect and dignified form presenting a lamentable wreck. He seemed but a living mummy, and yet he hesitated not to attend, in order with his last public breath to renew the profession of his early attachment to the Conservative cause. His benevolent and kindly disposition disarmed the hostility of many who strongly disapproved his political views, and won many personal friends. He was born in Londonderry in 1784, and was educated at Glasgow. The University of Dublin conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. in acknowledgment of his talents. He also had the degree of D.D. from an American college. He held a high position in the Belfast theological institution, and was the officer appointed by the Government to distribute the Regium Donum.

EXTRAORDINARY PROCEEDINGS IN LOWER CANADA.

A few weeks ago D. Bogart, a paymaster, clerk on board of the receiving ship Vermont, lying in the Navy Yard, New York, absconded with a large sum of money. Mr Kennedy, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police, New York, sent descriptions all over the country, at the same time offering a reward of $1,000 for his apprehension. A man answering the description arrived with a horse and sleigh at Cookshire, and put up at Mr Bailey's Hotel. He being satisfied that this was the individual wanted, telegraphed to New York. Apparently taking the alarm, the man made off, but Mr Munkittrick, a magistrate at Dudswell, who had learned of the reward offered and the whereabouts of the individual, issued a warrant for his arrest, although no crime was charged, as the notice contained no information beyond the fact of a reward being offered for his apprehension. The warrant was duly executed, and the prisoner brought before the magistrate. On the arrival of parties to identify him the magistrate stated that he had let him go, there being no charge against him. Mr Cunningham, the bailiff who made the arrest, however, states that Mr Munkittrick issued the warrant of his own mere motion, no information being laid by any one, and that the prisoner on paying over a sum of about $4,500 was allowed to depart, the bailiff having received $500, and three of the magistrate's sons $500 each. In addition to this, one of Mr Munkittrick's sons had driven prisoner off with the horse and sleigh in which he had arrived, and after taking him to the journey's end, he had brought back the horse, sleigh, buffaloes, &c, to his father's house, where they still are. Young Munkittrick says the individual whom he drove off on sale him a present of the "team" and paid him besides. He states that he conveyed him to the nearest railway station, but this has been discovered to be a falsehood. The officer in pursuit of Bogart applied to have a warrant issued based upon an affidavit which was offered to be made, but the magistrate refused to act, or to give up the horse and sleigh in his possession. Cunningham, the bailiff, appears to have given every information in his power, and handed over the $500 he had received, which he had put carefully past, expecting, as he stated, that the rightful owner would turn up. If the statements we have received are borne out by the evidence, it would appear that irregularities are practised in Canada, which could not easily be exceeded by any Indiana mob.—Montreal Herald.

Liverpool, Jan. 5.—The steamship Nestorian arrived to-day.

The London Advertiser says:—"It is notorious that of all the burglaries, robberies and acts of violence that have been committed in the city within the past two years, not a single conviction has followed and scarcely an arrest been made."

Burglars at Hudson, on the night of the 20th, after robbing the American Express Company's safe of $12,000, burned the City Hotel buildings, in which the express office was located. The fire also destroyed the residence of James L. Smith.

The unusual warmth of the past fall and early winter, in Montana, has brought myriads of young grasshoppers into permature existence. The cold weather will destroy them, of course, and the farmers expect to be free from their depredations next season.

Congressman Beck, of Kentucky, has telegraphed to General Breckinridge, now in Canada, to return at once to the United States. Jacob Thompson, M. Mason and General Early, are expected to return at the same time.
