WHAT SHALL THE MORMONS DO?

As the great questions of the war and of reconstruction are disposed of, the repugnance of the country to Mormon polygamy and Mormon theocracy once more comes to the front, and gives notice that it will soon insist on decisive action.

Two bills against the Mormons are now pending in Congress. One, offered in the Senate by Mr Cragin of New Hampshire, provides that only citizens of the United States shall be competent to act as grand or petit jurors; that no man shall take to himself more than one wife; that all commissions and appointments, both civil and military, granted by Brigham Young shall cease and have no effect after the first of next year; that it shall be unlawful for the officers or members of the Church of Latter Day Saints to grant divorces or solemnize marriages; that all the acts and ordinances of Brigham's Government, done in the name of the Church as trustee, covering lands and streams of the Territory, and which in any way interfere with the absolute disposal of the soil by the United States, are disapproved and annulled; and that no restriction of any kind shall be placed on the use of the ballot.

The other bill was introduced in the House of Representatives by Mr Ashley of Nevada. It proposes to divide the Territory of Utah, except the portion already settled and occupied, between Nevada, Colorado, Idaho, and Wyoming. This would reduce Utah to so small a compass that it could never become a State, even if there were no objection to its inhabitants and their institutions.

It does not seem probable that either of these bills will be enacted within the few weeks remaining of the present session of Congress. But there is little doubt that some law for the repression of Mormonism will be passed within the next two or three years. Whenever the Mormons have been struck brought into contact with other people, serious difficulties have arisen, and, after fighting awhile, the Saints have had to move. Since they have lived in the Salt Lake Valley they have been remote from the Gentiles, and conflicts have been avoided. But now the Gentiles are coming near them, the stream of traffic that will soon flow across the continent will leave settlements all along its channel, and the isolation of Salt Lake will soon be at an end.

The collisions of the interest and sentiment that will thus be brought about will only serve to intensify and inflame the antagonism of feeling with which Mormonism is now so generally regarded. Laws like those proposed by Cragin and Ashley will be passed; they will be put in force. The Mormons will rebel against these laws. Active hostilities will break out between the Saints and the Gentiles around them. Troops will be sent to Utah, and at the end of a fierce and sanguinary civil war, the Mormons will consent to move once more. Of necessity their next migration must be by sea. Going west toward Jerusalem, whence Nephi, the hero of their sacred book, set out upon his eastward travels, he will make for some of the great islands of the Pacific that are inhabited by very few savages, where they can establish their empire without danger of any further interference from the adherents of other religions and other political systems.

This seems to be pretty hard lines for a people as sincere, as honest, as industrious, and as successful in making a garden out of the desert as the Mormons. We wish it was possible to predict a different future for them. But there are no other forces so powerful as ideas. Those of the Mormons are in sharp opposition with those of the American people in general. It is inevitable that they should rush against each other; and we do not think it is possible, either by the prudence of statesmanship or the appeals of philanthropy, very much to delay or mitigate very much the fury of the encounter.—New York Sun.

The extraordinary and constantly-increasing demand for iron and steel for mechanical purposes, and the great importance that these should be of the best possible quality, have led to the establishment of a new scientific institution by the iron-masters and others in the North of England. It is proposed to call it "The Institution of Steel and Iron," and the business of the members will be the discussion of all matters relating to steel and iron, with the view of improving these metals as far as possible.

An experiment is about to be tried on a grand scale, with the revenues of the United Kingdom to back it. Her Majesty's armor-plated ship Monarch is to have a set of gas-works erected on board, and is to be lighted in every part by gas. The Monarch will go careering over the seas as though she were a jeweller's shop in Regent street, or a well-appointed villa at Peckham. Imagine two fleets of the olden time going into action with the gas half-turned down. And this suggests the question, what would happen supposing the metres to have a shot put into them, leaving the vessel in utter darkness? The pictures we have of those ancient timber castles, with their dusky gun decks reeking of oil, and feebly lit up by a few pendent lamps, will look obsolete indeed when we have our men-of-war coming to be lighted by night all aglare with brilliant jets, gas signals on the quarters, gas, it may be, at the masthead, gas below and above, in every cabin, over every gun—a sight that would petrify the Jack Tars of another day.

Letters from California continue to bring fearful accounts of the prevalence of small-pox on the Pacific coast. In San Francisco, the pest-houses are full, and funerals are of constant occurrence, the burials in many cases taking place at night. The Chinese, it is stated, have suffered severely, three cases out of five of the patients belonging to this nation terminating fatally. This unusual mortality arises from the ignorance of the native doctors. Melancholy as the accounts from San Francisco are, the towns in the southern part of California, are still great sufferers. Malignant small-pox is attacking almost every one, and vaccination does not seem to afford any protection. Hospitals have been hastily organized, but no beneficial efforts from them have as yet been perceived. Whole families are swept away, and in one instance a father and four children died within forty-eight hours. San Juan, a town of 1,000 inhabitants, in Monterey County, lost 180 out of 400 small-pox patients. In the country, away from the reach of skillful medical advice, two-thirds of the cases, it is asserted, prove fatal.

AN ASTRONOMICAL PROBLEM.

The University of Chicago possesses one of the largest telescopes in the world perhaps the largest. The University itself, which was built and endowed by the Baptist denomination, is an honour not only to that respectable body of Christians but to America; and when the north wing is completed—which, if fortune smile, will be during the summer of this year—it will be one of the most beautiful college structures in the United States.

The destined work of this wonderful telescope is to make—in connection with the nine chief observatories of Europe and America—an entirely new catalogue of 250,000 stars, determining the right ascension and declination of each particular star; so that by observing its position, astronomers may, in far off ages, be able to pronounce authoritatively upon its motion, and to declare in what direction it has proceeded through the illimitable voids. At this moment it is slowly and silently peforming its sublime work, and furnishing those far off astronomers the data upon which to base their calculations respecting that mighty problem, the direct motion of the sun through space. When this is solved, data will also be abundant for locating the position of the great Central sun, around which millions upon millions of other suns, popularly denominated stars, do in all probability revolve. The great work being divided among the ten principal observatories of the world, will make the share of it falling to the Chicago Observatory 25,000 stars—upon each one of which the most careful observations will be made and recorded. It will require about ten years to accomplish this stupendous work, and when it is done we may expect some most important astronomical discoveries.

This meridian circle, however, is not the only thing which the enterprize of these brave and scholarly Baptists has given to Chicago. They have had constructed an enormous refractor, which has no equal on this Continent, and perhaps not in Europe—for the order was to produce the best that skill could make, and money purchase. And thus night after night in the long watches, and in the great silences of the immensities, where the universe broods over its yet unformed and shapeless worlds, this wonderful instrument, as if with the instincts of creative power, silently gathers up those mysterious nebulæ, that look in heaven like the luminous foam of a bundless sea. Already more than a hundred stars have been discovered by it whose light has never before descended upon mortal eyes. A hundred new worlds!—and all this potter over our old hulk of a planet, which, in comparison with some of them, is but as a point in the infinite.

The university has of late raised 150,000 more dollars, and the Hon. W. B. Ogden has just contributed to this amount the additional sum of fifty thousand, which will place the college on a still firmer basis.

During the month of January 5,566 immigrants arrived at Castle Garden, against 5,255 during the same period last year. The receipts have been $102,141 15 and the expenses $26,365 24.

Mention was made some time ago of the noble contributions made to the educational and charitable objects of Glasgow by the late Mr Clark, jun, of Mile-end. The portion of Mr Clark's estate set apart for the foundation of bursaries in the University of Glasgow is in value somewhere about £30,000, and this large fund will be available in the course of two years. This is perhaps the largest benefaction conferred by a private individual upon any university in Scotland. The legacy to the Royal Infirmary, which becomes available on the death of Mrs Clark, will amount to not less, we believe, than £20,000, so that for the aid of two of the foremost institutions in Glasgow Mr Clark has bequeathed £50,000.—Glasgow Herald.

Two important orders have just been issued from the War-office to the commanding officers of the volunteer force, which show that the new administration of that department are determined to carry out the principles of economy in that as well as in other branches of the military service. The first, although at present only addressed to the artillery branch of the volunteer service, may be taken as the prelude to what is to follow with respect to other branches. An order has now been issued restricting the number of instructors in the respective battalions and brigades of artillery throughout the kingdom from the 1st of February next. From this period, therefore, the number of instructors is to be restricted to one for from one to three battalions or companies; from four to seven, two instructors; from eight to 11, three instructors; from 12 to 15, four instructors; and from 16 and upwards, five instructors. The second order relates to the allowance by the War-office at the rate of £4 per annum per company to adjutants for postage and stationery. The new War-office order addressed to commanding officers directs that for the future all such expenditure shall take place under the orders of the commanding officer, to take place from the 1st of January. An account of the expenditure for postage and stationery is to be submitted by the adjutant to the commanding officer, what he has expended during the year at the end of the financial year, and a statement of the balance in the hands of the adjutant of each regiment, also to be transmitted to the War-office.

THE GOLD DIGGINGS IN SUTHERLAND.—The gold diggings in the Strath of Kildonan and the Seisgill Burn are attracting numbers of treasure-seekers. No nuggets of any great size have been got, but a number of people have succeeded in getting quantities estimated in some instances as high as to pay them from 5s. to 90s. for their day's work. The gold is got in small particles in the alluvial soil washed down from the mountains by the river; and in consequence of the swollen state of the streams at present this is the most unfavourable system of prosecuting the search. It may, and doubtless will, happen that the net gains of the parties engaged will dwindle down considerably when they come to be tested; but at present the belief is strong in the district that the gold washing will pay. The people engaged are new to the operation of washing, and a tin dish and a trowel or spade are all the tools required. It is quite probable that the washing of the alluvial drift may yield paying quantities of gold in the richest spots, and, if so, it is equally probable that quartz crushing would pay also; but for the latter a large expenditure of capital and proper machinery, both for mining and crushing the quartz and assimilating the gold, would be required. In Australia it is the alluvial washings that pay best, with least labour and capital, and quartz crushing is mostly carried on by wealthy companies. We believe a petition, signed by almost every inhabitant of Holmsdale, has been forwarded to the duke, praying him to give every facility for working the Kildonan gold diggings.—John o' Groat Journal.

HORSES SAVED.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy.' This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hord & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

The efficacy of Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers in curing Coughs, Colds, and all Bronchial affections, and cheering the afflicted, has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where these marvellous Wafers are known, they bear down all opposition and eclipse all rivalry; the demand for them has steadily increased for the last twenty years, until now the sales average over one hundred thousand boxes a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number admit that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as these wafers. When taken in season they effect a permanent cure. Sold by every druggist and most of the respectable stores throughout the Province, at 25 cents per box.

Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman: We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains quiet sleep, and its parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any consideration whatever.

Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.

DR. VICTOR BAUD'S ORGANIC MEDICINE.

DR V. BAUD, Graduate and Member of the Medical College of Paris, Chief Physician Extraordinary for Epidemics in Paris, late M.D. of the Civil Hospitals of Algiers, has just introduced in England his ORGANIC MEDICINES.

They consist of three preparations—

THE BAUDEINE,

An efficient and prompt Remedy for Cholera, Yellow Fever, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, and the excessive action of the Bowels. A gold medal was awarded by the French Government to Dr V. Baud for this valuable preparation.

Price: Small, 1s 1½d; Medium, 4s 5d; Large Size, 11s per Bottle.

THE DIASTATIZED IRON,

For strengthening the System.—Price 2s 9d per Bottle.

THE DIASTATIZED IODINE,

For purifying the Blood.—Price 2s 9d per Bottle.

 The above Preparations are in the form of Sweetmeats, pleasant to the taste, and particularly adapted for Infants and Mothers nursing.

By the combination of the Iron or Iodine with Cress Seeds in a state of germination, they are united with organic life, which thus renders them digestible. The irritative and stubborn mineral has thus become the nucleus of an organic substance capable of being absorbed by the blood without injury to the stomach.

Agent for England and British Possessions,
E. G. DUFRESNE, 79 Wadling Street.

May be obtained of all Chemists.
